BLACK LEGION BARES AIM OF AMERICAN DICTATORSHIP AND CLAIMS 3,000,000 MEMBERS IN ARMED SOCIETY

BANKRUPTCY ACT IS RULED ILLEGAL BY DIVIDED COURT

Split 5 to 4, U. S. Supreme Tribunal Declares That Plan Enacted in '34 To Aid Municipalities Violation of States' Rights.

DECISION AWAITED ON N. Y. WAGE LAW

Government Efforts To Reduce Service Charges for Buying and Selling Livestock Is Invalidated

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP) In a sharply divided 5-to-4 decision that killed another law enacted under the New Deal, the supreme court today declared unconstitutional the 1934 municipal bankruptcy act.

On the ground that it violated states' rights, the majority swept the statute, intended to help cities, counties and other political subdivisions reduce their indebtedness through federal bankruptcy courts, to the same fate met by NRA, AAA and the Guffey coal control act.

A dissenting opinion, writteen by Justice Cardozo, and subscribed to by Chief Justice Hughes and Justices Brandeis and Stone, sharply challenged the conclusion of the majority and spoke of the care with which the governmental power of the state and its subdivisions are maintained inviolate" under the legislation.

Justice McReynolds, joined by Justices Van Devanter, Sutherland, Butler and Roberts, wrote the majority opinion, reaching the conclusion that:

No Longer Free.

"If obligations of states or their political subdivisions may be subjected to the interference here attempted, they are no longer free to manage their own affairs."

This decision was the climax of a busy session which saw the government defeated in two other disputes and victorious in two.

The government lost in its effort to reduce service charges for buying and selling livestock at the Kansas City stockyards. In a unanimous opinion by Chief Justice Hughes, the

Four CCC Boys Die In Jersey Woods Fire

MANAHAWKIN, N. J., May 25.—(AP)—Four Civilian Conservation Corps workers attached to the New Gretna camp burned to death tonight while fighting a forest fire which swept many acres of pine woodland in Ocean county.

The victims were not immediately identified. Their bodies were found in the vicinity of Stafford Forge, midway between Tuckerton and Barnegat, after the flames had passed on. They were burned too badly to be recognized.

Defied Probers Are Still Undecided On Dr. Townsend Contempt Action

Speaker Byrns, Declaring 'House Will Not Be Flouted,' Favors Court Punishment of Pension Leader; Meeting on Situation Called for Today.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP)—An assertion that "the house will not be flouted" by Dr. F. E. Townsend came from democratic leaders today while an investigating committee pondered the problem of how to press a contempt action against the old-age pension leader.

Chairman Bell, democrat, Missouri, and members of his investigating committee declined comment until after a meeting called for tomorrow, but Speaker Byrns and Representative Bankhead, democrat, Alabama, the majority leader, contended that Townsend's walk out on the committee and subsequent defiant statements were ample basis for a contempt action.

"The house of representatives is not going to be flouted," Byrns said. "I do not know what action the committee will take, but personally I believe Dr. Townsend should be tried in federal court instead of in the house."

Committee members were reported still at odds today over the question of whether the California physician should be tried before the bar of the house or in court.

The drive for adjournment of congress in two weeks was in the minds of those who said they believed Townsend's case should be turned over to the courts. Others, however, contended only a trial before the house would satisfy the dignity of that body.

ANTI-JEWISH RIOTS SEEN AS REBELLION

Armed Forces, Tanks and Planes Fail To Halt Jerusalem Disorders.

JERUSALEM, May 25.—(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—After 40 days of guerrilla warfare by Arabs against Jews and government forces there was a growing conviction among many observers today that Palestine is undergoing a major, well-organized rebellion rather than simple anti-Jewish disorders.

Since April 15 there have been 50 deaths by violence, 27 of them Jews. Twenty of the dead were Arab rioters, killed by police and troops. One was a Christian, whose slayer mistook him for a Jew. Another was a British soldier, killed yesterday in a battle with Arabs attempting a wholesale jail delivery of Arab convicts, and another victim was an Arab constable.

Not One Apprehended.

Not one of the Arab slayers has been apprehended. In the same period, more than 70 Jews have been wounded by knifing, stoning and shooting. Approximately the same number of Arabs have been wounded by police and soldiers. Sniping, ambuscades and pitched battles have resulted in the wounding of a number of British soldiers and policemen.

Despite the strongest concentration of armed forces in the Holy Land since the World War, comprising more than 3,000 soldiers, daring depredations are continuing.

Planes circling low over trouble centers like Jaffa; artillery, tanks, armored cars, infantry patrolling streets and roads with fixed bayonets, police armed with machine guns—all have failed to stem the swift-striking tactics of Arabs engaged in a civil disobedience general strike.

600 Persons Arrested.

Arrests of more than 600 persons, drastic curfew regulations in almost every important city in Palestine, practical martial law on the roads of central and southern Palestine have also failed to curb the marauders.

Every effort of the government to break up the general strike, called in protest against Jewish immigration and sale of land to Jews, has ended in failure. Damage to property is mounting into millions of dollars.

Bombings of Jewish places of business, government property such as police stations and bridges; arson, uprooting of trees and the continual cutting of telephone and telegraph wires have kept the Holy Land in a state of terror.

Veterans of previous disorders point out the essential differences between the present situation and that, for example, in 1929, when more ahan 100 Jews were slain.

TWO AUTO DEATHS BOOST TOLL HERE

A one-year-old child and a 35-year-old man were added yesterday to the ever-mounting death list of traffic victims in the city. Other Atlantans were sent to hospitals suffering dangerous and painful injuries as the traffic grist mill continues to grind out its bloody chaff.

Teddy Miller, one-year-old son of Mrs. Dorothy Miller, of 192 Pine street N. E., was fatally injured when a car, said by police to have been driven by Mrs. Miller, crashed into a parked machine at Ponce de Leon avenue and Boulevard yesterday morning. The child died at Georgia Baptist hospital last night a few hours after George A. Olson, 35, of 2579 North Decatur road, died in Grady hospital of injuries suffered Sunday when he was struck by an automobile.

Deaths of the infant and Olson brought the traffic toll within the city limits of Atlanta to 29 since the first of the year and to eight for the present month. If the toll set this month were to continue for the rest of the year a new all-time auto death carnage for Atlanta would result.

Olson was struck down by an automobile driven, according to police, by M. G. Johnston, 27, of 512 Lakeshore drive. Johnston was charged with reckless driving and released under $2,000 bond. Olson's death marks the twenty-eighth fatal traffic accident in the city limits of Atlanta since the first of the year and is the seventh during May.

Two other persons were injured in the accident in which the Miller infant was killed.

Mrs. Harold Hirsch, wife of Harold Hirsch, prominent Atlanta attorney, an occupant of the parked car, was slightly injured in the accident, police said. She was shaken up and bruised. Miss Evelyn Lewis, 17, of 433 Washington street, an occupant of Mrs. Miller's car, also was slightly injured.

Retired Physician Hurt.

Dr. J. H. Walton, retired Atlanta physician of 85 Warren street, N. E., suffered a fracture of the left arm, a sprained back and lacerations and bruises when he was knocked down in front of 7 Peachtree street by a truck driven, according to police, by Robert Williams, negro, of 333 Markham street.

Police said that Dr. Walton walked between two parked cars into the path of the truck. No charges were booked against the driver. Dr. Walton was treated at Grady hospital and then dismissed.

COMMITTEE DELAY ON TAXES, RELIEF ALARMS SOLONS

Revenue Measure Halted in Search for Additional Levies as Leaders Push for Adjournment.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP)—Congressional leaders, pressing for adjournment of the session by the end of next week, expressed alarm today over the unexpected delays in committee action on the keystone tax and relief bills.

Democratic managers were ready to give both measures the right of way on the senate floor, but neither progressed according to schedule in committee today.

The tax bill was snagged in the finance committee by a lagging search for additional revenue. Administration chieftains were demanding that the $620,000,000 of annual revenue asked by President Roose velt be provided.

Figures Too Conservative.

Estimates of the yield from the committee's compromise on corporation taxes was only $560,000,000, but some senators were willing to let it go at that. They contended the treasury's computations of the probable income were too conservative.

Fresh demands for information meanwhile tied up the $2,364,000,000 relief-deficiency bill in the appropriations subcommittee which has been studying the measure. Instead of getting down to voting, the subcommittee spent all morning questioning Comptroller General J. R. McCarl and Daniel Bell, acting director of the budget.

Report Today.

Although appearing disapopinted over the failure of the finance committee to get together on the tax bill, Chairman Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, forecast the group would report the measure tomorrow. Other committee members were not so optimistic.

Most of today's session was spent in discussing various possibilties for getting additional revenue, without reaching the point of taking a vote on any specific plan. There was even talk of throwing over the compromise corporate tax plan for one that would raise more revenue.

Discussion centered, however, on proposals for getting the additional

WINE IMPORTATION ATTACKED IN SUIT

Court Asked To Bar Road From Bringing 'Foreign' Beverage Into Georgia.

A fight to open the way for Georgia wine producers was begun yesterday when a suit seeking to prevent the Southern railroad from hauling any wine into this state from other states was filed in Fulton superior court.

The petition for a permanent injunction restraining the railroad company from transporting "foreign" wine into Georgia was filed in behalf of the Montezuma Frozen Fruits Company by George and John L. Westmoreland, J. R. Terrell Jr. and Henry M. Henderson.

They sought a temporary injunction also but Judge Virlyn B. Moore, who signed a rule nisi for the railroad

Five Die in Crash Of Canadian Plane

AMOS, Quebec, May 25.—(AP)—Four passengers and Pilot W. H. Clarke, of a General Airways plane, were killed in a crash at Chibougamau Lake, 100 miles northeast of here, late Saturday, it was learned tonight.

Information from Rouyn, Quebec, said the known dead, besides Clarke, were W. Milne, a mechanic of the air company, and Leo Springer, prominent Canadian mining man and head of Ceres Explorations Limited. The names of the two others were not known here.

Three-Month Watch Ends as Cash Is Apportioned to Banks Over Georgia.

Georgia's national guardsmen yesterday ended their three-month watch over the state treasury. On orders from Adjutant General Lindley W. Camp, the civilian clad detail guarding the state's cash in the treasury vault since the ouster of George B. Hamilton as state treasurer ended its tour of duty at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The troopers have been on duty 24 hours a day, working in eight-hour shifts.

Meanwhile the treasurer, J. B. Daniel, announced that state bonds, other securities, with the exception of about $1,000,000 worth of bonds, as well as the cash, have been removed to depositories over the state.

No Trouble Experienced.

In announcing the removal of the detail, Adjutant General Camp called attention to the fact that there has not been the slightest trouble around the treasury during the time the men were on duty. In his order relieving the detail, General Camp said:

"The money and valuable securities having been removed from the treasury vault, the treasury guard will be relieved at 3:30 p. m. effective this date.

"For the commander in chief and myself, it is desired to express our appreciation to you and the men of your command for the efficient, painstaking and ever-alert manner in which they have handled this detail."

24 Men Were Used.

General Camp said that 24 men, in addition to Captain Black, had been

Hindenburg Begins South American Hop

FRANKFORT-AM-MAIN, Germany, May 25.—(AP)—The dirigible Hindenburg, carrying 40 passengers and much freight, took off tonight for South America. Captain Ernest Lehmann was in command.

The freight included a sport plane to be delivered to Rio de Janeiro. The huge ship also carried approximately 200,000 pieces of mail.

Murder Suspect Freed On Lie Detector 'Proof'

CHICAGO, May 25.—(AP)—Oliver Armbruster, 42, was released by the state's attorney tonight after he underwent two "lie detector" examinations in which he detailed his story of how his wife shot herself to death in their apartment yesterday.

Armbruster maintained that Wilma, his wife of two months, repentant after he had found her drinking in a tavern with a strange man, had seized his gun, and shot herself in the head.

SOCIALISTS A GAIN NOMINATE THOMAS

Rightwingers, With Biggest Delegation Unseated, Voice Small "No."

CLEVELAND, May 25.—(AP)—For a third time Norman Thomas was nominated today as the socialist candidate for president.

Both were nominated with little opposition, Nelson unanimously.

Thomas, the party nominee in 1928 and 1932, was selected by an overwhelming voice vote.

There was a low cry of "No" from some members of right-wing delegations—defeated in a bitter week-end dispute, which ended in the seating of the leftist, Thomas, delegation and the organization of a new party by the New York "Old Guard" after its delegation was turned down by the convention.

Platform Delayed.

The nomination of Thomas was made by Dr. Harry W. Laidler, co-director with the nominee of the League for Industrial Democracy—

Talmadge's Step-Son Is Sued by Waitress

Alleging that John A. Peterson, stepson of Governor Talmadge, had driven off with her without her consent and then had an accident, Miss Willie Jean Rickett, 22, waitress at a Farmers' Market cafe, filed suit for $5,000 damages yesterday in Fulton superior court.

Miss Rickett, through her attorney, T. J. Lewis, declared that Peterson and two friends, named as H. D. Ellis and C. A. Giles, ordered beer from the place where she worked on the night of February 15, 1936. When she brought the order, he told her to wait in the car and carry the bottles back with her, she asserted.

Instead he drove off and refused to allow her to get out and return to her work, the girl stated. While driving at between 50 and 80 miles per hour, Peterson had an automobile accident and she was badly injured, her suit set forth. She seeks damages for an injured collar bone, left shoulder, knee and bruises and contusions on her body.

INVASION OF STATE BY TVA ATTACKED

Power Company Attorneys Fight Federal Electrification Project.

Coming into Georgia as an owner of private property, the Tennessee Valley Authority, the federal government's rural electrification project, is subject to taxes, Public Service Commission regulations and the police power of the state, it was argued yesterday in United States district court by Walter T. Colquitt, attorney for the Georgia Power Company.

Colquitt's argument was based on an answer from the TVA read to Judge Samuel H. Sibley yesterday by William C. Fitts Jr., of Knoxville.

Arguments in the case will probably be concluded today, but it was intimated this case will reach the United States supreme court before it is ended.

Grounds of Attack.

The Georgia Power Company is fighting on the grounds that the act creating the TVA is unconstitutional; that the TVA has no right to distribute and sell power in Georgia without the consent of the state and that the TVA is actually a commercial competitor of the power company under one construction of the TVA act, while it holds itself above all state regulations under another construction of the act.

Fitts admitted the TVA is in a combine with a recently-chartered organization in Georgia, called the North Georgia Electric Membership Association. This association is proposing to take over lines the TVA has built in Catoosa county, near Ringgold, Ga.

"There are only 36 transmission lines to serve approximately 300 customers," Fitts argued as he minimized

Attempts To Dominate Flint, Pontiac Governments Charged; Auto Death Laid to Vigilantes

DETROIT, May 25.—(AP)—Political implications of the hooded and robed Black Legion came into the foreground tonight with the assertion by Harry Colburn, chief investigator for the Wayne county (Detroit) prosecutor's office that members told him the ultimate aim was a United States dictatorship.

Colburn previously had disclosed claims of members that there were 135,000 black legionnaires in Michigan alone, all pledged to possess arms, and all organized along military lines.

In Lima, Ohio, V. F. Effinger, who answered queries about his reported connection with the order by saying "What if I am the leader, we do not countenance murders," said the Black Legion has 3,000,000 members.

Colburn said members told him that the organization was perfected for the purpose of establishing a dictatorship "when the time is ripe," under the national leader (not Effinger) who, he said, lives near the Ohio-West Virginia border.

Product of Depression.

Arthur F. Lupp, Highland Park, Mich., milk inspector whose name was found in correspondence concerning the order, according to Owen Dudley, Jackson (Mich.) county prosecutor, submitted to questioning late today at police headquarters.

In an interview, Lupp said the Black Legion made its greatest growth during the depression.

"It is made up of good people in all walks of life, who were brought to their senses when communism and

King Edward Flies To Inspect New Liner

SOUTHAMPTON, England, May 25.—(AP)—The British royal family, headed by England's flying monarch, bade "good voyage" to the new liner Queen Mary tonight.

From Queen Mary, still in deep mourning for her late husband, to little Princess Elizabeth, in gray tweed and a mauve straw hat, they insisted on seeing virtually every part of the giant ship which will begin its maiden voyage to New York Wednesday.

King Edward, flying to and from Windsor to the East Leigh airdrome, near the docks, spent four hours on the vessel.

The inspection trip, which other members of the family continued after the king started home, occupied the entire afternoon.

The ship, which the queen-mother christened, is "even more beautiful than I expected," she told Captain Britten.

Cobb Says: Country Needs Fool Killer

By IRVIN S. COBB.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 25.—Into a sour soup-stock of religious and racial hatred, stir a mess of high-sounding titles, bloodcurdling oaths and foolish regalias, and you've got a mixture with an irresistible appeal to parties whose average hat size is six and an eighth and whose souls are aslosh in the bilge-water of bigotry. Presently they're adding miscellaneous murder to their mummery, as in Michigan, where sundry gallant heroes seem about due to suffer prolonged attacks of short-haired paleness, which is a disease brought on by wearing a close haircut behind some high stone walls.

They say such organized intolerance epidemics come in waves, but did you ever notice that we never have any of these waves when America is at war? Then nobody objects to putting Catholics or Jews or negroes in the firing line. Nobody questions their patriotism or their fitness to defend the nation's flag and, after a while, peace comes and all of a sudden a lot of folks discover that those of certain creeds and a certain color are unworthy to be classed as citizens or even as human beings entitled to the common rights of human beings; and we have a fresh crop of klans and leagues and invisible empires.

What this country needs is a first-class fool killer.

Crippled Man in Wheel Chair Hurt; Driver of Auto Is Held as Drunk

A crippled man in a wheel chair, out selling pencils to get room rent, due today, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon on Pryor street, near Auburn avenue, when struck by an automobile, the driver of which police later charged with drunken driving.

A man listed as J. S. Dougherty, 47, of 837 Durant place, N. E., an insurance adjuster, was arrested by Motorcycle Patrolman Bevo Brooks. He was booked on charges of drunk, operating an automobile, and having an accident.

Anderson told Hospital Patrolman J. J. Elliott he was being pushed along Pryor street by his 12-year-old brother, Fred Anderson, when struck. He said that the car that hit him was going slowly, but headed directly toward him in time for him to yell to his brother to push him out of the path. The boy, witnesses said, was evidently frightened by the cries of the crippled man and bystanders and could not get the wheel chair out of the path of the automobile. The boy was not hurt.

SOCIALISTS NOMINATE THOMAS THIRD TIME and by Mayor Daniel Webster Hoan, of Milwaukee.

The hall was a mass of red flags as delegates paraded about the aisles with the standards of their states. Thomas led the delegates in the singing of the "International," with his right arm aloft and fist clenched, as he was carried on the shoulders of delegates from his home state to the platform for an informal acceptance speech of a few words.

He brought a long round of laughter when he declared:

"Nomination Free."

"I am not some sudden apparition from a remote world, who has been hiding out for weeks and appears with surprise when he finds out he is the candidate. No, it is not like that in the socialist party.

"And one thing more, I've not spent a cent for the nomination. That, again, is something peculiar to the nominees of our party."

At one side of the hall, during all the nominating speeches and the enthusiastic welcoming of her husband, sat Mrs. Thomas—knitting unconcernedly as she always does at party meetings.

Nelson, a former Wisconsin assemblyman and speaker of the assembly for one term, has served on the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin.

Nelson Is Veteran.

A member of the socialist party since 1899, Nelson has been continuously active in farmer and trade union organizations and for many years was president of the Wisconsin Society of Equity. He is one of the national directors of the National Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union.

In the war days, Nelson joined with the elder Robert La Follette, of Wiscousin, in the campaign against the war.

Communists Lose.

The convention quickly turned down the proposal of Earl Browder, general secretary of the communist party, for a political "united front" with a joint ticket in the coming campaign.

The refusal came with the reading of a letter from Browder to the national executive committee of the party. It was tabled without controversy.

This settled the issue of national joint political action and consultation. However, the question of a "united front" in local instances such as May Day demonstrations, may come up tomorrow in the discussions of party policy.

ZIONCHECK RETURNS WITH NOVEL BICYCLE

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP)—Representative Marion Zioncheck and his 21-year-old bride returned on the liner Scanpenn late today from their turbulent three-week honeymoon cruise in the Caribbean bringing with them a new three-speed bicycle.

The Washington congressman explained he expected to do a lot of his traveling on the bicycle in the future to avoid being arrested for speeding.

He said that all his previous arrests for speeding, except the first arrest at Alexandria, Va., were "framed" by local authorities so they could get some publicity.

"The bicycle won't go faster than 25 miles an hour," he added. "That ought to get by all right."

used on the detail. The men were quartered and fed at the Fort McPherson rifle range, which is the property of the state.

During the service of the guard, Atlanta banks withheld for a time state money on deposit with them on which the Governor eventually collected 7 per cent interest.

"The interest paid on this money was more than enough to pay the costs of the extra guards," General Camp said. "Each guardsman drew his regular pay and received his regular subsistence while on duty. The men did a fine job and it is appreciated by all."

DR. COLBERT IS FREED OF POISONING CHARGES

TIENTSIN, China, May 26.—(Tuesday)—(AP)—Dr. John W. Colbert, 50-year-old American physician accused of attempting to kill his fourth wife by poisoning her, was acquitted today in a United States court.

The physician, who formerly lived in St. Louis, Mo., was released immediately upon acquittal.

His young wife testified in his defense against the charge made by government witnesses that he gave her poison after diagnosing her illness as anemia and an enlarged heart.

"HOUZEE" TO QUEEN.

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands, May 25.—(AP)—Police charged nazi groups on the chief Amsterdam square fronting the royal palace late tonight and many persons were wounded. The nazis shouted "Houzee!"—the Dutch equivalent of the German nazi "heil"—just after Queen Wilhelmina had withdrawn from the palace balcony.

Reds Backwater on Easy Divorces And Plan Big Premiums on Babies

MOSCOW, May 25.—(AP)—An end of the easy divorce system in Russia and creation of new, strict family responsibilities were foreshadowed in the project of a law issued tonight for public approval.

The project will reduce divorces by the simple expedient of putting them beyond the purse of the average person. Divorced or separated parents will have to pay up to 60 per cent of their incomes for the support of their children.

Women who submit to operations to prevent childbirth will be fined and held up to public rebuke, and doctors performing such operations will be punished by imprisonment.

Glorifying the family, the project commits the government to an agreement to pay large premiums for the births of all children after the seventh.

It is intended, the introduction says, to put an end to "light mindedness" in family relations.

The project, issued by the central executive committee, highest government organ, will be discussed at workers and farmers assemblages, after which it will be enacted into law.

It declares that woman's "honored duty as a mother" is nowhere more highly esteemed than in the soviet union.

A tax of 50 rubles will be collected for the first divorce, 150 rubles for the second and 300 rubles for all subsequent divorces.

A divorced parent who is employed must pay one-third of his salary to support one child, 50 per cent for two, and 60 per cent for three or more.

The state will pay 2,000 rubles a year for five years for the eighth child born to any family, and the same amount for each additional child up to the twelfth, when the payment will be increased to 5,000 rubles the first year and 3,000 during the four succeeding years.

The project was accompanied by an announcement that the state will increase its expenditures for maternity hospitals, nurseries, dairy stations and kindergartens in 1936 to 2,174,000,000 rubles, compared with 875,000,000 during 1935.

FREDDIE'S CUSTODY IS STILL UNDECIDED

LOS ANGELES, May 25.—(AP)—Judge Harry R. Archbald postponed decision today on the custody of Freddie Bartholomew, 12-year-old screen actor who earns $1,000 weekly.

"I sincerely hope this matter can be settled without further litigation," said the judge in continuing the hearing until June 8.

Freddie now is in the care of his aunt, Mrs. Myllicent Bartholomew. His mother, Lilian May Bartholomew, is suing to return him to her custody. Judge Archbald previously indicated he favored the mother's case.

Judge Archbald granted the postponement to permit the boy's father, Cecil Llewellyn Bartholomew, to arrive here from England to testify.

IMPORTATION OF WINE INTO STATE ATTACKED

company to show cause on May 30 why the permanent restraining order should not be granted, refused it.

Basing the petition on the alcoholic beverage control act of 1935, the attorneys for the frozen fruits company declared the law expressly prohibits the importation and sale of "foreign" wines in Georgia and makes legal only those wines produced in Georgia of Georgia materials.

It was set forth that the Southern railroad is knowingly accepting for transportation into Georgia wines that are "fortified" and of more alcoholic strength than is possible through natural fermentation.

Should the injunction be granted, it was understood similar suits will be filed against many freight lines, both motor and rail.

Wine Making Planned.

The Montezuma Frozen Fruits Company, the petition declares, is located at Montezuma, Ga., and is engaged in producing and procuring juices of grapes, berries and peaches with which to manufacture wine for Georgia consumption.

It was set out this company already has approximately 3,100 barrels of peach juice for this purpose.

If the railroad is allowed to continue import of wines from other states, it will prevent the sale of Georgia products, the suit stated. W. R. Tucker was named as president of the company.

NO BIDDERS ON HUGE JOB.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP)—The Public Works Administration announced today no bids had been received for construction of a proposed $1,150,000 low-cost housing project at Charleston, S. C., when the time limit closed. Failure of contractors to make offers was attributed to the complicated manner in which the project was placed on the market.

'G-MEN' CALLED UPON TO END BLACK TERROR

other guns crept into the United States from foreign countries," he said.

Asked about reports of floggings and other acts of terrorism ascribed to the organization, he replied "I can't discuss the ritual." He declared, however, that the slaying of Charles Poole, 32-year-old WPA worker for which 13 alleged Black Legion members were arraigned today, was without his knowledge. He knew nothing of it, he said, until he read of it in the newspapers.

Cannot Withdraw.

Of reports that Black Legion members are threatened with dire consequences should they withdraw, Lupp said: "When I join an organization, I make a pledge to stay with it for the rest of my life. You can't take that with a grain of salt."

He said the claims of 135,000 members in Michigan were "as good a guess as any," and declined to name his superior officers in the organization.

Colburn said he was investigating seven deaths in Detroit to ascertain if there was any connection with the Black Legion.

One, he said, was that of George Marchuk, described by police at the time as a radical sympathizer, of suburban Lincoln Park. He was found dead of a bullet wound on December 22, 1933, and his death was recorded as a suicide. Colburn declined to name the other persons whose deaths are under investigation.

Victims of mob terrorism came forward under promise of protection with new accounts of slayings, floggings and arson by masked night riders wearing the death's head insignia.

Charges that the outlawed secret order, which one investigator declared has an armed membership of 135,000 in Michigan alone, sought political dominance through scourge and pistol brought official inquiries in two large Michigan cities.

In another, a grand jury sifted evidence in a reported death by flogging, and in Detroit Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea asked the Department of Justice for aid in a fight "to uproot and destroy" the hooded organization whose members, he said, "once initiated can never resign."

13 Arraigned.

Thirteen members of the terrorist society were arraigned here today on charges of kidnaping and murder in the "ritual execution" of Charles A. Poole, whose death in a lonely roadside ditch brought into light the existence of the blood-banded fraternity.

Dayton Dean, city employe who has confessed he emptied two revolvers into Poole's kneeling body May 13, made a new statement today, John I. Navarre, head of the Detroit homicide squad, announced, in which he said the slayers had planned to hang the young WPA worker rather than shoot him to death.

Developments of the day included:

1. A grand jury investigation at Jackson into the death of Paul Every, whose widow charges he was beaten because he attempted to withdraw from the Black Legion.

2. An impending state grand jury investigation of the night-riding vigilantes.

3. Announcement at both Flint and Pontiac that rumors of Black Legion attempts at city political dominance would be sifted. Pontiac authorities announced an investigation to determine whether there is any basis for rumors certain patrolmen are members of a Black Legion unit.

4—An announcement by state police that at least seven witnesses, some of them former members of the Black Legion who were flogged, had agreed to testify secretly before the grand jury. "We may have as a witness a former member who tried to withdraw and whose barn was burned," the announcement said.

5—An assertio by Prosecutor Owen Dudley, of Jackson, that testimony indicating Jerome Garfield Wolfe, Marion, Ohio, oil prospector, whose body was found by the roadside near Napoleon late in 1933, might have been the victim of vigilantes, was given at the inquest into Wolfe's death. There were tire marks on Wolfe's body, and an autopsy revealed he had died of a ruptured liver.

Seek Higherups.

6—A search for suspected "higherups" in the organization.

7—The assertion at Jackson of Mrs. Ray Ernest, wife of a Michigan prison guard detained for questioning in Every's death, that the heavy whip found in the Ernest home together with Black Legion regalia, firearms and literature indicating Ernest was a "brigadier general" of the order, was hers and not her husband's. She told the prosecutor that she acquired the whip when she played in an "Uncle Tom" show.

8—An appeal by McCrea to all law enforcement agencies here, including the local office of the Department of Justice, for a "united front for the extermination of the Black Legion."

Among the documents seized in the raid on Ernest's home near Jackson was a copy of the initiation ritual by which each novitiate is ordered to arm himself as soon as possible and is required to bind himself to face death to carry out his superior's orders.

New members are told, Prosecutor Dudley said, that they may be given a special service requiring them to sign a pact in their own blood, that the purpose of the Black Legion is "to tear down, lay waste, despoil and kill our enemies" and that "mercy is repugnant."

The political aims of the band are shown, he said, by an oath required of every member that he will cast his vote in a public election in any way his chiefs demand.

The organization boasted, investigators said, that "our only formet members are those who are six feet under."

Gruesome Oath.

"I pledge my heart," my brain, my body and my limbs, never to betray a comrade," Dudley said the membership oath read. "I will submit to all the tortures mankind can inflict, and suffer the most horrible death rather than reveal a single word of this, my oath.

"Before violating a single clause or implied pledge of this, my obligation, I will pray to an avenging God or an unmerciful devil to tear out my heart and roast it over flames of sulphur."

A "history" of the Black Legion, branded "pure moonshine" by investigators, was among the confiscated documents. It claimed that the organization went back to colonial days, and that "its first escapade was the Boston tea party."

Assistant Prosecutor Ricca charged that membership was compulsory for those "invited" to join.

"A man might be asked to go on a fishing trip," Ricca said. "Then he would be notified he had been selected for membership and would be forced to go to a meeting at the point of a gun, if necessary, and required to take the oath of membership. No refusal was accepted."

Pleas of innocent were entered for 12 of the 13 held here in Poole's slaying when they stood mute at their arraignment today. They were denied bail and their examinations were set for Wednesday. The 13th man named in the warrants, George C. Johnson, was reported ill in a hospital and his arraignment was deferred.

Six Said Present.

Those arraigned were Harvey Davis, Black Legion "colonel," who McCrea said confessed that he presided at the meeting in the headquarters of the Wolverine Republican League when Poole's abduction was planned; Dayton Dean, Ervin D. Lee, Urban Lipps; Paul R. Edwards, and Edgar Baldwin, all of whom are accused of having been present at the "execution;" Herschel Gill and Lowell Rushing, relatives by marriage of Poole; Thomas R. Craig, John Bannerman, John B. Mitchell and John S. Vincent.

Prosecutor McCrea, who had branded as "too fantastic" earlier statements by four of the men that the motive for slaying Poole was the accusation, since proved to be false, that he had beaten his wife, announced today that two of them had admitted that "Poole was put to death because he knew too much. Poole was not a member.

Judge Cone Disagrees On Break, But Gives One

Jack Cohen was smiling, though a bit wanly, when his case was called in Judge John L. Cone's division of recorder's court yesterday afternoon.

"Jack, you are charged with being drunk. How do you plead?" asked the judge.

"Guilty, your honor," responded the prisoner, "but I certainly need a break. You see I'm going to be married tonight."

"The court agrees," Judge Cone replied, "you do need a break and I probably should send you to jail."

Cohen shifted from one foot to the other. Eyes that a minute before had been filled with the gleam of hopeful expectancy suddenly became expressionless.

The judge was speaking again—"to say the least, your alibi is unique and your idea of a 'break' doesn't coincide with mine, but if you have the temerity to 'spring' this one on me—and you apparently do—then I am going to be gullible enough to let you get away with it. The case is dismissed."

Member of Black Legion Changes Confession

GUYMON, Okla., May 25.—(AP)—The southwest "dust bowl" overflowed today from two days of heavy rains, and flood warnings mingled with the joyous predictions of farmers for a bumper feed crop.

Waters from the brimming "dust bowl" spilled over into the lowlands of southern Kansas and northern Oklahoma, bringing a flood warning from the United States Weather Bureau at Wichita, Kan., for the Arkansas river valley between the Kansas-Colorado line and Dodge City, Kansas.

High waters from three inches of rain in recently arid Beaver county, Oklahoma, sent the North Canadian out of its banks below Woodward, Okla., inundating a state highway and halting traffic.

The entire Texas panhandle received rains ranging from showers to three inches.

The slow-falling rain was the longest in Guymon weather records, and at Beaver, W. T. Quinn, weather observer, said the 3.17-inch rain, which started falling Friday, was the best since September of 1923.

Henry Martin, Texas county farmer, said the rain meant the difference between a feed crop and no crop at all. "We didn't have a chance before."

Texas week-end downpours left some highways under water, but fears were minimized by engineers.

Woman, 72, Outdistances Police in Lottery Raid

A 72-year-old negro woman yesterday afternoon outdistanced Detectives John Crankshaw and J. B. King, of the lottery squad, following a raid on a house in the 500 block of Delbridge avenue and the arrest of three other persons on charges of disorderly conduct-lottery.

The two officers staged the raid at about 3 o'clock and arrested Helen Wright, 26, of a Walnut street address; Marion Davis, 22, also of Walnut street, and Will Fallen, 45, of a Magnolia street address. All of them are negroes. The officers seized 125 lottery books and $15 in currency, they reported.

The 72-year-old woman who eluded the two officers was later captured by Detective King when he returned to the house and found her seated on the front porch. She put up a fight and King finally persuaded her to accompany him to police headquarters where she gave her name as Dorothy Reece. She was held in $100 bond on a charge of disorderly conduct-lottery.

King and Crankshaw have been walking about with their faces slightly red after the woman gave her age as 72.

The same officers, a short time before the house raid, arrested M. L. Harmon, negro, 14, of a Haynes street address after they had caught him on a bicycle with lottery books in his possession, they reported.

Harmon is alleged to have given them the name of a man from whom he had gotten the books. The officers arrested Josh Meredith, 38, of a Chestnut street address and charged him with disorderly conduct-lottery. Harmon was taken to the juvenile detention home.

MCDONOUGH STUDENTS HEAR ROBERT L. AVARY

McDONOUGH, Ga., May 25.—Holding up as ideal the motto of the state of Georgia, "Not for ourselves but for others," Robert Lee Avary, of Atlanta, emphasized service in an address here tonight before the graduating class of the McDonough school. He urged the 38 graduates to work, save and serve, and illustrated the motto by examples taken from familiar characters. The Confederate veteran was exemplified by Judge A. G. Harris, ordinary of Henry county; the women who glorified the south by their service.

Asking, "What are you going to do with knowledge," he pointed out the legacy of the graduates as Americans and encouraged them to make a proud future for themselves.

He also paid high tribute to Henry county, saying he was born within the original territory and did his first work here while teaching in Mt. Bethel community.

He termed the concentration of soldiers the largest in Florida since the World War.

Brigadier General T. E. Marchant, of the 59th infantry brigade, will command the troops.

Additional Revenue.

"We are trying," Harrison said, "to get a meeting of the minds on additional revenue, so that when we get a bill out it will at least raise the money. We have come to no definite conclusions about any part of the proposition."

The committee compromise proposal, which centers on a flat 18 per cent tax on corporations, with a surtax of 7 per cent on undistributed earnings, is estimated by the treasury to bring in $360,000,000. The President has asked not only for $620,000,000 in permanent revenue, but another half billion in temposary income.

The only temporary income in the bill as it stands is a rather indefinite $82,000,000 estimated to come from the proposed "windfall tax" on refunded processing taxes.

Asked Additional Data.

In the appropriations committee, Bell was asked for additional data on the expenditure of the $4,880,000,000 appropriated for relief in 1935 and its allocation to the various spending agencies. He was an unexpected, last-minute witness.

McCarl was questioned about the phraseology of the appropriation, and the possibility that it could be diverted to other agencies although specifically appropriated for the Works Progress Administration. He agreed to submit an opinion in writing.

Chairman Adams, democrat, Colorado, who had forecast a report by the subcommittee today, was less definite in his forecasts after today's session. Senator Steiwer, republican, Oregon, another committee member, said it would be several days before the measure reached the floor of the senate.

The democratic leaders predicted only last week that the big deficiency-relief measure could be passed by the senate by Friday night.

BRITAIN SEEKS POLISH PACT.

LONDON, May 25.—(AP)—Great Britain, optimistic that a naval agreement snag with soviet Russia can be overcome, was understood tonight to be planning to start negotiations with Poland for a similar accord. Anglo-Russian representatives met for three hours today and then adjourned until June 4.

Boy Who Dived 155 Feet for Dollar Is Jailed for Disturbing the Peace

Doubting Police Are Referred to Two Witnesses; "I Seemed To Have Been Shot From Cannon," Youth Describes Super-Brody Feat.

NEW ORLEANS, May 25.—(AP)—The paths of glory for Louis J. Klein, 19-year-old claimant to a dollar-bet 155-foot dive from the Huey Long bridge into the Mississippi Sunday, missed the grave but led to his arrest on a charge of disturbing the peace. He later was freed.

Adding insult to the lack of injury he had to show for a feat that would make Steve Brodie blush with envy, callous authorities clamped the youthful signpainter into jail after he was released from a hospital and began casting doubts on the authenticity of his dive.

Klein had only his friends, two of them, who saw him make the leap, to verify his claim. They, too, were charged with disturbing the peace.

"I seemed to have been shot out of a cannon," Klein said, describing his dive. "And midway between bridge and the river surface I imagined I was traveling at a rate considerably in excess of 100 miles an hour. The wind whistled in my ears and almost deafened me."

Despite the untoward turn in events today Klein's sweetheart was enthusiastically proud of him and displayed a dime she had bet with a friend that he would make the leap.

"I knew he could do it," said pretty 17-year-old Dessiree Newman.

Arm in arm with his sweetheart, Klein went home with his stepfather and mother this afternoon. For his mother, Mrs. Louis Marchant, the episode had been a painful experience. When Klein's friends could find no trace of him after the leap, they went home and told his mother he had drowned.

Face downward on a mud flat, Klein was found practically unconscious by three young workers on the river bank, who heard his weak cries. After washing the mud off him, they rushed him to Charity hospital here. He was found to be suffering from exhaustion and submersion. Klein said he had a desperate battle to keep his head above water and had all but given up hope when he reached the mud.

Oldest Known Writing Said Found in Urak Ruin

BERLIN, May 25.—(UP)—Discovery of what was said to be the oldest known handwriting in the world in the 6-000-year-old ruins of Urak in Mesopotamia was announced today by Dr. Ernest Heinrich, member of the German excavating expedition which worked in the ruins last winter.

The city of Urak has long been known through legend, Heinrich said. It was situated on the shores of the Euphrates and was deserted about 200 A. D. because of lack of water.

Merger of Tax Offices Advocated At Meeting of Joint Commission

Merger of the tax offices of Atlanta and Fulton county and institution of a uniform taxing program were advocated last night at the initial study of proposed departmental consolidations by the joint merger commission. George W. McCarty, chairman of the commission, presided.

Councilman Max M. Cuba, chairman of city council's tax committee, and Councilman Aubrey Milam, chairman of the city finance committee, urged acceptance of personal and real property on the same basis. At the present time, Fulton county accepts real estate at 70 per cent of the assessment made by the city, but personal properties are assessed at the same rate which the city makes.

Moore Backs Consolidation.

Guy A. Moore, Fulton county tax receiver, sent a letter to the commission asserting he believes that a merger of the tax offices of the two governments would be a greater convenience to taxpayers and would react for greater efficiency if properly done.

Milam and Cuba agreed to the plan in general.

Paul S. Etheridge, former chairman of the Fulton county commission, who had been invited to attend the hearing, expressed himself as believing that the consolidation would be beneficial.

Commission members decided to file the following report of the meeting with Mayor Key, members of the Fulton county commission and the grand jury:

"The question before the commission for study and report was:

"Is it practical, from the standpoint of efficiency of administration and convenience of the taxpayers, to have one tax assessing and tax collecting office, and one board of tax appeals for county and city?

"Competent attorneys have given the commission the opinion that such an arrangement is legally possible through act of the legislature.

Officials Invited.

"Before attempting to reach any conclusion about the question stated, the commission thought proper to ask the opinions of officials who assess and collect taxes. Therefore a meeting was arranged and all of the tax officials were invited.

"Those officials who co-operated with the commission by attending the meeting or giving clear-cut answers by letter were:

Guy A. Moore, Max Cuba, Aubrey Milam.

"Others invited to appear and who failed to do so were:

"Homer Gullatt, Reese Perry and Hugh L. Gilbert, county tax assessors; Joe C. Little, Leo Sudderth and Harry M. Perkerson, city tax assessors; T. Earl Suttles and R. A. McMurry, county and city tax collectors, respectively."

"Edwin F. Johnson, Fulton county commissioner, was out of the city; George F. Longino, commissioner, also was out of the city and did not return in time to attend the meeting, but asserted he will attend later; Commissioner Ed L. Almand could not attend, according to a report by Robert C. Mizell, secretary of the commission; Dr. William L. Gilbert, former commissioner, was ill and could not be present.

Study Is Urged.

"We should study this merger matter carefully and from all angles," Cuba said. "There is much overlapping in the two separate departments that could be eliminated through consolidation. Atlanta, however, must have sufficient revenue to carry on its services. It needs every dime it can get and anyone acquainted with the problems of the local government knows that.

"We should have uniform assessments of properties within the city and outside the city limits. If Fulton county then has more money than it can spend wisely, it could and should take over certain services now being provided by the city.

"I can't see the justice or equity of the county taking real property at 70 per cent of the city assessment and personal property at the full 100 per cent valuation placed on it by the city.

Fulton Rate Flexible.

"Tax rates should not be considered in making assessments. The assessments should be uniform, but the stable and stationary tax rate in Atlanta is a handicap to the city. In Fulton county the tax rate is flexible and county commissioners now have the power to raise or lower it as they see fit."

Robert B. Troutman, prominent Atlanta attorney, gave an opinion that the Georgia legislature has the power to pass legislation enabling the merger of the assessors, tax collectors and tax appeals boards of Atlanta and Fulton county or any other city and county of the state.

The commission will study consolidation of the police departments of Atlanta and Fulton county at a meeting to be held at 8 o'clock next Monday night at the Fulton county courthouse.

The "kidnaper" scampered off and left them deserted at Seventeenth and Peachtree streets Sunday when Dr. A. C. Lewis, of 845 Penn avenue, N. E., stopped to investigate the touring family. Four Kidnaped Puppies Returned; Mystery Surrounds Fairhaven Dog

Four valuable police puppies were safe with their mother at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morgan, 1012 Williams street, N. W., last night after they had been "kidnaped" by another police dog. Another puppy remained at home with its mother.

The puppies, which are not quite three months old, belong to Dr. and Mrs. L. N. Huff, and were being kept by Mr. and Mrs. Morgan while Dr. and Mrs. Huff were away.

Early Sunday morning another female police dog is believed to have strayed into the Morgan yard and adopted the four puppies. The real mother was tied to a post and unable to prevent her offspring from wandering off.

Kidnaper Flees.

The four puppies were found later Sunday on the corner of Seventeenth street and Peachtree and the dog kidnaper scampered off when Dr. A. C. Lewis, of 845 Penn avenue, N. E., approached to investigate. Dr. Lewis turned the puppies over to the officials of the Atlanta Humane Society and they were claimed later by Mr. and Mrs. Morgan.

A doggone good mystery resulted when at least two Atlanta families decided yesterday that they would like to have a fox terrier with the qualities described in The Constitution, of the little dog who faithfully awaited the return of his master for three days after he had been put out of an automobile on Mobile street, near Fairhaven drive, and Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Hollingsworth, of 378 Brentwood drive, went to claim their dog which had jumped from their machine at that point.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollingsworth found their dog awaiting them and he was restored to his overjoyed small master, Bobby Hollingsworth. The mystery resulted when the other two seeking families also found a dog there.

Early yesterday morning Driver W. B. Hopkins, of the Atlanta fire department, attached to Station No. 4, went out to the location of the deserted animal. Arriving he found Mrs. W. C. Knight, of 37 Willow avenue, and her 4-year-old son, Billie, there hunting the puppy.

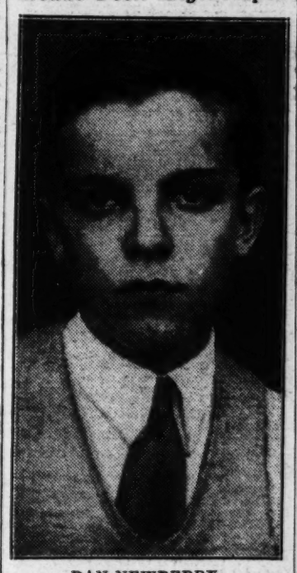

After a two-hour campaign of whistling, offering food and dog petting, the little animal was caught. Hopkins took one look at Billie's pleading childish eyes and told Mrs. Knight that he wanted Billie to have the animal.

Last night, Mrs. Knight said, the dog had already become a prime favorite and followed members of the family from room to room.

"There have been a number of persons phoning us to claim that they are the owners of the dog," she said. "I hope that we are able to keep it, however, because everyone has become attached to it already. I think that if the real owner came along, and of course he would be welcome to it, we would have no difficulty in establishing his ownership.

DOLE RECEIVER STEALS TO MAKE UP BUDGET

NEW YORK, May 25.—(UP)—Anthony Cinquemanni came before the bar of justice today, accused of stealing bread to feed his hungry family.

Cinquemanni is on relief and he has a wife and a nine-month-old baby. His budget sheet looks like this:

Income: Relief money for food, per month, $22; relief money, for rent, $12; total income per month, $34.

Expenditures: Actual rent, $18; average monthly grocery bill, $12; milk for baby at 17 cents a day, $5.10; gas and lights per month, $2; total expenditures, $37.10.

It was the fact that the Cinquemanni family's expenditures exceeded income by $3.10 a month that caught up with him today.

He wouldn't even earn $3.10, and charged the government was responsible for forcing him into thievery.

Immediate Rains Needed in South To Avert Losses Caused by Drouth

By the Associated Press.

Sun-parched crops and fields needed immediate rains in several southern states yesterday to avert losses threatened by weeks of dry weather.

Georgia, Virginia, the Carolinas and Tennessee were among the principal sufferers, with conditions also acute in northeastern Aalabama.

Scattered rains had relieved the situation in most other sections.

The drouth was affecting not only growing crops but also delayed plowing and planting in many areas. Replanting of some crops was made necessary by the aridity.

Virginia farmers faced a 35 to 50 per cent loss in farm produce grown in the tidewater area. Cabbages, beets and potatoes were the principal crops suffering from the drouth. Strawberries and other produce also were reported seriously affected.

Crop Conditions Worse.

General crop conditions in Georgia were described by the United States Weather Bureau as "worse than a week ago" with three-fourths of the state dusty and dry. Scattered showers moistened the coastal section.

A delayed watermelon crop was expected by growers. The state's important peach crop is already moving to market.

Alabama was seriously dry until heavy local showers brought a 10 per cent improvement in crops over most of the state. Northern and eastern counties missed their rains and conditions there were acute.

All crops in Arkansas were reported slightly below normal because of insufficient rainfall during the winter and spring. Oats suffered especially.

The dry weather came too late to affect truck crops in Florida to any extent, although citrus suffered slight harm. Scattered rains of the past few days improved conditions.

A. B. Harmon, district agricultural agent for the University of Tennessee at Nashville, said all crops in the state needed rain.

Tobacco was classed as the principal sufferer. Early hay was damaged "considerably" and gardens generally were affected.

"A good general rain would help everything," Harmon said. "The lack of rain is pretty serious, coming as early as it does."

Louisiana Cotton Good.

Cotton growth in northern and central Louisiana was reported as exceptionally good. Mississippi also had favorable cotton weather.

Week-end rains fell over Texas and Oklahoma, some sections getting as much as four inches.

North Carolina crops were suffering from a lack of rain, with high temperatures prevailing.

No general rains were reported in South Carolina since April 10 but local showers in the south central section recently improved conditions there.

Farmers were forced to replant many of their crops and those growing are apparently from two to four weeks late.

CAMERA CLUB VISITS NEW ENGRAVING PLANT

Process Demonstrated to Members in Southern Shop, Recently Opened.

Interested in the intricate processes which a photograph undergoes before it becomes a picture in the newspaper or an illustration in some other type of publication, the Atlanta Camera Club last night held its regular meeting at the Southern Engraving Company's new plant at the corner of Forsyth and Alabama streets, where the members were shown in actual demonstration the various steps of the process. All Constitution cuts are made in this plant.

John S. McDonald, camera club member and assistant manager of the Southern Engraving Company, had charge of the meeting and explained the steps from photograph to "plate" while the process was being carried on before the eyes of the club members.

The Atlanta Camera Club was one of the first to accept the invitation of Henry W. Grady, manager of the concern, to Atlanta organizations and individuals to visit the plant at its new location.

The club of amateur photographers is headed by Dr. Wallace Rogers, president; William E. Beresford, vice president, and John A. Murdock, secretary. The group was organized last fall and now numbers about 40 active members, most of whom were present at the engraving demonstration last night.

'CHAMPION FATHER' PLANS FOR REUNION

11 Children, 100 Grandchildren, 40 Great-Grandchildren To Rally.

A farmer styling himself "Georgia's champion father," yesterday issued invitations to his 11 children, 100 grandchildren and 40 great-grandchildren to attend a family reunion to be held Sunday, June 7, at the old homestead, situated four miles from Sandy Springs on the Johnson Ferry road.

The progenitor of the flock is Jeremiah Mitchell Jaspar Wade, 82, farmer and Baptist preacher for 63 years.

He hopes that all the Wades, their relatives and friends, will gather for the reunion. He promises to provide an old-fashioned southern dinner with plenty of fried chicken, yams, turnips and pot likker. He suggests that "the boys bring along ice cream," his favorite dish.

An honor guest will be the oldest son, Andrew Wade, 60, of 575 Ashby street, S. W. Special invitations have been sent to Governor Talmadge and Commissioner of Agriculture Tom Linder.

At Buckhead visitors are to travel Route 9 until they come to Sandy Springs. They then are to turn down the Johnson Ferry road until they come to a mail box bearing the name, "J. M. J. Wade."

Of the 19 children fathered by the elderly Wade, 16 were boys. Today, 11 children—one woman and 10 men—are living. The father has been married three times.

MEMEL UNEARTHS HUGE SPY SYSTEM

MEMEL, Memel Territory, May 25.—(AP)—Spies and ballots stirred tiny, oft-troubled Memel today.

The strategic Baltic seaport, once part of Germany, now having an autonomous status under Lithuanian sovereignty, voted on the vexing question of composition of its municipal council. Nazis are seeking to dominate it.

Coincidentally, police announced they had uncovered a sensational spy plot financed by "the consulate of a certain foreign power."

This consulate, they declared, distributed a total of 150,000 lits (currently about $25,500) monthly to further the espionage.

More than 100 persons were reported questioned and 17 had been placed in jail.

The results of the election will be announced Wednesday.

Campaigning did not reach the pitch of last autumn's diet elections, although German-Lithuanian relations remained strained.

The authorities said all Memel was blanketed with a network of agents who wormed their way into municipal postal, customs and police posts, intercepted secret correspondence and turned it over to the "foreign power."

HULL STUDIES ACTION ON REICH-BRAZIL SWAP

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP)—Secretary Hull indicated today this government felt some apprehension over recent actions by several countries which might have an adverse effect on American trade in widely separated parts of the world. Among them were:

The action of the Australian government in enforcing rigid trade restrictions against American-manufactured goods in some cases outright prohibition of their entry.

Reports from Rio de Janeiro that Brazil and Germany had about concluded a barter arrangement whereby they would exchange $46,000,000 in goods, Germany sending heavy industrial equipment to the South American country in exchange for coffee and cotton.

The situation in North China brought about by reported smuggling into that area of large quantities of Japanese-manufactured articles.

BLUM PLANS ACTION TO BLOCK RHINE FORTS

PARIS, May 25.—(UP)—Leon Blum, premier to be, will serve notice on the League of Nations June 16 that France will take "vigorous measures" to prevent German fortifications of the Rhineland, it was reported tonight.

The informant declined to reveal what steps are envisaged by the "vigorous measures" but admitted that so far Germany has defied everything except armed might.

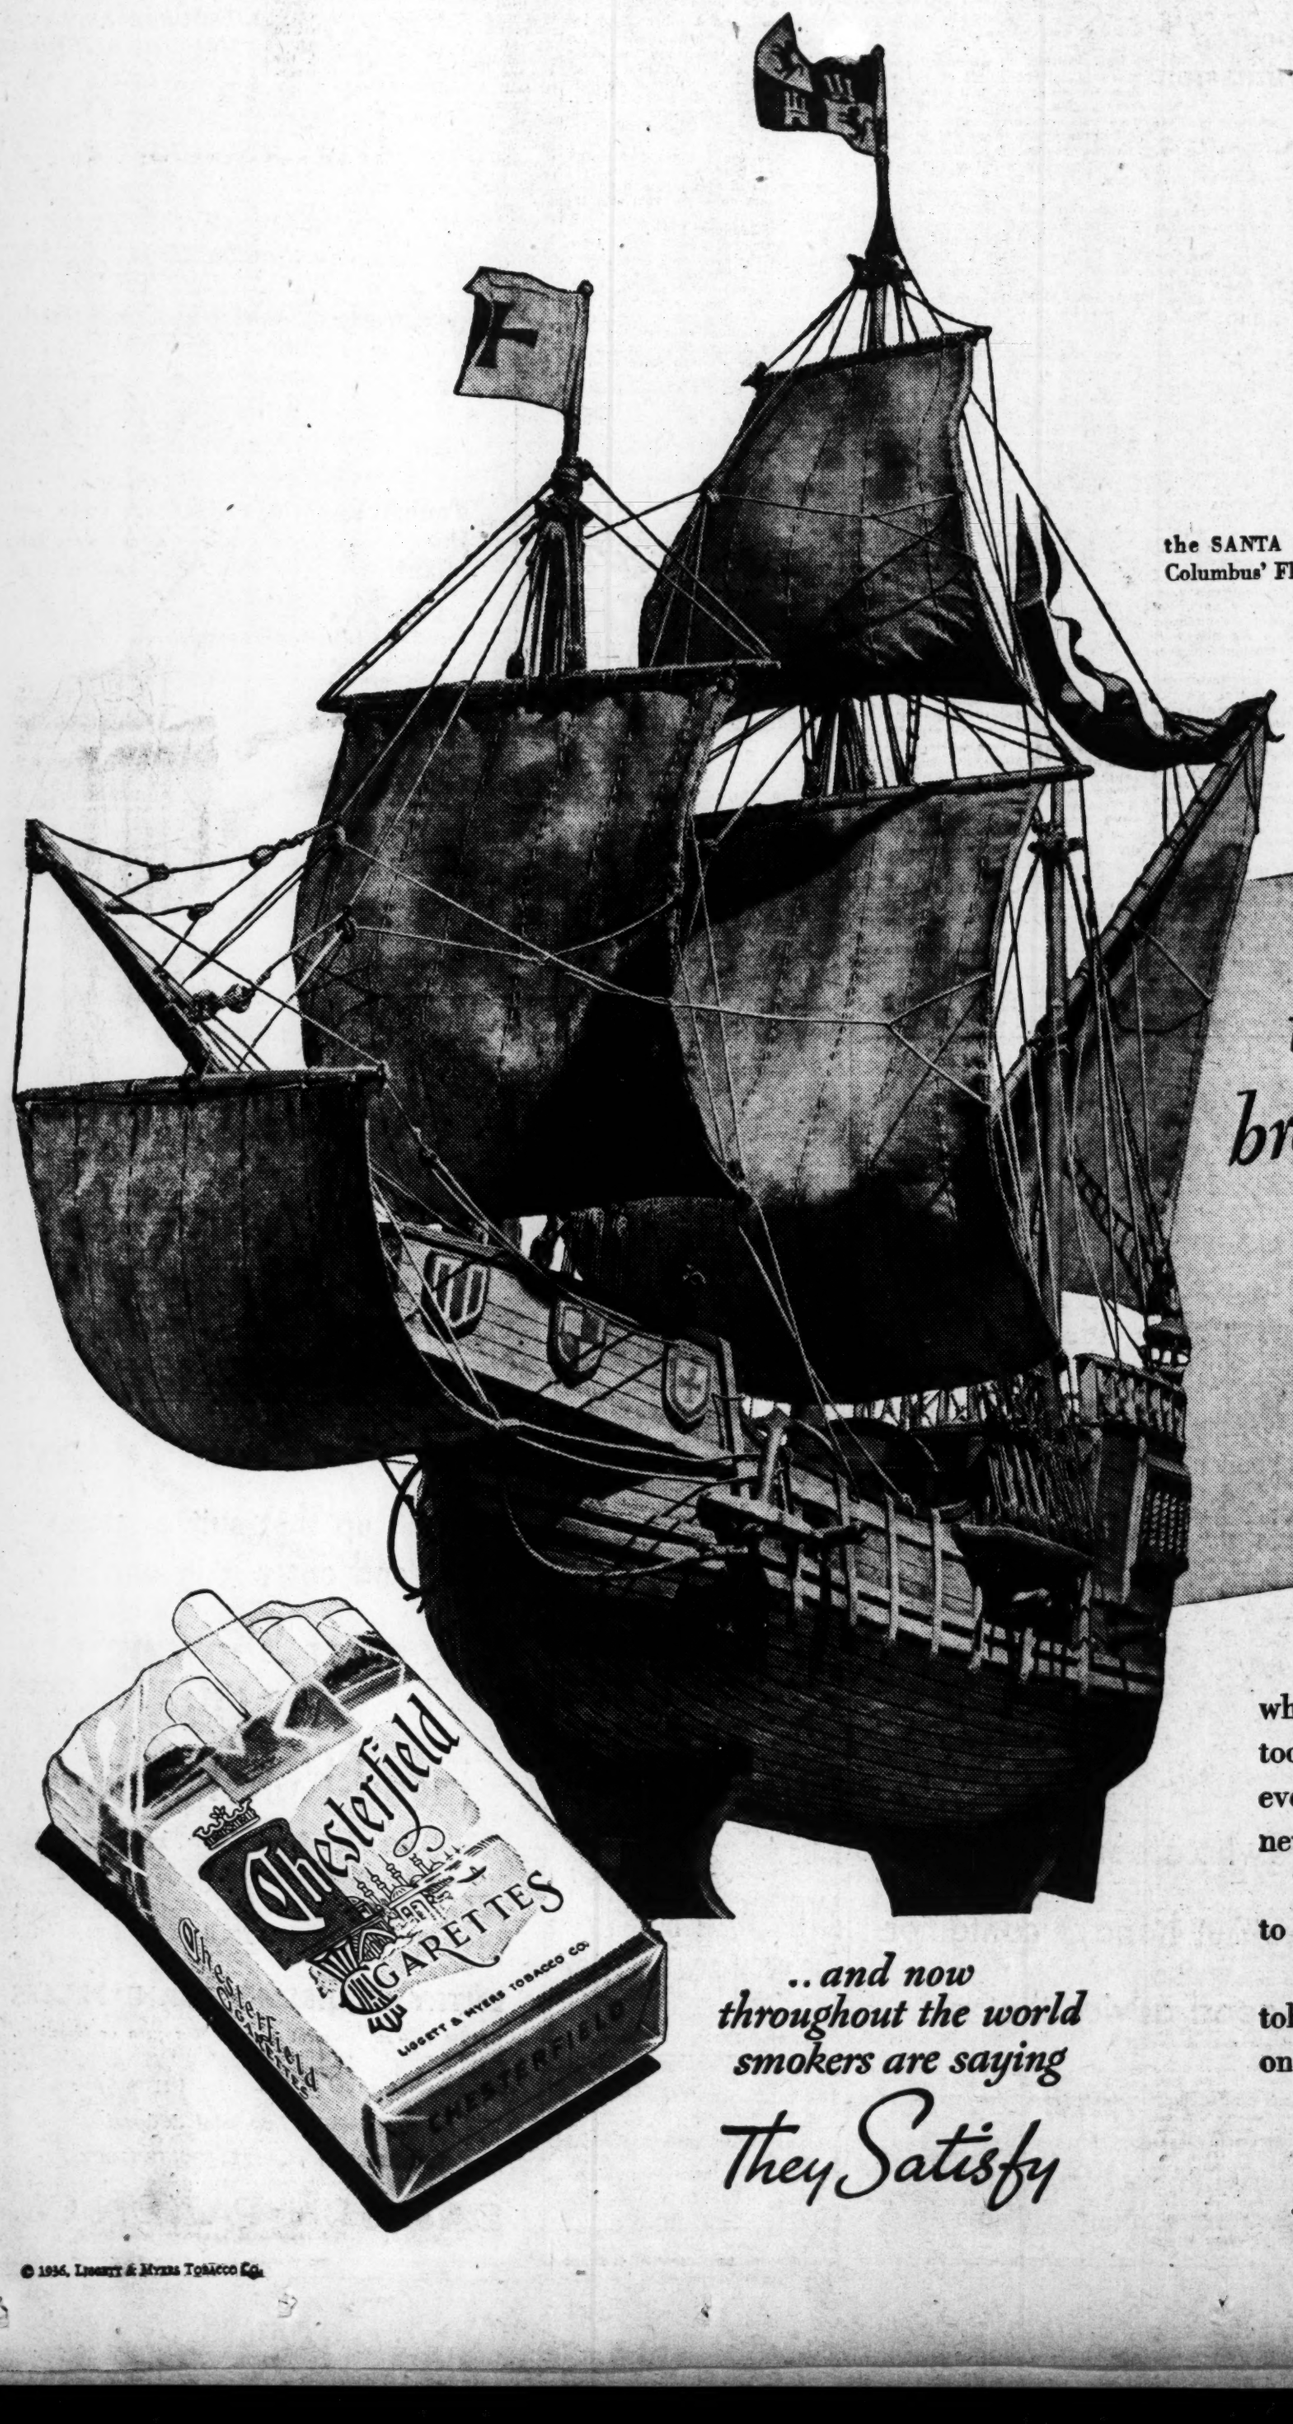

Blum will reveal France's determination to the League council when he makes his debut at the international round-table.

FAIR, SLIGHTLY COOLER WEATHER IS SLATED

Atlanta felt 92-degree weather yesterday, but the weatherman promises that the range today will be between 62 and 86 degrees.

"The fine weather will continue" was the prediction from the offices of the United States Weather Bureau. "Clear skies and bright sunshine will prevail."

The fine weather, however, is not doing so well by the farmers of Georgia. Rain could be used throughout the state. Atlanta has been free from rain since April 9, but in the rural sections some moisture is needed for crops. Flower beds and lawns in Atlanta are being nourished only through the water hose and rain would also help the urban touch of nature.

Imprisoned Jehovah's Witnesses To Sleep Indoors, Awaiting Ruling

By LAMAR Q. BALL.

Seventy-six of Jehovah's Witnesses, locked in a chain gang stockade down in Troup county for the last 10 days, won one victory yesterday which is important to their comfort while their fight for freedom is delayed by technicalities of the law.

Late yesterday, they were moved out of the stockade and taken into the city of LaGrange, where they were to sleep indoors at night for the first time since they were arrested for distributing religious pamphlets in the streets of that city on Saturday, May 16.

Troup county's chain gang stockade has been overcrowded. In the barracks inside the stockade, the regular working prisoners of the chain gang—the bank robbers and various other experienced criminals — have been sleeping at night, while the unexpected mob of Jehovah's Witnesses has been finding soft spots on the earth outdoors.

At night, they spread newspapers on the ground and stretched out. The other prisoners, beneficiaries of the first come, first served plan, were in bunks indoors.

Laughed at Complaints.

"They laughed when our friends complained of such treatment," said one of Jehovah's Witnesses in Atlanta yesterday. They told them to put their faith in Jehovah and he would warm them with the soft light from the stars."

Two or three days ago, it was said, 52 blankets were distributed to the 76 members of the religious sect. They have been passing them around from one to the other since, the hardier members of the group relying on the crisp comfort of old newspapers.

J. C. Thomason, city attorney of LaGrange, who was asked last night if the prisoners would be kept outside indefinitely, announced:

"We're correcting that today. We're bringing them into the city and they will all sleep indoors."

Held for LaGrange.

It was revealed yesterday that the capacity of the barracks at the stockade is 100 prisoners and 90 of the bunks were occupied when the 76 witnesses entered the place. The chain gang was accepting them merely on assignment from the city officials of LaGrange until their cases could be disposed of legally.

Mr. Thomason would not comment on where the city of LaGrange intended to put the 76 prisoners when they were brought in from the chain gang, whether they would be quartered in residences through the city or whether a hotel had been taken over as a temporary jail.

Wherever they go, they will remain until Friday. On that day, Judge Samuel H. Sibley, in United States district court in Atlanta, will hear their corrected petition for ai habeas corpus, which demands their freedom on the ground they have been deprived of their liberty without due process of the law, in violation of the 14th amendment to the United States constitution.

Arrested May 15.

Saturday, May 15, approximately 150 members of the organization invaded LaGrange, swarming over the town distributing their religous pamphlets. They were arrested on a city ordinance, which makes it a violation of the law for anyone to distribute pamphlets without invitation from the citizens.

About 75 women were freed, but the men were held. There was no room for this crowd in the city jail and they were sent temporarily to the Troup stockade.

Delays in bringing them to trial resulted in their appealing to the United States court and yesterday when they appeared before Judge Sibley, their petition asking the warden of the Troup county chain gang to show cause why he should not free them, was addressed to a C. W. Dean.

Had Wrong Name.

J. Render Terrell, attorney, told the court there is no C. W. Dean connected with the Troup county government. The warden, he explained, was L. L. Bowes.

"We have just learned that, your honor," explained Charles G. Reynolds who, with John B. Owens, is attorney for the Witnesses.

"We thought we had the right name. We called up the State Prison Commission and they gave us the name of O. W. Dean."

Judge Sibley allowed time for the petition to be amended to change the name to Bowes and then Terrell, speaking for Bowes, announced Bowes had no jurisdiction over the prisoners. They were prisoners from the city of LaGrange, he said, who had been assigned to him by the city and Warden Bowes acted only on orders from the city or the county government.

Judge Shows Logic.

"Wait a minute," said Judge Sibley. "Who is that man sitting over there?" He pointed to R. Dawson, one of the prisoners, who was selected to act in this test case. Terrell explained this.

"Who brought him up here?" asked the judge.

"Warden Bowes."

"How do you account for his bringing him up here if he has no jurisdiction over him?"

Judge Sibley interrupted prolonged explanations.

Not Court Business.

"It's no business of the federal government to be messing around with these ideas. It doesn't look so good, the way you're passing these people from one to the other."

Judge Sibley then instructed the Witnesses' attorney to bring another petition in Friday morning at 10 o'clock, naming everyone who could be connected with the incarceration of the 76 men.

About 150 men, women and children, members of the organization, occupied seats in the courtroom during the brief hearing.

ARMY FLYER KILLED.

DAYTON, Ohio, May 25.—(AP)—Major Hez McClellan, chief of the flight test branch at Wright field, was killed late today when his plane crashed on a farm five miles southeast of Dayton.

TIRED and PEPLESS

No wonder so many of us get up in the morning feeling as tired as when we went to bed—no wonder the world looks blue. If your stomach is full of a thing like vile, rancid vinegar, your food doesn't do you much good. You get what comes from a sour fermenting mass. You can't help but lose strength, get nervous and feel exhausted all the time. If this acid gets over into the bowels, it upsets their action and you get constipated. Then toxic poisons get into the blood and start a lot of things like headaches, rheumatic pains, bad skin, etc.

Don't take salts or purgatives to clean out this sourness — they flush out vital body fluids and leave your system dry and inflamed without helping the cause. Try Placidan, the new medical discovery with the double action. Placidan corrects excessive acidity without disturbing the stomach juices. It forms a soothing coating over raw irritated membranes and helps stop the making of more burning acid. You get RELIEF at once from gas and acid indigestion. Take Placidan regularly for a short time and you'll soon rejoice at the astonishing return of vigor. Ask for the new, liberal size 25c package of Placidan at any drug store.

BANKRUPTCY ACT HELD INVALID BY U. S. COURT

court said Secretary Wallace had not given the commission men an adequate hearing. He was said to have signed an order without hearing any of the testimony or listening to the arguments.

Another defeat for the government was recorded in a 6-to-3 ruling that the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern Railway Company had not violated the interstate commerce act by carrying products of other United States Steel subsidiaries.

Justices Stone, Brandeis and Cardozo contended the railway came under the influence of the corporation. The case was filed in 1930.

The government won its contention that it was entitled to priority over Florida creditors in payment of claims against an insolvent surety company from a $75,000 deposit required for doing business in that state.

It also was victorious in its attempt to keep from paying $48,099 as its share to cover losses as the result of fire on the army transport Logan in 1918. The court said the suit was barred because the Atlantic Mutual Insurance Company had waited too long to file it.

Insurance Law Decision.

After finishing with the opinions, the court agreed to pass on the constitutionality of the New York unemployment insurance law, which contains some New Deal principles. It will be decided next fall.

In the bankruptcy decision, Justice Roberts joined four men on the high bench generally labeled as conservatives to compose a majority. By siding sometimes with the conservatives and at other times with the liberals, Roberts frequently holds the balance of power.

They reversed a ruling by the fifth circuit court of appeals upholding the legislation. The law was challenged by certain bondholders of the Cameron county, Texas, water improvement district number 1. They contended they were offered under a reorganization plan, only 49.8 per cent of the face value of their bonds.

Legality Challenged.

The constitutionality of the law was challenged during its course through congress, with a minority report of the senate judiciary committee declaring that it was both invalid and that the "policy of enacting such legislation is ill-advised."

McReynold's opinion, after asserting that the court had steadfastly adhered to the doctrine that the taxing power of congress does not extend to the states or their political subdivisions, said:

"The same basic reasoning which leads to that conclusion, we think requires like limitations upon the power which springs from the bankruptcy clause."

To this the minority replied:

"Sufficient reasons do not appear for excluding political subdivisions fro mthe bankruptcy jurisdiction if the jurisdiction is so exerted as to maintain an equilibrium between state and national power. . . .

"To hold that the purpose of the act must be thwarted by the court because of a supposed affront to the dignity of a state, though the state disclaims the affront and is doing all it can to keep the law alive, is to make dignity a doubtful blessing."

Refused to Interfere.

At the end of a busy session, the justices refused to interfere with a ruling by the second circuit court of appeal at New York denying an injunction against turning over to the government $1,250,000 gold held in this country by a Swiss corporation. The foreign concern should not apply to it.

Testimony in the Kansas City stockyards case was taken by an examiner and the arguments were made before Rexford G. Tugwell, then assistant secretary and now undersecretary of agriculture.

In his opinion, Chief Justice Hughes said:

"If the one who determined the facts which underlie the order had not considered evidence or argument, it is manifest that the hearing (required by law) has not been given."

In a unanimous decision, the court also held constitutional a Massachusetts excise tax on corporations engaged in business within the state and denied Arizona's petition for permission to sue California and five other states for a determination of water rights on the Colorado river.

The other case for action next Monday, in addition to the New York minimum wage law, involves Wyoming's contention that Colorado had violated a 1922 decree of the supreme court apportioning water of the Laramie river between the two states.

INVASION OF GEORGIA BY TVA IS ATTACKED

the extent of the TVA invasion of Georgia. The power company's argument, however, is that if the right is granted to serve this small section, a precedent will have been set within the state, which will permit the TVA to blanket Georgia.

Furnish Power Only.

The TVA charges that their lines were built after appeals had been made by the Catoosa County Farmers' Co-operative Association. The TVA plan, according to Fitts' argument, is to turn over the lines to the North Georgia Electric Membership Association and have them sell the power to the individual rural customers and the municipalities of north Georgia later on. The TVA then will merely furnish the power to the association.

Dalton, Ga., has made a bid for TVA electricity as soon as its short-term contract with the Georgia Power Company has ended, it was revealed.

Fitts contended that farmers of the Catoosa county area had not been able to get power from the Georgia Power Company.

Power Lines Cross.

Power company attorneys argued that the Georgia Power Company has been in Catoosa county since 1926 and the TVA, in building its lines, had selected some isolated spots where power company construction had not been completed. At one point, TVA lines cross power company lines and the power company a week ago lost a fight to enjoin the TVA from crossing privately-owned lines of the power company.

It developed in Fitts' argument yesterday that the TVA feels it has the right to erect poles and wires along public roads in Georgia and the power company has no right to protest.

The argument will continue before Judge Sibley at 10 o'clock this morning.

LOEB CASE OPENS.

JOLIET, Ill., May 25.—(AP)—The state opened today its drive to send Convict James Day to the electric chair for the razor slaying of "thrill killer" Richard Loeb. At the end of the first session only two veniremen had been examined.

AN UNFINISHED WORK

So overwhelming has been the support of President Roosevelt that those who sought to take from him Georgia's votes to the democratic national convention literally folded their tents and silently stole away. Georgia told the nation in no uncertain terms that the state is for Roosevelt.

When the roll of the states is called at Philadelphia next month the chairman of Georgia's delegation will sing from the housetops that "it's Roosevelt 100 per cent."

But we must not stop at that.

We must send back to the United States senate and to the house of representatives a delegation that will remain solid for the President and his program. To send to the federal congress a delegation, or any part of it, which would cause the President an iota of trouble would be tantamount to telling the nation: "We support the President but we decline to send him senators and congressmen to hold up his hand."

He must be assured of a solid supporting delegation, as he has had during the past two years.

Having done this, the state should go still further and select a state administration which will give the fullest co-operation to the President—one that will walk hand in hand with the national administration, sharing in its benefits.

Despite opposition from high state official sources, the state has shared in liberal measure the benefits that have come from this administration. If the measure has not been full, it is because of the obstructive policy of the state administration.

Such a situation should not be permitted to continue. In our statehouse offices we should elect only those who will support the President's program like our congressmen and senators and who will aid in every way Georgia's participation in every phase of it.

The Roosevelt administration has sent hundreds of millions of dollars in Georgia and it has proven a remarkable assistance in our general rehabilitation.

We have gone far on the road to recovery but we can go farther with full co-operation between the state and national governments, which does not now exist.

Georgia's work thus far has been worthy of the commendation of the entire nation. But it is not yet done.

MICHIGAN'S MURDER GANG

In investigating the slaying of a young PWA worker, Detroit Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea discovered the existence of an organization called the Black Legion, whose estimated Michigan membership of 135,000 is apparently banded together for the purpose of "executing" individuals, who for some reason or other are inimical to the members of this bloodthirsty gang.

The canny "executioners" are said to conduct their murderous attacks upon unsuspecting persons in such a manner that deaths appear to have been the result of suicides, and officials are now engaged in investigating some 50 mysterious deaths, evidence pointing to suspected members of the Black Legion, whose officials are reported to have marked another half hundred persons for removal.

As investigators advance into this appalling situation it is revealed that the organization has already spread to several other northern states, all acting under a "commander-in-chief," with "brigadier generals," "colonels," "captains" and other subordinate officers in charge of local organizations, where members are inducted by a strange ritualistic performance and the neophites pledged to obey the instructions of superiors.

Warrants charging murder have been issued against seven men accused in the "execution" of the PWA worker, whose removal brought about the investigation, and as there is said to be considerable "literature" extant regarding the Black Legion, trial of these persons may bring to light the perverted and unlawful reasons that brought it into existence, and possibly reveal terrorist activities which have been responsible for its growth.

Bitter condemnation of lynching cases in the south has long been general throughout the north, with a large bloc of congressmen fighting for passage of an anti-lynching measure, directly aimed at southern states.

Law-abiding citizens of the south reluctantly admit that lynching of rapists and murderers does occur in this section, but statistics disclose that lynchings also occur in northern states; and the cause is generally the same—an unusually atrocious crime that fires indignation to the point where a mob takes the law into its own hands.

But the south has no organized murder gang, such as has been disclosed in the Michigan investigations, whose sole object appears to be the "execution" of an individual who in some unknown manner has offended an officer or member of the Black Legion.

Michigan officials are to be highly commended for unearthing the existence of this appalling organization, and it is to be hoped that its trail can be successfully followed into every section where it is operating. Those guilty of crime and conspiracy should be promptly punished and the lawbreaking body should be effectually squelched.

APPALLING!

Another week-end has gone into history, with its appalling record of deaths, injuries and property damage—the result of careless motor vehicle drivers and activities of the speed demon.

Traffic accidents took at least 68 lives throughout the United States during the period, but the compilations give no record of the number of injured, some perhaps to be permanent cripples, nor is any estimate given of the number of wrecked machines.

Thousands of speeding, reckless drivers in Atlanta and vicinity "got by" over the week-end without accidents—the usual number did not; some of them are dead, others badly injured, and the service garages have their usual number of damaged cars.

Two accidents of the week-end stand out as warnings to every motorist against speed. An auto traveling at a dangerous rate failed to make a turn in the highway; it catapulted down an embankment, turning over three times, and narrowly missed killing or injuring two pedestrians. Three men were killed, the fourth badly injured, the car was a wreck.

Two automobile policemen were seated in their parked car writing a report on a bad accident they had just finished handling, when a car flashed by them at 60 miles an hour. Before they could start in pursuit the speeding car had struck a parked car, then shot into a telephone pole with such force that its rear wheels landed on a four-foot wall near by. The driver and two passengers were reported badly injured.

Reports of long lists of accidents indicate that the innocent suffer with those who are guilty of breaking all the rules and regulations of safe driving. The innocent may be passengers in the offending car or occupants of the one that is struck.

Has it come to such a pass that when one goes forth in an automobile the chance of returning alive or uninjured is no better than if he was "going over the top" to meet an armed foe in battle?

Carelessness and speeding must end.

You may be the next victim.

NANCE DECLINES POSITION

The appointment of A. Steve Nance, Georgia labor leader and well-known welfare worker, as regional director of the Social Security Board, was received in this section with expressions of general accord in the opinion that no better or more eminently qualified person could have been selected for this important position.

It is with mingled feelings of regret and gratification to learn that, owing to the fact he would have to remove his residence from Atlanta to Birmingham, he has declined to accept the responsible place. The federal government loses the opportunity to secure the services of a valuable and trustworthy official, but Atlanta will retain a citizen who has achieved enviable prominence in civic affairs.

Mr. Nance has served six terms as president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades and was recently reelected head of the state labor body.

As vice president of the Georgia Conference of Social Agencies, a former member of the State Relief Commission, and a director of various welfare agencies his work has been outstanding, broad in its viewpoint and wise in its practical application. His counsel in the direction of the affairs of welfare agencies, and their application without reference to race, has acted to promote harmony. His schooling in such practical work eminently fitted him to head the work of the Social Security Board in this section, and it is to be hoped that the new appointee will be as well fitted for the position as Mr. Nance.

World's Window

A Judgment On the Negus.

Dr. H. J. Kloosterman, the Dutch physician who astonished all England with his courageous letters on the Italo-Abyssinian affair, had this to say as parting shot: "It would be doing an injustice to the chivalry of the English if I thought there were need to draw their attention specially to the heroic figure of the emperor. The man is a hero who will live in the ballads of his people for ages to come, who is described by anyone who has had the honor to meet him as a refined and born ruler, who was guiding his people to progress in a wonderful manner, who expressed his willingness to accept European help to develop his country, and who has shown royal dignity in all his words and actions during this unholy war which was forced upon him.

"If the members of the League back out of their obligations, or pretend to fulfill their duty toward Abyssinia by insufficient sanctions and further sighs of pity and resignation, they will never more be able in honesty to appeal to the sacredness of a treaty, to a received or given pledge, neither between themselves nor with any other nations, without being the laughing stock, without being called and thought, rightfully, opportunists and hypocrites. Must we live in the memory of coming generations, shamefully as criminal "go-getters," for whom only oil, gold, coal and cotton counted and were worth any trouble, or shall we live gloriously as the Crusaders live in our memory, who carried an ideal and were willing to fight for it?"

* * * *

Think of It!

"Do you realize," said the gentleman, who came to see me, saying that he had an important message, "do you realize that burglaries always take place on the ground floor or in the attic. I mean that thieves come in that way 95 per cent of the time?"

"No," I said, "I didn't know that. And, what's more I don't care a hoot."

"You travel a lot," he went on as imperturbed as if nothing had happened, "have you ever thought of it that airplanes fall and catch fire, that boats sink and that trains run off the track. What will your last thoughts be? Would it not be great to be able to think in the moment when you sink away into eternity that your dependents are well taken care of?"

I looked at that bird of evil omen with amazement. You know what's coming next. He offered insurance policies, so marvelous, so wonderful, that if half of it were true insurance agencies must stand at the top of the list as benefactors of mankind throughout the ages. I did not know how to get rid of the man. He was not offensive, which made it impossible for me to throw him out. So I also invented a line of talk. "War is coming," I said. He agreed and that was his undoing. "The next war will not only wipe out from one-quarter to one-third the human beings living in Europe, but it will turn great cities into heaps of ruins, destroy trade and commerce and wipe out currencies as clean as a snowball in the hot place. Will you insure my money against depreciation?" I asked.

He said he would have to ask the head office. That's three weeks ago. No sign of him since.

Good Morning

BY LOUIE D. NEWTON.

TROUBADOURS OF GOD.

We are blessed to have in Atlanta this week Dr. Drew F. Stamps and his lovely family, missionaries in Yangchow, Kiangsu, China, for the past two decades. I have marveled at the abiding sense of joy which Dr. and Mrs. Stamps and their two fine boys possess—a joy that springs from hearts deeply committed to God's will and His care. We sometimes hear people speak in pitying terms of missionaries who give up so many comforts and privileges in our so-called favored civilization to go afar as heralds of the Good News of the Kingdom of God. Such remarks could never be made if we really knew these troubadours of God. They have chosen God's way and they are radiantly happy.

As I have listened to the Stampses talk these recent days, and remembered the other missionaries with whom I have been privileged to associate now and then, I heartily agree with Henry Barnett in his exquisite poem:

"Who are these
That run along the highways of the world
And seek its meanest suburbs with their feet?
They are the troubadours of God.
Blowing an airy melody along earth's aisles
As solid as the masonry of dreams.
They are the wise eccentrics
Who reason with divine hilarity.
The yare the canny merchants
Who buy the hearts of nations for their Prince.
They are the vivid tailors
Who push the threads of ages through their hands.
They are the white militia
Who take no blood to spill it, save their own.
They are the blessed coolies
Who lift the loads of folly on their backs
And dump them into truth's dissolving streams.
They are the blithe outrunners
Who trek the world's long reaches for old trails
Whereon to lay the pavement of new years.
They are the grave cross-bearers
Who bear stern wooden gibbets on their backs
And nail their loves and treasures to the beams.
They are our princely brothers,
Born of the womb which bore us,
Who speak for us amid the courts of life."

THE JEWISH DIETARY LAWS.

The Talmudic law emphasizes the principle of kindness to animals. It forbids cruelty and prohibits the hunting and killing of wild animals and birds for sport.

Following out this principle, definite laws of slaughtering animals for food are laid down, setting forth in detail just how the slaughtering may be done in order to cause the animal the least possible pain.

The killing of cattle, beasts or fowl for food is considered a religous act and may be done only by a person especially trained and licensed to follow that profession. He is called a "schochet" and must be a devout Jew of high moral character, thoroughly versed in all the hygienic laws and the various regulations for the lawful killing of animals laid down in the Talmud.

He must pass a very strict examination in the various details of killing and post-mortem findings.

Any animal, which, on post-mortem examination, discloses the slightest trace of tuberculosis, pneumonia, a cavity in the lung or even a slight adhesion of the pleura, is declared "trepha" or unfit. (The pleura is a delicate membrance folded back over the surface of the lung, which, if inflamed, causes pleurisy with its attendant fever, pain and difficult respiration.)

Any wound, fracture or trace of illness in an animal renders it "trepha" or unfit according to the Jewish dietary laws.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

BY PAUL MALLON.

COMBINATION WASHINGTON, May 25.—The suggestion will be scoffed officially, but the United States now has the nearest thing to an international alliance since 1776.

Nothing has been put on paper, but that means little. Signed agreements do not amount to much in these days of international lawlessness. An exchange of military confidences and a similarity of interests and purposes are far more trustworthy. With such things are the current inside naval relations between the United States and Britain seemingly sealed.

BONDS It started back a few years ago when a necessity developed for naval co-operation in the far east. At that time, an entirely unofficial understanding was reached to prevent the American and British fleets from running into each other in the dark on the Pacific.

The unbinding relationship grew at the London naval conference and has been further expanded by developments in Europe during the last few weeks.

The men behind the mast here generally know more now than they ever did about British naval plans and purposes—and vice versa.

ARRANGEMENTS It has never been officially disclosed, but the recent British demand for 25 new destroyers was no surprise here. The British told our delegates at the London naval conference they were going to need more destroyers (and more cruisers) to meet the Italian naval threat in submarines and fast cruisers. United States Ambassador at Large Norman Davis and Admiral Stanley told them privately and informally it was all right with us.

We had our reasons. Our destroyer tonnage is now 80,000 in excess of the old expiring treaty limit. Britain's is 40,000 over. Now, either of us could get around the already obsolete treaty by invoking the escalator clause of the new London agreement. Or we could both scrap our excess tonnage one minute before midnight December 31 and reinstate it one minute later (the old treaty merely promised reduction of destroyer tonnage to 150,000 any time before the treaty expires this year, and nobody has reduced yet).

But use of either of those devices, individually, by any one nation would entail serious responsibilities. Japan scrapped the old treaty and resisted the new, but she would not overlook any such opportunity to howl. The two major nations, working together, can accomplish a mutually desirable and practical purpose, and not care who howls.

And this is not the only important naval matter upon which Britain and the United States have worked together lately.

Note—Do not overlook the fact that the new naval bill, now clearing congress, carried funds for 12 new destroyers and six submarines, as well as money for continuing construction of 20 destroyers and four submarines now building.

HERRINGS Frequent secret calls which the British ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, has been paying to the State Department are not supposed to mean anything.

The explanation privately offered by both American and British sources is that he has merely been trying to save a British subject from the hangman's rope. The doomed man, who has thus caused Sir Ronald more anxiety than he ordinarily devotes to an important diplomatic matter, was Alexander Mackay, convicted of kidnaping a sheriff in a celebrated California jail break. Sir Ronald wanted to get him a new trial, but failed.

Frequently, callers at the White House drop a small red herring in the form of a truthful announcement concerning a minor matter they have discussed with the President, in order to conceal a far more important matter which was discussed. It happens less frequently at the State Department, but it happens.

GANGING UP The British are having a hard time making up their minds what to do about Mussolini. They are more fearful of him than of any of the other autocratic regimes in Europe. They believe one should be smashed to curb the rest and their choice is Mussolini rather than Hitler. The only thing they are not sure about is how to do it.

One thing you may expect is a new defensive alliance in the Mediterranean encompassing all the small powers who have a grievance against Il Duce.

DEBTS One thing Britain and the United States have not worked out together, however, is war debts. You may have noticed that the recent Franco-British overtures slipped out of the headlines fast.

The reason is everyone here knows these grand proposed offers will probably amount to about a dime on the dollar or less. Our diplomats also have reason to suspect that the offer is bait for American entry into a redecorated League of Nations.

And even if the diplomats would like to consider such a proposition, they know very well that congress would not.

SILHOUETTES

BY RALPH T. JONES.

The trees are still, a tiny breeze
Just whispers, gently, "Hush!"
Don't move at all, keep quiet, please;
Just watch that young brown thrush.

He's hopping now between my feet,
His perky head held high,
His coat of brown so smooth and neat,
So bright and brave his eye.

Oh, pshaw! You moved. The little wings
Whirr fast in sudden rush;
Beneath the trees a brown streak flings,
There goes my friend, the thrush.

Invading The Y. M. C. A.

Did you know that the K. K. K. has gotten into the Y. M. C. A.? In Atlanta?

Three leading officers of the board of trustees of the Luckie street institution are J. K. Orr, J. K. Ottley and T. K. Glenn.

Launching Something Fine.

Tonight, in Clarke county, something new in camps for boys will be formally opened. It is the "Pine Tops" camp, just three miles this side of Athens on the highway to Winder and Lawrenceville and Atlanta.

Beautifully located on the banks of the Oconee, with a grand island as part of the property and an eye-filling waterfall, there is no more delightful spot for summer fun, for camp fires and refreshing sleep, in tent or hut or beneath the stars.

And the whole camp is intended for the poor boys of Athens and Clarke county, the youngsters whos efamilies have no money and who cannot send them away, even to the least expensive of summer camps or resorts.

No boy will turned away from Pine Tops because he lacks money. All he has to do is provide a few wieners for his food and the energy to hike the three miles from Athens to the camp, where he will be welcome to stay, overnight or for the week-end.

There he will meet other boys, more fortunate financially, who will share the campfire and the moonlight and the water and the glory of the trees with him, on equal footing. Carefully selected older men will be in charge, men who know boys and their needs, physical and spiritual. Men who will, without his knowing it, instill a new sense of life's values, a new course, into the heart of the most discouraged and tempted of boys.

Keep 'Em Out of Court.

It is believed the camp will prove self-supporting, cottages being provided for older people who can spend the summer, or their vacations, there and pay their way, yet at far less cost than at any other place. But it is primarily intended for the boys.

The idea is to reach those boys who, in all our cities, are classed as one of our greatest problems. The boys of the streets who become recruits for the forces of disorder and crime. The youngsters who stand, a little later, in our juvenile courts while society, in the person of the judge, asks itself the question, "What can I do with you? How can I fulfill my obligation?"

The same boys who, later still, provide the individuals in those sad statistics that prove most of America's criminals are youngsters barely out of their 'teens.

In Athens they believe these boys, if given opportunity to know other youngsters, clean and honest and upright youths, if they are taught the beauties and the glories of nature and the out-of-doors, if they are trained to do necessary chores around camp for themselves, will become self-reliant, upright, good citizens.

The Objective Of "Pine Tops."

That is the objective of "Pine Tops."

One of Georgia's finest citizens, W. T. Forbes of Athens, who has devoted his life to youth, who has conducted the Athens "Y" camp above Tallulah Falls for a quarter of a century, is responsible for the inauguration of the "Pine Tops." Under his leadership the property was secured, the plan financed and put into operation. While the picnic tonight is the official opening of the camp, many groups of boys have spent nights or weekends there already. There were 37 there for Friday night and Saturday a week ago, for instance.

It's a grand idea. Couldn't something like it be arranged in Fulton county? Judge Watkins if Fulton juvenile court, will tell you there is urgent need for such a movement here.

A little enthusiasm, the right type of leadership and a little money to start off, might forestall quite a number of criminal careers, now germinating, that are, unless checked quickly, doomed to bring great sorrow and much expense to all of us.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From The Constitution of Friday, May 26, 1911:

"The days of the horse ambulance are numbered. The latest addition to Atlanta's auto world is an auto ambulance, which has been put into service by H. M. Patterson & Son funeral directors, and was first seen on the streets yesterday."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From The Constitution of Wednesday, May 26, 1886:

"W. T. Gentry, of the telephone service, is building a neat residence on Spring street."

If you haven't yet secured a copy of "Silhouettes in Rhyme," by Ralph T. Jones, send or bring 25 cents to "Silhouettes," care of The Constitution.

His Only Thought.

A passenger came struggling into the train with two very large suitcases. After much trouble he managed to heave them on to the luggage rack, while the other passengers edged away expecting them to come crashing down at any minute.

"Er—I say!" cried the fellow in the corner seat, as he eyed the suitcases nervously, "do you think they are safe up there?"

"Oh, yes," replied the owner cheerfully; "they are both locked."

Important!

Golfer (to members ahead): Pardon, would you mind if I played through? I've just heard that my wife has been taken seriously ill.

FAIR ENOUGH

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

4 More Years Seen for Lyons. WASHINGTON, May 25. Prophecy is not my line, but I dare say that the American people have a better than even chance to play host for four more years to Senator Wild Will Lyons, the executive assistant to the postmaster general and the great American guest. Senator Lyons occupies an office close to that of James Farley in which he performs his public services in return for the salary pertaining to one of the first appointments that Mr. Farley signed after coronation day, March 4, 1932. These duties consist of clipping and pasting in scrapbooks all the articles and cartoons that he can find in the papers relating to Mr. Farley and himself and of keeping the postmaster general amused. This latter phase of his work is surely a worthwhile public project though hardly to be classed as self-liquidating. Mr. Lyons has worn the title of senator for many years, explaining that he was for a spell in his early days a member of the upper house fo Colorado. He will admit, also, under so little pressure as to be scarcely noticeable, that he once rode with the Texas rangers, as their guest, no doubt. That phase of his career was a little before my time, however, and I have known him only as an inveterate guest, the constant guest, as you might say, and as a clothing salesman touring the beet fields and mine fields of the west with a line of snappy two-pants suits with belt in the back, combining the best goods with the highest character and workmanship, for as little as $12.

Attaches Self To Farley. After Jack Dempsey came along to be heavyweight champion of the world, Mr. Lyons became his guest on many occasions over the period of his reign and after Dempsey lost the title the senator attached himself to Mr. Farley, who was then just beginning to organize Frank Roosevelt. Always during my acquaintance with the senator he has had steady employment either in the two-pants suit belted back-line or as executive assistant to the postmaster general. Yet, if you were to ask me what he does I would instinctively reply, "Do? Why he is a guest." Because notwithstanding his achievements in other lines, notwithstanding his statesmanship in the Colorado legislature, his visit to the Texas rangers, his services as honorary timekeeper at some of the big Dempsey fights, I would still have to think of him in terms of his guestmanship of guesthood. I would recall the times when the senator said, "Well, I'm off tomorrow—the guest of the champ," or "See you in Louisville—I am Damon Runyon's guest this year," or "Jim Farley has asked me to be his guest at the democratic convention." Then, too, there were ever so many evenings in William La Hiff's tavern in New York when the senator dropped in to dine as the guest of this or that sportsman before going over to the garden to see the fights as the guest of the management.

Senator Is Perfect Gentleman. It seems almost as if there is some law in this country or a great national conspiracy to prevent the old senator from getting off his hands, not that it has been any great struggle to prevent him from doing so. The senator just seems to accept the situation gracefully and submits peacefully to a fate which denies him the privilege of lifting the tab for the party. There have been some great fumblers along Broadway who could break an arm churning their pants pockets while the waiter went to sleep on his feet, but the old senator is not one of those. If a man is a guest it is bad manners of him to give the bill so much as a distant glance and even worse form is to fumble. In this respect the senator can look the whole world in the face and defy any man to name the time when he was not a perfect gentleman.

The senator's guestmanship extends to other phases of his existence. He has probably the greatest American collection of season passes for things, including gold engraved passes and heavily embossed cards of admission and, of course, his warrant of appointment as special assistant to the postmaster general in itself is a pass. It has given him the status of guest of the American nation for almost four years now and its renewal will extend the invitation for four years more.

Wears Toupee, Carries Cane. Senator Lyons wears a toupee with a white blaze down the middle which sometimes gets turned somewhat slantwise in the heat of a social evening and he generally carries a walking stick, suitable for beating up whole gangs of desperadoes on dark streets at night. He is a man of elaborate courtesy to ladies and a model of behavior as becomes a guest.

In Washington having no inhibitions he is a very helpful man to his friends. Mr. Farley has limits beyond which he will not go, but Senator Lyons stands in awe of no man or office. I dare say that if I were to call him up in the middle of the night to get me out of jail he would immediately telephone Chief Justice Hughes and yell, "Hey, Charlie, Peg is in the can for some trouble with a cop; we have got to get him out."

That reminds me that the senator has never been my guest. I must invite him to dinner, although I probably will have to wait my turn for most likely he is booked up years in advance.

When the Colt Once Accepts the Saddle, He Is Doomed To Obey the Rider

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

You are, let us say, a well-behaved and self-respecting citizen. At night you sit in your living room, trying to get distant stations on your radio. A turn of the dial tunes in Moscow, and you hear a voice speaking your own language.

At that moment a policeman opens your door and walks in.

"What station you got, Mister?" he asks.

"Moscow," you say. "Clear, isn't it?"

"Yeah, it's fine," says the policeman. "Come and tell the judge about it."

And the judge gives you two years in the penitentiary.

That happened to a man in Germany. It would happen to you.

Or suppose you are dining with friends in a restaurant and you say to them: "The government is fooling us. That stuff it hands out to the newspapers is all hooey. If the people ever get the real dope and find out how they've been tricked, they're going to blow up."

A man at the next table gets up and goes out and a moment later a cop taps you on the shoulder. An hour later you are locked in a filthy and verminous cell.

That would happen to you in Italy.

Or suppose that you ask some friends to meet in your office and say to them: "We must do something to save ourselves or this administration will ruin us. We've got to find a man who can beat him and work together till the job's done."

A spy in the next room hears what you say, and you and your friends are stood against a wall and shot.

That would happen to you in Russia.

Or suppose you are on a step-ladder mending a window screen on a Saturday afternoon when the President rides by. Secret service men pull you down and take you to jail. You have committed the crime of standing above the level of your ruler so that you looked down on him.

That would happen to you in Japan.

Ours is the most wasteful, the most destructive and the most lawless country on earth, but with all its faults it is still a Paradise compared with other lands.

We have the undeserved and priceless boon of liberty—the right to do as we darned please—and if we also have plain horse sense, we shall fight tooth and nail when any man or policy threatens that right or any fraction of it.

HEALTH TALKS

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

NUTRITIONAL ANEMIA.

In the great majority of instances weakness of the blood, "blood turning to water," anemia, the condition is merely symptomatic or secondary, that is, it is incidental to some underlying disease such as incipient tuberculosis or nephritis or syphilis; or an effect of some prolonged or frequent slight bleeding as in some cases of duodenal ulcer, internal hemorrhoids, menorrhagia; or due to chronic poisoning with such drugs as acetanilide (the "kick" in many nostrums) or salts, calomel or castor oil. (Castor oil usually causes blood corpuscles to appear in the evacuations, showing that it produces minute internal hemorrhages.)

The treatment of everyday anemia is positively not a matter of taking iron. To take iron for such anemia is as sensible as it would be to carry water in a sieve. The specific cause of the loss or destruction of blood must be found and remedied.

That anemia is attributable to lack of iron is more debatable today than ever before. That certain types of anemia, notably hypochromic anemia (prevalent today) and chlorosis (the green sickness, prevalent 50 years ago but practically unknown today) are due to some fault in the assimilation of iron or its absorption from stomach or intestine, seems more and more probable.

An infant or invalid restricted to milk diet may get insufficient iron for the body's requirements. A prisoner kept on monotonous fare for months and years may get insufficient iron. But you and I would find it rather difficult to choose a diet which does not furnish plenty of iron—that is, provided we are not faddists or cultists or followers of some queer theory.

In any case of anemia, whether of the incidental secondary type or the essential primary type, it is futile, in my opinion, to give iron in any form in the quantity formerly deemed correct dose. That is, a few grains of iron, organic or inorganic, in powder, tablet, pill, liquid or hypodermic injection, can have no remedial effect. I believe the iron naturally present in numerous foods is most readily assimilated into the blood, and we must not forget that the daily requirements of the body are met by approximately one-fourth of a grain of iron. The prompt benefit from comparatively huge doses of iron—perhaps the equivalent of a teaspoonful of iron daily—in cases of hypochromic anemia is consistently explained on the older assumption that the iron combines with and neutralizes sulphur compounds in the alimentary canal which interfere with absorption of the food iron. It is even more consistently explained. I think, on the newer assumption that the patient's taste or appetite or desire for natural foods is increased or her care to select such foods is greater under medical advice, and consequently the patient's vitamin intake is increased. (Hypochromic anemia is at least ten times as frequent in women as in men—I have no idea why.)

In short I believe the chief cause of primary hypochromic or nutritional anemia is prolonged moderate vitamin deficiency, particularly vitamins B, G, C and D, and hence that an optimal vitamin ration to supplement the diet is essential for successful treatment, whether iron is given or not.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Derangement of Knee.

I am 18. After several falls while skating my knee became badly swollen on the inside. It feels rubbery when pressed. Suppose it is water on the knee. Ben Told knee will become stiff if water not drained.—(A. J.)

Answer—There may be a loose cartilage. You should have medical care and pay no attention to your friend Ben.

Parathyroid for Arthritis.

About a year ago you told of some good results from treating chronic deforming arthritis with parathyroid. Can you give me any references or information about the treatment? My sister is a victim.—(M. G.)

Answer—I'll give your physician any data and references I have concerning the treatment, on his request. The best results are obtained from daily injections of parathyroid hormone and the administration internally of massive doses of vitamin D and fair doses of calcium in one form or another, together with a high calcium diet. Send ten cents coin and stamped envelope bearing your address, for booklet "The Ills Called Rheumatism."

Hollywood Today

BY MARGARET SULLAVAN.

(Guest Columnist for Sheila Graham.)

HOLLYWOOD, May 25.—Whenever a motion picture actor refuses to play a certain role, that act invariably arouses sweeping comment—most of it being critical and aimed directly at the player.

The prevailing opinion seems to be that film players receive such large salaries we should be glad to do anything we are told.

As a matter of fact, that would be the simplest thing to do. Turning down a part always stirs up a fight with studio executives. And those things are no fun. That we are willing to face such battles should prove that our interest extends far beyond the salary checks we receive.

Of course, we value the money earned. To many of us it's more than we ever dreamed existed. But it isn't everything, and certainly is no reason why we shouldn't exercise some judgment in shaping our careers.

Nobody, regardless of his walk in life, wants to kick over the traces of a promising career. That includes movie actors. So we naturally don't want to play roles we feel will be harmful to our future success. That success is wholly dependent upon the quality of our performances. And it's impossible to play a part well when you know in your heart that you are unsuited for the character you are portraying.

So you see there always are two sides to a controversy between a studio and a player.

Personally, I never have walked out of any role, although there have been times when I wanted to so badly that nothing else seemed to matter. I had that feeling when I started my last picture, "The Moon's Our Home." I can't explain the reason now, but I was positive I never had been so miscast in my life. As a result I was miserable—and certain the picture would be bad. It seemed to me that the only thing to do was get out of it. So I asked for a release from my contract.

Walter Wanger, the producer, wanted me to stay in the picture. But he didn't order me to go through with it, as is so often done in other studios. He talked to me and persuaded me that the picture really would be very good for me because the role was different from any I ever had played before. We spent almost an entire day discussing the picture and my desire to get out of it. By the time we finished, Mr. Wanger had convinced me that I was lucky to be in the film.

I'm glad now that I stayed in the picture. I've heard it's one of the best I ever made. However, that doesn't mean all actors would have as much luck if they accepted whatever was handed them.

So, please don't judge actors too harshly when you read in the future that they have refused to play certain roles. Just remember they have their side of the question, too. And when they are perfectly willing to be taken off salary, which frequently happens, you may know they are fighting for you as well as themselves. You can't be entertained unless the players in a picture give good performances. And that's virtually impossible if they are miscast.

I don't mean to intimate that actors always are right—but they are part of the time, at least. So they certainly deserve to have their side of a casting argument given some consideration.

DO WOMEN SUFFER MORE THAN MEN?

Physicians tell us the nervous system of woman is more sensitive than that of man. And her nerves are more susceptible to the influences that produce "nerve tension" (strain) which is only another name for "pain."

That is why women especially benefit from Capudine, a pleasant-tasting, quick-acting liquid compound which relieves high nervous tension and pain by soothing the nerves. For nervous headache, neuralgic, and periodic pains Capudine is ideal. If Capudine does not relieve, you may be sure there is some organic condition which should receive the attention of your oculist, dentist or family physician. NEW JUDGESHIP BILL BEFORE HOUSE TODAY

Ramspeck Measure for Northern District of Georgia Faces Action.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The house rules committee is expected to report out favorably tomorrow a rule giving the right of way to the omnibus judgeship bill containing the Ramspeck provision for an additional judge in the northern judicial district of Georgia, it was learned here today.

At a two-hour session today the rules committee heard Representative Robert Ramspeck, of Atlanta, author of the measure, urge that a special rule be granted immediately so that his bill could be removed from the consent calendar where it now rests, and acted upon by the lower chamber before final adjournment of congress.

"I have every reason to believe," Ramspeck said, "that Chairman O'Connor, of the committee, will grant me a rule tomorrow. If he does, there is little if any doubt the measure will pass the house overwhelmingly."

Representatives from eight other judicial disiricts in various sections of the country also were heard today by the committee on provisions similar to that of Ramspeck.

Speaker of the House Byrns today said the house would be ready to adjourn sine die by June 6, a week from Saturday, and that if the senate had disposed of its "must" legislation, the relief and tax measure, by that time, this session of the congress would quit Washington in time for the republican national convention at Cleveland on June 9.

If the Ramspeck bill passes the house, it will then have to go to the senate, where it is expected Senator George and Senator Russell will maneuver it through that body.

Humphries Prepares To Greet 'New' Comet

Judge John D. Humphries, widely-known and enthusiastic amateur astronomer of Atlanta, is twisting this and that gadget on his telescopic equipment and getting everything in readiness for the appearance of the new Peltier comet, which will become visible during the latter part of July, according to announcement from Harvard College observatory.

The Peltier comet, latest of the heavenly bodies to be "discovered," was first seen May 15 by Leslie C. Peltier, garage mechanic and amateur astronomer of Delphos, Ohio.

Judge Humphries declared yesterday he will be "all set" for the appearance of the comet, the first to be visible to the unaided eye since 1927. He issued an invitation to Atlantans to take a "close up" view of the comet during its "visit" to the earth through the telescope at his home, 914 East Rock Springs road, N. E.

The judge has played host to star gazers and comet fans on various occasions before and his conversations always have proved as interesting and entertaining as the "peep-show" at the universe itself.

Auto Fatality Record Improves, Reports From 86 Cities Indicate

Battle front reports from various sectors in the war against death on the streets and highways of the country from automobile accidents give encouragement that the life-and-death battle of sane and thinking people against reckless driving might yet be won.

The Constitution Safety Council, in reports from 86 major cities of the United States, finds a reduction of 450 in the number of deaths from automobile accidents during the first 20 weeks of the year as compared with the same period of 1935.

The total so far this year is 2,810 against 3,260 last year.

Better Record.

For the week ending May 16 deaths totaled 143 compared with 165 in the previous week and 150 in the same week last year.

That means a saving, not in dollars and cents, but in human lives.

Encouraging also is the report of no fatal accidents in 44 of the 86 cities.

The Constitution Safety Council believes Atlanta can be one of those no-fatality cities, not just one week, but every week.

Sanity and safe driving are all needed. Anyone who said Atlanta motorists do not possess enough sanity and thinking power to avoid fatal and maiming accidents would be scoffed at. Yet such accidents continue.

What is the answer?

Up To Individual.

It lies with you, Mr. Motorist. We suggest you join your neighbors in giving the matter a little thought. Read over the rules of safe driving contained in the safety pledge found in this issue. If you feel you would like to follow those rules to save human lives, clip out the pledge, sign it and mail it to the Safety Council, Atlanta Constitution, with a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Two attractive safe driving stickers will be sent you for the front and rear windows of your car. They will remind you of the necessary rules of safe driving and will say to others:

"Carelessness is not worth the risk of human life."

A group of President Roosevelt's loyal Georgia supporters yesterday announced plans for a testimonial dinner in honor of the chief executive's Georgia campaign manager, Marion H. Allen, of Milledgeville, and Mrs. Allen. The dinner will be held at the Henry Grady hotel here on the night of June 2. It will begin at 8 o'clock.

A formal invitation was extended to Campaign Manager Allen for himself and Mrs. Allen yesterday by Alton Cogdell, of Americus, chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Cogdell announced the following committee which will serve with him:

Wind, Cairo; Judge Clement E. Sutton, Washington; C. J. Smith and Judge Alvin Freeman, Newnan, and Hughes Spalding, Steve Nance and J. A. Harper, Atlanta.

"Mr. Allen and Mrs. Allen have given their time to the Roosevelt cause and they are largely responsible for the success of the Roosevelt campaign in Georgia," Cogdell said. "We are expecting to pay them a fine tribute."

Reservations for the dinner may be made at Cogdell's office, 514 First National Bank building, or through the members of his committee.

S. W. SISK WILL HEAR NEW DEATH SENTENCE

The second young white man condemned to death for the murder of David A. Lord is to be resentenced to the electric chair Monday by Judge G. H. Howard in Fulton superior court.

He is S. W. Sisk, whose appeal from his conviction of the hold-up slaying of Lord in a Center Hill filling station more than a year ago was recently denied by the Georgia supreme court. Marvin Honea, also sentenced to death, paid the extreme penalty a few weeks ago at Milledgeville. A third man, Sam Daniel, was convicted, too, but received a sentence of life imprisonment.

Lord was shot and killed when he failed to get his hands up quick enough when the bandits entered the filling station. He was a FERA worker.

RESOLUTION DEPLORES DR. JOHN HOPE'S DEATH

A resolution conveying sympathy to the family of the late Dr. John Hope and to Atlanta University, of which he was president, was adopted by the executive committee of the Baptist World Alliance at the recent meeting in St. Louis, Dr. Ellis A. Fuller, of Atlanta, member of the committee, said here yesterday.

The resolution referred to the educator as a "Christian leader of the negro race" and stated that the executive committee will miss his service in planning for the next meeting of the Baptist World Alliance, to be held here in the fall of 1939.

INVESTMENT HOUSE IS SUED BY CLIENT

Zimmerman and Company Put in Receivership by Fulton Judge.

A receiver was appointed yesterday for Zimmerman & Co., investment house, following filing of a suit in Fulton superior court seeking recovery of securities, or cash equivalent, allegedly left with the firm on March 20 by T. D. Williams, of Habersham county.

Judge Virlyn B. Moore, before whom the action was filed, named Clifford R. Wheeless as receiver. Wheeless stated last night that a preliminary investigation indicated claims totaling approximately $15,000 with apparently no asserts other than office furniture.

Williams' suit was filed by the firm of Reynolds & Brandon. It alleged that on March 20 last the plaintiff turned over to J. Zimmerman, doing business as Zimmerman & Co., 2,000 shares of United States Oil and Royalties for sale and that all efforts to recover the shares or their equivalent in money have failed.

Zimmerman & Co. was represented by the law firm of Walker & Kilbride.

BIG SEASON REPORTED ON LOCAL MULE MART

Record Sales in March, April Offset Slump in Early Part of Year.

Atlanta's place as the leading mule market of the world is still secure. The decrease in sales during January and February was followed by a record March and April, according to mule merchants and railroad live stock agents, who yesterday were preparing to close the 1935-36 mule season.

With the exception of a week of highly successful mule auctioning, freezing weather, ice and snow made things look bad for the city's throne atop the mule-selling world during the first two months of the year.

But with the coming of warmer weather, mules and mule buyers began pouring in from all parts of this country and Canada and the mule market here began booming again. By the time the market season closes within the next few days and official figures are compiled, it is expected that sales this season will just about equal the high record of last season.

Good prices prevailed again this year, mule merchants declared, with the animals bringing from $40 to $50 a head higher than during the past several years. Better breeds brought top prices of $350 a head, it was reported, with a price of $600 a pair not unusual.

FULTON HIGH ALUMNI WILL MEET TONIGHT

Fulton High Alumni Association will hold a meeting at 8 o'clock tonight in the school auditorium on Washington street to elect officers, complete arrangements for entertaining the present graduating class and to formulate plans for the summer months, it was announced yesterday.

Plans for tonight's meeting were made at a reunion held Sunday afternoon, when more than 300 alumni and teachers were present. At that meeting, the Fulton High band, under the direction of Charles Taylor, and the Glee Club, directed by Mrs. J. C. Brown, were in charge of the program. Refreshments were served by the home economics department.

"The LAST THING WE WANT . . ."

(A True Story)

ONE DAY recently a business man came to the bank. He had been negotiating with an individual for a loan. In part, this was what he said:

"I can get this money, but somehow I have the feeling that this man will wait in anticipation, hoping that I will default, so that he can take over my plant. Can your bank handle the loan?"

The loan was made. In addition, he went away with this assurance from one of the bank officers:

"Remember that the last thing the bank wants to do is take over your plant. If we thought in advance that such action would be necessary, we would not make the loan.

"As long as you make regular payments according to our agreement, we have nothing to say about your plans or operations. The plant is yours. Its profits are yours. If through this loan we can help you to greater success and larger profits, we have accomplished one of the basic purposes for which banks were established. This, plus a moderate rate of interest on the money you are borrowing, gives us complete compensation.

"And remember also that, as a customer, we are pleased at any time to give you any advice or counsel, born of our experience, which will help to make your business more successful."

To my mind this typical illustration of CITIZENS & SOUTHERN policies is real commercial banking.

WHAT I THINK ABOUT Life Insurance

WALTER H. RICH,
President, Rich's, Inc.

This is the first of a series of messages from Atlanta citizens prominent in business and civic affairs who will cite their views and opinions on life insurance. This series will be followed with interest by many who appreciate the sound viewpoints of successful men. Watch for those to follow.

I am a great advocate of life insurance, in that it affords the most definite protection to one's family and the institutions for which one is responsible.

Furthermore, it is a remarkable incentive to save, and consequently lends to one's character a spirit of thrift.

As a reserve against a financial emergency, it is most sound.

Life insurance is in its infancy, and though it has progressed with rapid strides, I think it is the bulwark of American life, American home, and American business.

Babson Warns Arkansas Students To Seek Interior in Fear of War

Economist Discusses Internal Revolutions in Address.

CONWAY, Ark., May 25.—(AP)—Roger W. Babson, envisioning another World War before 1950 which might bring destruction to the great seaboard cities, advised college graduates today to plan their futures in interior America.

Discussing the possibility of a general war and internal social revolution, the Massachusetts economist and statistician said in an address prepared for delivery before joint commencement exercises of Hendrix and Arkansas State Teachers' Colleges: "Frankly, I believe that you are to see very perilous times."

"There will be no European war this year, or perhaps for several years; but only a spiritual awakening can prevent another great World War before 1950, into which the United States will necessarily be drawn," he said. "In this coming world conflict I should not be surprised to see destruction of the great cities on our Atlantic and Pacific seacoasts. . . .

"You may be interested to know why I accepted this invitation to travel 2,000 miles from Boston merely to give this address in the little town of Conway, Ark. It would seem even stranger to you if you knew of the many invitations to speak at great educational institutions near my home, which I have refused in order to fulfill this engagement. The answer is that I can speak more freely out here in Arkansas than I could at the great universities in large eastern cities, which I feel are liable to be destroyed."

Babson spoke on "Lessons I Have Learned From Hard Knocks," his advice to the graduates included:

"Remain in the state of Arkansas. Do not go to any seaboard city, whether it is located on the Atlantic or Pacific coast. Keep fairly well in the interior of the country.

"Avoid large cities. If a revolution takes place, it will not be between capitalists and socialists, but it will be between the people living in the cities and the people living in the country. If such a conflict comes, those living in small cities will have a great advantage. In such a conflict, the large cities have not a chance. They could be starved into submission within a week."

Urging also the acquisition of a home "with a patch of land sufficient to support yourself and family in an emergency," the learning of a profession or trade, emphasis on character and health, large families and "interest in some church," Babson said:

"I wish there was some way my words could put in permanent form and stored away by you to be taken down about the year 1950. Then you will be wishing that you had taken the advice of this old fogy who is talking to you tonight."

Describing fascism as something "due to people preferring to be led and to have decisions made for them," Babson said:

"I have great fear of what would happen to our present economic system as the result of another world conflict. It certainly seems as if fascism would spread over the world, due to the latent power of bombing planes and radio broadcasting. These have social and economic possibilities beyond the craziest dreams."

OIL TAXES ARE PAID

Revenue Turned Over to Daniel by Carreker.

State fuel oil tax collections for April totaled $1,414,969, one of the largest in recent months, Comptroller G. B. Carreker announced yesterday. The collections were paid by the oil companies Saturday and yesterday.

Of the total $1,396,684 was paid in gasoline taxes and the balance in kerosene taxes.

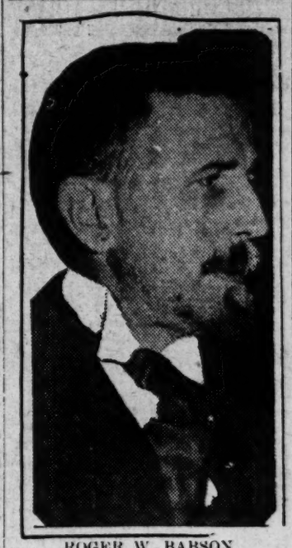

This is the first month since Governor Talmadge took control of the state's finances that the oil companies have paid the taxes to Carreker. He turned them over to J. B. Daniel, the treasurer. They were not collected by the revenue commission, which is under injunction from Judge Claude Porter, of Rome, not to turn them over to the treasurer.

SHORTAGE OF WORKERS POSSIBLE, SLOAN SAYS

General Motors President Addresses Chamber of Commerce.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—(AP)—Declaring that "America's production plant is obsolete," Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors Corporation, said today, "it is perfectly possible to develop in this country a worker shortage instead of a job shortage, at least during the upper part of the so-called 'business cycle.'"

In an address prepared for delivery before the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, Sloan urged industry to set up "a more adequate provision for obsolescence."

The door to "more and better jobs," he said, "is wide open—we can start now.

"Everything is waiting. There is a grand opportunity to rebuild America on the basis of today's technology. And it is an opportunity not only for today, but for tomorrow—a continuous opportunity."

In order to provide more adequately for obsolenscence, the industrialist urged stimulation of the movement through a more intelligent system of taxation.

"At the moment we are trying to go the opposite way," he said.

SENATE TO RESTUDY CANAL TOMORROW

Commerce Committee To Consider Robinson Resolution for Revival.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP)—Consideration of a resolution seeking to revive the Florida ship canal and the Passamaquoddy tidal power project in Maine will be resumed Wednesday.

The senate commerce committee announced today the Florida canal aspects of the resolution, offered by Senator Robinson, democrat, Arkansas, would be heard. It would give President Roosevelt authority to make new allotments to the two projects provided proposed boards of engineers report they are feasible.

The commerce committee last Wednesday took detailed testimony on Passamaquoddy from Governor Brann, of Maine, and others, but adjourned without discussing the merits of the Florida canal.

TONGUE SLITTING LAID TO LUCIANO SYNDICATE

Charging Threats on Life, Girl Testifies on Strong-Arm Methods.

NEW YORK, May 25.—(UP)—The thrusting of lighted cigarets against the feet and the slitting of tongues down the middle were the methods used by "Lucky" Luciano's strong-arm men to keep order in his vast vice organization, a girl who earned her living by prostitution testified in supreme court today.

The question came up almost casually as Thelma Jordan was going over the threadbare story of how Luciano's men levied tribute on houses of prostitution and sometimes ran their profits to the staggering sum of $35,000 a night.

When she had finished that story—damaging evidence against Luciano and his nine associates on trial charged with compulsory prostitution—David P. Siegel, defense attorney, started cross-examination. He asked Thelma how long it had taken Special Prosecutor Thomas Dewey to persuade her to come into court today and testify against men who once had helped her make a living. She said she had agreed to be a witness only after ten interviews.

"Why didn't you talk sooner?" Siegel shouted.

Tongues Cut Out.

"Because I know what the combination does to girls who talk," Thelma said. "Plenty of girls who talked too much have had their feet burned and their stomachs burned with cigarets and their tongues cut. . . ."

Siegel yelled at her to be quiet, trying to shut off this testimony that he had not bargained for when he aske the question.

"But you're not afraid to talk now, are you?" he said.

"No, I'm not," Thelma said. "I got confidence in the people behind me."

"Who do you mean?"

"Mr. Dewey and the district attorney."

Then the prosecutors came back and asked her to explain more about the threats of torture. Thelma said Ralph Liguori, one of the defendants and alleged strong-arm man for the Luciano syndicate, had gone to a friend of her's—Nancy Presser—and warned her she better not testify against anybody.

"Remember Titterion?"

"Ralph told Nancy that if she ever talked he would see that she got her picture in her home town paper so her people and friends would see what's become of her," Thelma said. "Then he said to her: 'You been reading about the Titterton case, haven't you—about the woman who was murdered in the bathtub? Well, don't do any talking; just remember what happened to the Titterton woman.'"

Thelma said she came to New York in 1933. She said she met Jack Eller and Pete Balitzer, alleged bookers for the girls in the Luciano syndicate, and that they began putting her in houses.

Soon, she said, she became the sweetheart of Benny Spiller, one of the defendants, and through him, the sweetheart of Jimmy Fredericks, who also is on trial.

"One day I asked Fredericks to have a drink," Thelma said, "and he told me 'I can't, I got to go down town and see the boss.' I said, 'Who's the boss?' and he tells me 'you ought to know by now that it's Charlie Lucky.'"

BRIDGE 'PARLORS' ARE HELD LEGAL

Case Dismissed Against Two Operators of Contract Studio.

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP)—A legal grand slam was scored for American contract bridge players who like to play for something, when charges were dismissed today against two New York women accused of maintaining a gambling resort.

Participants in what Ely Culbertson calls "a $60,000,000-a-year American industry" hailed the verdict as meaning that operators of bridge parlors hereafter need have no fear of police raids.

The defendants, Mildred Lovejoy, 34, and Adelaide Neuwirth, 35, were supervising five tables of duplicate contract bridge in their studio on April 28 when the uninvited policemen broke up the party. The women admitted collecting a dollar from each player, half of which was set up as a grand prize.

Assistant District Attorney Morris Spalter, described by his friends as "no mean bridge player himself," admitted he couldn't find anyone in New York to testify that bridge was a game of chance. He had to call on defense witnesses.

The expert, Culbertson, one of the witnesses, described bridge as "predominantly a game of skill, but there is the element of chance, just as there is in life."

NOTE SAYS ROBBERS FORCED POISON DRINK

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 25.—(AP) Lannie Wright Stewart, a former preacher, was found dead on a cot in his filling station today with a note that robbers forced him to drink poison.

Officers launched an investigation tonight to determine if the case was murder or suicide.

The body of Stewart was found this morning by an oil truck driver. His empty pocketbook lay on the floor and the note was on a desk.

"Two young men," the note said, "knocked on the door and said they wanted some gasoline for their car. When I opened the door they hit me and pushed me back in bed, and one held a pistol to my head and the other one made me take several swallows of some drug that burned my throat. . . . I feel like I am dying."

"They wore shaded glasses and gloves and said all they wanted was my money and I would wake up O. K.," the note added. It was addressed to "Dear mother and children."

PRESBYTERIANS FAIL TO AGREE ON UNITY

By RICHARD McMURRAY,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

AUGUSTA, Ga., May 25.—(AP)—Southern Presbyterians failed to agree tonight on proposals to unite with other branches of the church.

Spirited debate, producing varied views, followed a report of the foreign relations committee urging the matter be passed by without action.

A committee of five—composed of the principal debaters—was appointed to seek a basis of action by the assembly, possibly tomorrow.

Dr. T. S. Smylie, of St. Louis, urged the appointment of a new committee to make overtures to other bodies seeking unity.

"There is a great need for unity among those who hold a like confession," he said, "we should do everything possible to smooth out differences until all Presbyterian bodies are fused into a common unit."

Dr. Dunbar H. Ogden, of New Orleans, said he would ask appointment of a committee to seek a basis of unity. This group would report to the 1937 assembly in Montreat, N. C. They would not confer with other branches.

Vigorous opposition to union with the northern branch was voiced by Dr. B. F. Bedinger, 81, of Red Springs, N. C.

"Every time they (the northern church) say they want to unite, it means 'We'll swallow you up or nothing.'"

Dr. Edward Mack, of Richmond, read the report, offered after four presbyteries had asked for union with the Northern and Reformed branches of the denomination.

"We believe no further answer is now necessary than to suggest that the assembly continue the present ad interim committee of union with other Presbyterian bodies," the report said.

The Rev. W. P. Robertson, of Concord, N. C., proposed an executive secretary and committee be set up in each synod to govern the appointment and terms of pastors.

"The most pressing problem is not the churches' pastors or the pastorless churches," he said. "The problem is the churches with pastors which want to make changes."

His plan was greeted with suggestions by delegates that he was proposing a "Presbyterian bishop."

Dr. E. B. Paisley, of Richmond, urged the assembly to be more liberal in its support of the training school for lay workers of which he is president.

A report from Asheville presbytery that 1,040 churches—about half the membership—had added no members through confession of faith during the year provoked extended discussion and prayer.

"Baptists are gathering in many more converts than we," Dr. J. P. McCallie, of Chattanooga, said.

Dr. Egbert W. Smith, of Nashville, field secretary for foreign missions, spoke tonight on the hardships of missionaries.

He praised the Presbyterians' work abroad, saying:

"You are getting more for your foreign mission dollar than for any other dollar in the entire church budget."

Dr. Robert E. Speer, eminent New York churchman, also spoke on foreign missionary work at the night session.

T. W. REED LAUDS HENRY W. GRADY

Outstanding Works Should Be Published, Speaker Says.

ATHENS, Ga., May 25.—(AP)—Outstanding works of Henry W. Grady, distinguished southern journalist and orator of the reconstruction days, should be collected and published, Registrar T. W. Reed, of the University of Georgia, said here today.

Speaking at the annual memorial exercises at the university's Grady School of Journalism, Mr. Reed, who knew the editor personally, said:

"The Gettysburg oration of Abraham Lincoln is used in almost every school in this republic as a model of English composition. It deserves the high station accorded it. Yet, every school child would be immeasureably richer in contemplation of the beauties of his mother tongue were there placed in his hands a copy of Henry Grady's editorial on "A Perfect Chirstmas Day."

The veteran registrar also praised Grady as a "great humanitarian."

BIG FUTURE FORECAST FOR PIEDMONT AREA

Augusta Editor Tells Elberton Class Section Faces Development.

ELBERTON, Ga., May 25.—(AP)—Thomas J. Hamilton predicted tonight the next 25 years would bring the Georgia-Carolina Piedmont area the "greatest development that has ever occurred in this country."

Hamilton, editor of the Augusta Chronicle and for many years a leader in the move for development of that area, was commencement speaker at Elberton High school.

"I would regard you young people as the potential developers of the imperial valley of the Savannah river, of the great Georgia and South Carolina Piedmont, which begins at Augusta, extends over to Columbia, to Charlotte, and thence over to Gainesville and Atlanta," he said.

"We need you in this development, for great things are coming to pass in the next few years. You have heard a lot about Clarks Hill, that gigantic development some distance below us. I am confident that this great project will be built and our section industrialized.

"I like to refer to us as an agricultural and industrial empire, with the greatest possibilities of any similar size area of the earth's surface."

Hamilton said with "an ideal climate, with unlimited power, with fertile soil, with truck, rail and water transportation, and with an abundance of raw products for manufacturing," a great development would occur in the area in the next 25 years.

"The trend of industry is southward; the trend of population is southward; people stay in New England and other sections of the north because they do not know any better.

"We are in God's chosen country and we need you young people to help us develop it. We shall see the Savannah river eventually developed, with eight dams above Augusta; one on the Broad river near you; and another near Hartwell. Electricity will be used for everything on the farm and in the cities. We shall even heat our homes with electricity, and it will be more attractive living on farms with the conveniences provided through electricity than it will be living in towns and cities."

ROCKMART CITIZENS TO CONFER ON ROAD

Motorcade of 100 Cars To Operate To Capitol Tomorrow.

ROCKMART, Ga., May 25.—Approximately 100 automobiles will form a motorcade here Wednesday and go to Atlanta to appear before Governor Talmadge and the highway board to urge that the Rockmart-Rome highway be paved and that the road be routed through Aragon, near here.

There is a movement on foot, it is claimed, to seek another route for the highway which would eliminate Aragon and a big cement plant between here and Aragon. It is purpose of the group to urge that the road be run through Aragon. It is 22 miles from Rockmart to Rome, four miles in Floyd county already being paved.

The motorcade is to leave here at 7:30 o'clock and reach Atlanta in time for the appointment with the Governor at 10:30 o'clock, Atlanta time.

The motorcade is sponsored by the local Chamber of Commerce, the Civic Club and by the Woman's Club. Those who will speak will include Mayor J. M. Cochran, City Manager Cliff Hulsey, Colonel C. D. Franklin, Colonel W. W. Mundy and Major Homer Watkins, of Cedartown.

CUNNINGHAM RITES HELD IN SAVANNAH

Civic Leader and Wife of Prominent Attorney Dies After Long Illness.

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 25.—Funeral services for Mrs. T. Mayhew Cunningham, wife of the general counsel for the Central of Georgia railroad and prominent member of the Georgia bar, who died at her home here riday, were held at the home Saturday afternoon. Rev. David C. Wright, rector of Christ church, of which she had long been a devoted member, officiated. Interment was in Bonaventure cemetery.

Mrs. Cunningham suffered an accident last summer and her condition during the year had shown improvement, but she was taken seriously ill about two months ago.

She was before her marriage Miss Lilla Clifford Woodbridge, daughter of Eliza Anderson Lamar and Henry Hall Woodbridge. She was a granddaughter of Judge John C. Nicoll and of Colonel Charles A. L. Lamar, both eminent Georgians, and was related to the Habershams, the Waynes, and many other noted Georgia families.

Her husband, T. Mayhew Cunningham, a distinguished member of the Georgia bar, survives her and she is also survived by her sisters, Miss Caroline L. Woodbridge and Miss Mildred D. Cunningham.

Mrs. Cunningham was a member of the Georgia Society, the Colonial Dames of America, and had at one time been an officer of that society. She was treasurer of the Episcopal Orphans' Home and a member of the board of the Mills memorial. She was for several years a member of the municipal board of sanitary commissioners and its only woman member.

She took a genuine interest in public affairs and in the welfare and progress of the city, and was always a leader in movements for the advancement of women. She was one of the Savannah pioneers in the cause of equal suffrage and was a leader in the organization formed to gain the franchise for women. Always fearless in support of her convictions, her social tact and personal charm and her native kindness and sympathy gave her a unique place in Savannah.

LAWYERS, JUDGES TO MEET THURSDAY

Georgia Attorneys and Jurists To Convene at Savannah During Week.

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 25.—(AP)—An entertainment in the grid-iron club style will be a feature of the annual dinner of the Georgia Bar Association here Friday during the three-day annual session of the organization.

It is rumored some of the best-known jurists and attorneys in the state will participate in a farce entitled "Lawyers and the Welfare Clause," which is expected to be the high light of the Friday dinner.

The convention opens Thursday morning and advance reservations indicate the registration will be unusually large.

While the Georgia Bar Association is meeting at Wilmington Island, the superior court judges of Georgia will be in session at Hotel Savannah to consider revising the rules of practice in state courts.

Much interest is being manifested in the address of Stanley Reed, solicitor general of the United States, who is scheduled to speak Thursday on "The Constitution—A Vital Institution."

Other speakers on the program include Judge A. B. Lovett, president of the association; Judge Samuel C. Atkinson, justice of the Georgia supreme court; Dr. Harmon W. Caldwell, president of the University of Georgia; Judge Nash R. Broyles, chief judge of the court of appeals of Georgia; Judge Blanton Fortson, of Athens, superior court judge, and Woolvin L. Patten, of the Mercer University Law School.

BANKER WOUNDED

R. L. McClain Found Shot at Jasper.

JASPER, Ga., May 25.—(AP)—R. L. McClain, 63, former president of the Pickens County bank, suffered a pistol wound in the chest today and was removed to a hospital at Tate for treatment.

He was found in the back yard of his home with a pistol near by.

McClain is a former member of the state legislature and a former president of the Georgia County Bankers' Association.

Authorities said the Pickens County bank has been in process of liquidation since October, 1934.

MORRIS ACCEPTS POST WITH MIAMI CHAMBER

MACON, Ga., May 25.—(AP)—John L. Morris, manager of the Macon Chamber of Commerce, will become executive secretary of the Miami Chamber of Commerce next month.

Morris, head of the Macon organization since 1931, formerly was news editor on the Macon Evening News and the Macon Telegraph. He previously had worked on the Tampa Tribune and as publicity manager for the city of Lakeland, Fla.

His resignation becomes effective June 15 or as soon as the financial campaign of the Macon Chamber of Commerce is completed.

Lost Glass Nest Egg Swallowed by Snake

BAMBREG, S. C., May 25.—(AP) A year ago a glass nest egg disappeared on the farm of R. O. Rice.

A few days ago he saw a chicken snake trying in vain to get through a hole in the garage floor.

Rice killed the snake and found that a hump in the snake prevented the reptile's passage through the hole.

And what caused the hump? You guessed it, the artificial egg.

MONOPOLIES HINDER RECOVERY, RIVERS SAYS

Praise of Roosevelt Applauded at Macon Food Dealers' Session.

MACON, Ga., May 25.—(AP)—Great monopolies in retail trade are one of the principal hindrances to recovery, Ed Rivers, candidate for Governor, said in an address here today before members of the Georgia Retail Food Dealers' Association in convention.

"I think the monopolies were greatly to blame for the recent depression and are a hindrance to recovery," Mr. Rivers declared. "We had a depression because of the lack of the circulation of capital. Where was it? It was leaving the communities, where it had been made, and going into the channels of the monopoly owners in a few central points.

"Such a condition makes it impossible for individuals to own homes, real estate, employ others, and, eventually, to stay in business. The government has got to curb it.

"We all have a natural abhorrence to government legislating business, but the chain stores are getting to the place where the interference of the government is needed as 'police protection' to the small individual owners.

"If the government doesn't do something to stop the great monopolies it is going to have to legislate for birth control, or have a war or make adequate social security provision to care for the unemployed. Since 1920 the chain stores have increased from 5 to 35 per cent, and if that rate continues the government is going to have greater numbers than ever on its relief rolls."

Mr. Rivers was roundly applauded when he said he favored President Roosevelt's administration. The delegation decided to send telegrams to the Georgia representatives urging the passage of the Robinson bill.

Nothing but organization is going to save the future of the retail trade, J. W. McDonald, grocer, of Augusta, said this morning in the opening session of the association.

"You see examples everywhere of failures because the parties did not organize," he declared.

The convention was called to order by President S. A. Camp, of Atlanta.

This morning, H. L. Chichester, local druggist, who is president of the Georgia Better Business Association, and Arthur L. Brooke, executive secretary of the association, told of the purpose and program of that organization.

Mayor Herbert Smart welcomed the delegates and Lester W. Grady, president of the Macon Retail Food Dealers' Association, welcomed them for the local grocers. Response was made by Alton Harvey, of Thomaston.

GOVERNOR EXPECTS FAVORABLE RULING

By GLENN RAMSEY,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

GLENNVILLE, Ga., May 25.—(AP) Predicting the state supreme court would dissolve the injunction against the State Revenue Commission, Governor Talmadge tonight said he had ordered Treasurer J. B. Daniel to prepare to pay out the money held up to schools and counties.

Judge Claude Porter, at Rome, enjoined the commission from paying gasoline tax revenue to Treasurer Daniel. One cent of the money goes to counties for schools, one cent to them for roads and the remaining four cents to the State Highway Department.

"I have notified Treasurer Daniel, held by the state supreme court to be the treasurer of Georgia," to get ready to pay the school money as soon as possible after the supreme court releases it," the Governor said.

He spoke at graduation exercises of the Glennville High school. Louise Dubberly, one of the graduates, introduced the Governor. C. E. McDaniel is acting superintendent of the school.

Confining most of his remarks to the school situation in the state, the Governor said in cases where teachers were not receiving their money it was due to conditions in that county.

He is advocating the approval by the people in the November general election of an amendment to the state constitution limiting taxation to 15 mills for all purposes.

SCHOOLED BY THE SEA

In the great liners of Cunard White Star British seamen...themselves descendants of British seamen...keep alive the centuries-old art of working in rope. Such skill, less talked-of now, is basic none-the-less ... an important symbol of what the British tradition means. Today, when you cross Cunard White Star, that tradition takes many forms. It influences not only seamen on deck and officers on the bridge. Stewards and stewardesses, proud of their association, exemplify it in a quiet, expert attention to scores of little things which add so much to the pleasure of your crossing.

In the "Queen Mary", newest of the fleet, the tasteful setting so necessary to the sense of transatlantic well-being has been carefully retained throughout. The "Queen Mary" is never grandiose for mere effect. Size, speed, dignity, and power she has, of course. But she is, first and last, a ship...distinguished by the heritage of those who serve in her ...built to fulfil a very definite function as one mote liner in the year-'round express service of Cunard White Star.

TOMORROW'S CHILD

By JULIE ANNE MOORE

INSTALLMENT XXXIII.

"But bless my soul," Cran's father continued earnestly, "I come here and find him critically hurt, and the first thing he asks me is, 'Do you suppose she loves me enough to marry me, Dad?' . . . Naturally, I told him it would hardly be fair to make a proposal of marriage under the circumstances but I felt sure you would be willing to come to see him and cheer him up and—" He paused and his lips essayed a faint smile. "I'm afraid I've gone into a good deal more detail than I intended doing, but—" Another pause, looking at her gravely now, bending forward a little: "The boys happens to be all I have, Miss Clarke, and I am naturally more interested in his happiness than in anything else in the world. That's why I'm presuming to ask you if—I mean to say, if Crandall should bring the subject up against and I could tell him, authoritatively—"

Val said in a small, troubled voice, "Cran asked me himself, Mr. Scott—a few minutes ago. Not in so many words, but I understood and he knew I understood." She watched Hugh splicing and unsplicing his fingers.

The elder Scott, looking at her with anxious eagerness. "The boy had the temerity," he demanded with feigned incredulity, "to ask you to—marry him?"

Val met his almost pleading gaze, nodded and said, quickly, "I told him I would, of course." And in that instant when she saw Hugh looking at her and gravely nodding approval of what she had done, she knew with the certitude of perfect revelation that love, the only real love of a man she would ever know, had come to her in an impulsive kiss in the foyer of Kate's apartment weeks ago—and she had been too blind to see it.

Guy was not brought back to New York until Friday of the first week of January. During the previous ten days inquiries had poured into District Attorney Kellogg's office as to why he had sought Guy's arrest. Wishing to prevent a spectacle such as the morbidly curious can produce, Kellogg and the police agreed that nothing should be given out until after the funeral Sunday afternoon.

However, hardly had the sealed casket been received at the obscure sidestreet undertaking establishmnt than the truth leaked out. The late editions of that day carried the startling announcement, that at the time he met death in an airplane accident in Mexico, "Guy Williams, New York playboy and heir to twenty-three millions, was sought for the murders of Leslie Crawford, Broadway idol, and his half-brother, Bret Gallishaw, the novelist . . ."

Hugh's old friend Kellogg phoned him that a simple service was to be held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. "I don't know if you or any of your crowd are interested," Kellogg said, "but I thought I'd let you know. By the way, I called his wife in Washington. Her mother took the call and gave me an awful tongue lashing. Said she didn't want to hear her daughter's name mentioned in the same breath with Williams."

"You can't blame her for that," Hugh told him.

"I can blame her for giving me the old boy. I didn't make the match. What's she so fussy about, anyway? Marrying Williams made her daughter a twenty-three-million-dollar widow, didn't it?"

There were less than 30 persons present at the funeral service. Hugh, Kate and Val sat together and though Val was constantly looking at Hugh out of the corner of her eye, he gave no sign by which she could know he was even aware of her presence.

When they were leaving the chapel Val suddenly touched Kate's shoulder and whispered, "I'll meet you outside in a minute. Take Hugh with you." A moment later she dropped into a chair beside a slim girl in a cheap cloth coat and a gaudy little hat with a nose-length veil. "Leeze . . . when did you come?"

"I came up by plane about an hour ago. I'm in this rig to dodge reporters and photographers. Where can I see you, Val?"

Val had been about to give her Kate's address, but she suddenly asked, "Have you seen Cran?" And when Leeze shook her head, "I'll meet you at the hospital in half an hour. Afterwards we'll go to lunch somewhere."

The casket had not been moved. Val looked at it as she rose and turned her eyes to Leeze's again. Leeze merely shrugged. There was no sorrow for her, no regrets, no fragile memories to haunt her through these next months. Whatever it was about Guy that attracted her, it had died with him and now she was a twenty-three-million-dollar widow at an age when most girls are not yet married. What more, for a girl of Leeze's peculiar temperament, could a girl ask?

* * * *

Cran's rapid improvement was almost miraculous. For one full week he had hung suspended between life and death, and then overnight he had come out of the dark valley and begun to mend. The surgeons took the credit to themselves, but the head nurse, who had watched the effect of Val's daily visits held a contrary opinion. Cran's father had gone back to Washington last evening—to return in a few days—with the positive assurance that his son was well out of danger. He and the head nurse shared the same theory.

"I've brought you a surprise, Cran," Val said as she entered his room. "You're to let her do most of the talking."

When Cran saw Leeze, he grinned and took a hand from under the cover and thrust it out at her. "Did you a dirty trick, didn't I, leaving you marooned on Christmas? But how was I to know some mug would come along and fill me full of lead?"

Leeze kissed him and her eyes filled with tears. She said gruffly, "You cut me out of Christmas dinner, you dope. Why didn't you tell me you were going to get yourself shot up?"

"What's happened to Guy?" Cran asked. "Not that I'm anxious to see him, but—"

Quickly Leeze said, "Guy's gone places. He hasn't been seen around these parts in over a week. . . . When do you expect to get out of this joint?"

"What's the hurry? I'm having a swell time."

Watching them, Val thought, "They get along, these two. They understand each other and they speak the same language. I don't belong to their world. We grew up differently." Just hearing them talk made her realize that Cran was never quite himself when he was with her. "I'm trying to be his kind, and he's trying to be my kind and neither of us is succeeding very well."

Later, when they were at lunch, Val said casually, "You and Cran always seemed to me ideally suited to each other."

Leeze nodded. "We were, until Guy came along. Cran's a peach. I suppose I've always loved him a little—even after he went into a spin over you. . . . He'll never get over you, Val."

And then, because she saw in Leeze one last desperate hope, Val told her what had happened. . . . "That day when I went into his room I didn't know the answer myself, Leeze. But even if I had known, as I did a few minutes later, I couldn't have said 'no.' They thought Cran was dying. And now—" She broke off with a little shrug.

"He put you on the spot, didn't he? The big mope. . . . But you can't go through with it."

"What else can I do?" Val asked, helplessly. "It isn't simply that I've promised—he's really in love with me, Leeze. I don't think you can understand what that means. I couldn't—until it happened to me."

Leeze's long lashes came up quickly. "That's right, you're engaged to some boy up in Connecticut."

"No. . . ." Val shook her head slowly. "I'm engaged to Cran, but—" suddenly dropping her eyes—"I'm in love with a man who thinks I may be a nice girl when I grow up."

Her voice quivering with laughter, Leeze said, "Don't take it so seriously, Val. There's always a way out. I can't do anying about the man you want, probably, but I can find out what this thing is Cran calls love."

Leaving Val at the hospital after the funeral service, Hugh drove to the offices of Fleg & Ramsdell, investigators. Fleg invariably held out hope of early results.

"I put another man on the case this morning, Mr. Malcolm," he announced cheerfully. "That makes three and they're all good men and they ain't missing any bets. If that kid's alive, we'll find him sooner or later. Keep your shirt on now and . ."

Winifred herself opened the door. When Hugh stepped inside, she put her arms around his neck and kissed him. "I know," she said, "don't tell me. They're working day and night, but they haven't found Philippe." She slipped her arm through his and led the way to the sofa. "You're a darling to go through this every day . . . having to get the same old report, and then come and face me with it. . . . Don't get settled yet. Kate Hollister called and she wants you to call her back."

When Hugh got Kate on the phone she asked, "Have you any notion where Val is, Hugh?"

"She isn't. I called there but she and Leeze had left. They're probably having lunch somewhere. And it's very important. Val's Aunt Mahala has had a stroke or a heart attack or something and they want her to come at once. The message came from Robert Greeley."

Hugh groaned. "That girl has had nothing but trouble for months," he said. "How long does it keep up?"

"There isn't much left to happen," Kate shot back "—unless some blockheaded man breaks her heart. . . . Call your head waiter friend and have them scout around, will you, Oldtimer?"

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph.D.

There has been considerable misunderstanding regarding the real name of the man who discovered South America. It is definitely known among historians that his true name was not "Columbus," which was only an assumed name he took on to give him more influence among the seamen of his time. The name "Columbus" meant that he was associated with the strongest of all sea pirates of his day, who sailed under the flag which depicted a dove and was called "Columbo." The use of this name was virtually a guarantee of safety on the seas. Columbus himself never revealed why he used this name.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

KING LOUIS XIV.

Not quite three centuries ago, a son was born to the queen of France. The child was to hold the throne longer than any other king in Europe's history. He was only four years and eight months old when, upon the death of his father, he was hailed as King Louis the Fourteenth. He held office for 72 years.

King Louis XIV.

During his childhood, Louis did little or no ruling. His mother, Queen Anne, and the prime minister, Cardinal Marazrin, were the persons in charge of the nation.

While Louis was still in his boyhood, there was trouble in the kingdom. Some of the people in Paris rose in revolt because they were angry about the way the country was being managed. The prince of Conde and other nobles were leaders in the uprising. Mazarin fled from France, and for a time it looked as though the young king might lose his throne before he really started to rule.

Peace was brought about at last, however, and Mazarin came back. He died eight years later, and then the king (who had reached the age of 22) said there would no longer be any prime minister except himself.

Louis XIV did become the ruler of France, in fact as well as in name. No other French king, except Charlemagne, ever held such firm power over the country. We are told that he often said, "L' etat c'est moi," meaning "I am the state," or "I am France."

After the death of his first wife, the king married Madame de Maintenon, who was narrow-minded about religion. She led the king to take away the rights of certain Protestants, known as Huguenots. The ministers of that faith were driven from France, and great numbers of their followers also went to find safety in England, Holland, Germany and Switzerland. In this way France lost close to a quarter of a million citizens, some of them skilled workers.

During the reign of Louis XIV, France went to war with some of her neighbor nations. The wars added some land for France, but were not of lasting value. Like all other wars, they robbed the country of healthy men.

'BALANCED' PROGRAM OF EDUCATION SOUGHT

Spring Street Group Widens Fight; Hits 'Experiments' Mentioned in Speech.

Rational and fundamentally sound reorganization of the Atlanta school system to effect a balanced educational program will be advocated in every ward in Atlanta during the next few months, it was announced yesterday in a communication to The Constitution from officials of the newly-organized Patrons of Spring Street School.

Every ward in the city will be visited and the organization will devote efforts toward election of a board of education in sympathy with its program, it was said.

An entirely new board of education will be nominated in the September 2 municipal primary. The new group will consist of six members, one representing each of the six new wards into which the municipality has been divided.

Officers of Group.

Officers of the group are J. A. Bankston, president; J. R. Smith, first vice president; Thomas A. Stubbs, second vice president; G. W. Williams, secretary; Henry M. Powell, treasurer, and Mrs. E. H. Green, liaison officer, of the Patrons of Spring Street School.

Characterizing physical conditions of the school system as "inexcusable in an enlightened community," the communication maintained that the organization is not making an attack on Willis A. Sutton, school superintendent.

While the organization does not advocate limitation of the educational program to the three "R's" nor decry academic progress, it stands for balanced progress and limitation or curtailment of non-essential scholastic activities, the communication brought out.

Experiments Hit.

Educational experiments are hit in the release, and they are listed as follows:

"1. To eliminate the word 'tardy' from the vocabulary of school children, and to permit the child (primary grades) to attend school at whatever time it may be inclined; and that teachers be permitted to be late if they feel that they could serve better with another hour or so of rest.

"2. To permit the children to leave school whenever they become tired (the child to determine when it is tired) and not require the child to remain in school beyond the time it feels it should do so.

"3. To permit children in high school to attend classes upon particular subjects when the child is 'so inclined' or when it feels that it is in a receptive mood for the particular subject."

Experiments Merely Advanced.

The release pointed out that Sutton advocated the program in a series of addresses given recently and asks that teachers and patrons be contacted as to their reactions to them.

Another charges that junior and senior high schools are "loaded down" with costly non-essential activities and distracting influences."

Objection is raised to the fact that 91 per cent of all monies allocated to schools is set aside for salary accounts and that only 9 per cent is left for maintenance and operation of the schools.

"There is no allocation for physical growth and none is contemplated," the statement continues, "nor is the maintenance allocation sufficient to keep buildings in sanitary repair (or at least this is not done) nor to provide a regular sanitary inspection of the school premises.

"We advocate that the superintendent of public schools shall be allotted a certain definite portion of the school revenues to be used for educational activities, and that he shall be assisted by an advisory board that shall consist of principals of the senior high schools, who are able educators.

"We advocate sound business methods in our public school system and a balanced progress."

Rotarians Hear New Zealander Describe Land 9,000 Miles Away

A Rotarian from Dunedin, New Zealand, 9,000 miles in round numbers away from Atlanta, spoke yesterday before the local club at the regular weekly luncheon meeting.

Henry J. Guthrie, an International Rotary leader, appeared before the Atlanta organization during a tour of addresses before Rotary clubs of Georgia. Rotarians who expected to find a "foreigner" speaking to them were surprised, as Mr. Guthrie has visited this country about 15 times and has made three trips here during the last year, making him quite as familiar with the ways and customs of this country as with his own.

Traffic Only Bother.

Only the motor vehicles running on the "wrong" side of the street here bother him a little at first, Mr. Guthrie said. But simplified spelling of many words places this country on the credit side of the ledger and makes up for any other differences which might cause him inconvenience, the visitor declared.

In spite of the fact that Mr. Guthrie is a world traveler, having left his thriving leather business in New Zealand to make trips to all parts of the globe, he stuck to the subject of his own country in his talk yesterday at the Rotary meeting, leaving the Rotarians with probably more knowledge about New Zealand than any other foreign country.

Attends Conventions.

Mr. Guthrie has attended numerous Rotary International conventions, having visited those at Ostend, Holland; Chicago, Vienna, Austria; Seattle and Mexico City, and is now in this country primarily to attend the international convention next month at Atlantic City.

The visitor is a member of the board of directors of Rotary International and recently was instrumental in establishing a Rotary Club at Suva, capital of the Fiji Islands.

GEORGIA DELEGATION TO N.E.A. MEET NAMED

Georgia representatives to the National Education Association convention, to be held in Portland, Oregon, were named yesterday by J. Harold Saxon, president of the Georgia Education Association and superintendent of schools at Quitman.

Those selected were Dr. S. V. Sanford, chancellor of the University System of Georgia; M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools; Superintendent W. J. Andrews, of Tocoa, who is president of the Georgia Association of School Superintendents; Superintendent Andrew Avery, of Decatur county schools, Bainbridge; Dr. Kyle T. Alfriend, of Macon, executive secretary of the Georgia Education Association, and Superintendent O. B. Strong, of the Chatham county schools, Savannah.

Named as alternates were R. B. Daniel, of Columbus, Harvey Cutts, of Gainesville; Ashton Varnedoe, of Savannah; Mrs. Hampton Roland, of Athens; Professor L. R. Towson, of American, and Willis A. Sutton, of Atlanta, a past president of the national association. Collins is Georgia director of the national committee.

NEGRO DRIVER IN JAIL AFTER WILD AUTO RIDE

A wild dash through crowded city streets yesterday ended in an automobile wreck and incarceration in Fulton tower for Henry Williams, 30-year-old negro.

County Officers Burton Carroll and E. W. Wilson, suspecting Williams of lottery activities, attempted to stop him on Ashby street about midafternoon yesterday. The negro instead speeded up his car and careened in and out of traffic to Hunter street. His car struck a curbing just after turning into Hunter and two tires blew out. The machine hurtled into a storehouse near by, endangering motorists and pedestrians. The county police arrested him on charges of speeding when they were unable to find any lottery paraphernalia. His bond was set at $500.

NEW TRIAL SOUGHT BY BOND SALESMAN

William A. Smith, Convicted of Mail Fraud, Seeks Second Hearing.

Motion for a new trial was filed in United States district court yesterday by William A. Smith, bond salesman, convicted with Robert E. S. Lee last week on charges of using the mails to defraud in connection with the collapse of the American Bond & Share Corporation.

The motion was accepted by Judge Samuel H. Sibley and has been forwarded to Augusta, Ga., for action by Judge William H. Barrett, who presided at the trial.

Reports yesterday were that Hal Lindsay, Atlanta attorney, has been retained by Lee to argue his motion for a new trial and to file an appeal, but Lindsay late yesterday would neither confirm nor deny the report.

Smith was sentenced to 18 months in prison and Lee to three years. Both will be held without bond until their motions for a new trial can be heard by Judge Barrett in July.

COOPER RESPITED

Talmadge Grants Doomed Man 30-Day Stay.

Acting on the request of Solicitor General John A. Boykin, Governor Talmadge yesterday granted a 30-day respite to Charles M. Cooper, who was to have been executed Friday for the attempted holdup murder of James C. Chappell here three years ago.

The Governor said Mr. Boykin had informed him he needed time to investigate an affidavit by Mrs. Suda Crawford, of Miami, that Cooper was in the Florida city at the time of the murder.

Cooper three times has been sentenced to die. He first was convicted early last year but won a new trial which also resulted in his receiving the death sentence. He then lost an appeal and was again sentenced.

WOMEN SEEK END OF SPOILS SYSTEM

League To Ask Major Parties for Plank Pledging Job-Giving on Merit.

Democratic and republican parties will be asked at their conventions next month to draft platforms pledging abolition of the spoils system and establishment of the merit system in public service by the National League of Women Voters, according to announcement made yesterday at the Georgia league headquarters.

Copies of the proposed plank calling for party promises to abolish the spoils system have been sent to James A. Farley and Henry P. Fletcher, democratic and republican national chairmen. The league will send delegations to each convention to seek a hearing before the resolutions committee.

Chief among the recommendations in the league's plank are "immediate legislation" to place first, second and third-class postmasters, deputy collectors of internal revenue and United States marshals under civil service, and also repeal of laws discriminatory of martial or economic status or residence against otherwise qualified persons.

ART GROUP TO NAME OFFICERS TOMORROW

Officers and trustees of the Atlanta Art Association will be elected at the annual meeting to be held at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the High Museum. Committee chairmen will submit reports, and members of standing committees will be named.

Members of the board will meet immediately after the general session and will elect an executive committee. A group of 12 trustees from a total board of 36 will be named.

The annual exhibition of the High Museum of Art's school will open Friday morning, and graduating exercises will be held by the school starting at 10:30 o'clock that morning.

J. A. PERRY WILL SEEK PUBLIC SERVICE POST

James A. Perry, former chairman of the Georgia Public Service Commission, who was ousted along with other members of the commission by Governor Talmadge in 1933, announced yesterday he would again seek a place on the commission.

Perry said he would oppose Commissioner Ben T. Huiet, of Atlanta. Huiet has not yet announced for re-election.

Perry said he would run on a "vindication" platform.

WHO SERVES PROGRESS SERVES AMERICA!

THIS MONTH a notable array of new names is added to the roll call of famous American trains powered by Diesel engines of General Motors design—trains signaling something vastly more important than a great stride forward in railroad operation: the onward march of America itself.

Running between Chicago and Los Angeles on a new regular schedule of 39 hours 45 minutes is the new Union Pacific Streamliner CITY OF LOS ANGELES—powered as are all the other trains mentioned here, by Electro-Motive Corporation, a GM subsidiary—using Winton-Diesel engines.

Likewise cutting a business day from the running time between Chicago and the Coast is the equally fast schedule of the new Santa Fe SUPER CHIEF—sped by a 3600 horsepower twin-unit Diesel locomotive.

And on the heels of these two announcements, comes the proposed launching of the new CITY OF SAN FRANCISCO by the Union Pacific early in June—companion train to the CITY OF PORTLAND, M-10001, pioneer 39¾-hour train to the Far West—as well as new Union Pacific and Burlington trains, to be put in daily service between Chicago and Denver on a 16-hour schedule—approximately 10 hours faster than present running time.

This steady parade of new names finds brilliant precedent in such popular trail-blazers as the veteran Burlington ZEPHYR and the TWIN ZEPHYRS in service between Chicago and Minneapolis—the M-10000 of the Union Pacific—the FLYING YANKEE of the Boston & Maine—the GREEN DIAMOND of the Illinois Central and the ABRAHAM LINCOLN of the Baltimore & Ohio-Alton.

Not only have these trains established notable savings in operating costs, and savings in running time by stepped-up schedules—they have spectacularly increased passenger traffic and revenues as well.

Yet the real significance of these new-day Diesel trains—with their modern styling, their air-conditioned comfort, their important savings of time and cost, their spectacular increase in passenger revenues—extends far beyond the field of railroading or of transportation.

They token the limitless possibilities for multiplying jobs, for creating new work, for producing new wealth by industrial advancement—and by the results already attained, they once more vividly demonstrate that opportunity has no ceiling in America.

A vast part of this opportunity today lies in replacing the old with the new—of putting to work the tremendous advances in technology sweated out by the partnership of industry and science, intensified during the years of depression—the job of rebuilding America.

The way to increase employment is to create more jobs by making existing goods and services constantly better—greater in value—lowering their cost, not by reducing wages but by greater efficiency, advanced technology and better management. And not only by thus building better the things of today but by pioneering new things to build tomorrow and by making all things more attractive and more desirable, we create wider markets.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., May 25.—(AP) An admonition, "Stay South, Young Man," David E. Lilienthal, Tennessee Valley Authority director, tonight admonished the University of Alabama graduating class. "The south is America's economic frontier, and frontiers demand youth.

"Where will the brains and the determination to build a great region come from unless the south's own young men and women stand in the front ranks?" he asked.

"Whatever the case today, it seems to me that opportunities for trained young minds are as great in the south as any other part of the country—if not greater.

He declared cotton "gave this country its standing in world markets and made possible the rapid industrial expansion of our country." He added:

"But cotton has cost you heavily. As everyone knows, you have been forced to sell cotton on the competitive world market, while things that you used you had to buy on a protected and artificial market.

"That produced a deficit. The deficit has not always been apparent, but it has been very real and has been mounting steadily. You have not only exported cotton; you have exported, in the cotton seed, the wealth of your soil fertility. You have had to meet the deficit out of your capital, the soil, the very basis of your life."

Lilienthal gave figures to show the south produced but a small percentage of its needs, and pointed to the demand for "business and the technical research institutions of the south to find means of focusing brains and technical facilities on the south's industrial opportunities." Among the "opportunities" he mentioned newsprint from southern pine and tung oil production.

The TVA director criticized the pride with which he said southern and midwestern universities placed men in professional positions in the north and northeast.

957 Americans Draw Tickets On Irish Hospital Sweepstakes

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, May 25.—(AP)—A total of 957 Americans was collectively richer by $1,324,080 tonight as the counterfoil drums of the eighteenth Irish Hospital Sweepstakes ceased to revolve.

Fortune may smile still further, however, since 32 Americans hold tickets on five hot favorites in the Derby to be run Wednesday at Epsom Downs.

Approximately 44 per cent of the winning tickets went to America, a testimony to the large amount of American money pouring into the Sweeps.

Horse prizes worth $2,215 each in any case and which may be worth much more went to 432 Americans. Four Americans won definite fortunes of $26,685 each in residual prizes while 521 won consolation cash prizes of approximately $500 each.

A majority of the American winners again went to the eastern United States, with a generous sprinkling to the middle west. A total of 1,253,375 pounds sterling prize money was being distributed as compared to 1,453,754 pounds in the last Sweeps, when 936 Americans drew winning tickets.

Americans who won residual prizes worth about $26,687.50 each were:

"Bruin Bears," care of B. C. Kelley, Bruin, Pa.

"Bobby," of Decatur, Ill.

"Buddies," of 22 Lodge avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa.

W. J. Clark, of 15 Roosevelt avenue, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

A group of 32 Americans held tickets drawn on the five favorites for the race, which are Noble King, Taj Akbar, Boswell, Bala Hisar and Pay Up. Holders of the ticket on the winning horse will get approximately $150,000, or $75,000 for second or $50,000 for third place.

SOCIAL SECURITY POST OFFERED TO ANOTHER

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP)—The Social Security Board announced today the post of regional director for southeastern states had been offered to another person after A. Steve Nance, of Atlanta, declined the appointment.

The board declined to give the name of the new appointee, but said it was hoped the announcement could be made in two or three days.

Nance declined the appointment because he was unwilling, he said, to leave Atlanta. The southeastern regional office is to be in Birmingham.

NAZIS WANT WOMEN EPITOME OF FEMININITY

BERLIN, May 25.—(AP)—Nazi Germany wants "women we can love," Rudolph Hess, deputy of Reichsfuehrer Hitler, earnestly told 20,000 feminine listeners tonight in the big Deutschland hall.

"That means not the Gretchen type, represented abroad as a somewhat thickheaded and un-intellectual being," Hess continued, "but a woman intellectually capable of standing behind a man in his struggle for existence and who can make his life more beautiful."

The women, gathered at a national socialist rally, applauded vigorously.

"She must be a woman who above all is also capable of being a mother," said Hitler's aide.

F. D. R. NOT EXPECTED TO VISIT MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP)—Representative Hill, democrat, Alabama, said today it was extremely doubtful President Roosevelt would be able to accept the invitation of Montgomery, Ala., to be the city's guest June 3.

Hill said the President would be represented, however, by some other government official at Montgomery's celebration of the work done by federal agencies in the city and vicinity.

The Alabama congressman, who lives at Montgomery, delivered the city's invitation to the President.

CITY OFFICIALS VIEW COAL PROGRESS SHOW

Exhibit, Open to Public, Is Held in Conjunction With Dealers' Convention.

The "Century of Coal Burning Progress Exposition" opened yesterday afternoon at Taft hall, city auditorium, drawing among its audiences Mayor Key, Fire Chief O. J. Parker and heads of other city departments whose enthusiasm at the demonstration of the ways in which the city may be rid of its clouds of damaging smoke prompted them to urge all members of their departments to visit the exposition.

Two pairs of human lungs and a solid brick made of the "air" breathed by people in the city form an interesting part of the exhibit. One of the pairs of lungs shows how the organ appears when its owner spent his life in the pure country air. It is clear and uncoated, while the lungs of lifelong city dweller is blacker and covered with minute particles of foreign matter breathed into it.

"City Air" Brick.

The $100,000 coal-burning progress exposition is being shown here in conjunction with the annual convention of the Georgia Coal Dealers' Association and as a forerunner of the convention here next week of the National Smoke Prevention Association.

The smoke prevention association convention is expected to draw 500 delegates from all parts of the continent. It will be held June 2-5 at the Ansley hotel.

A film, "Air Pollution," is shown several times a day during the exposition. It is a dramatization of the way smoke and air pollutions from garbage cans and trash finds its way into the lives of people in various walks of life and the effect it has.

Students to View Exhibit.

A special showing of the exposition will be held at 11:30 o'clock this morning for the Georgia Coal Dealers' Association. The afternoon will be devoted to high schools, with students from Boys' High school and Tech High school attending a special demonstration at 2:30 o'clock.

A talk by H. D. Blackwell, of Chicago, in charge of the exposition, will be given at Taft hall at 8 o'clock tonight for home and apartment house owners along with the demonstration.

Tomorrow will be college day, with students from Georgia Tech and Emory University attending a special session at 2:30 o'clock. The Atlanta Woman's Club and the Junior League will be special guests at the demonstration at 8 o'clock tomorrow night. The public is welcomed at any of the demonstration periods and no admission is charged.

Mrs. Maddox Elected Director For Garden Club of America

By Sally Forth.

SIGNAL honor has come to Mrs. Robert F. Maddox, as well as to the Peachtree Garden Club, of which she is a charter member! For Mrs. Maddox was elected a director of the Garden Club of America at the convention held last week in West Point, N. Y. Although she was unable to attend the convention, she was not only notified officially of her election but also through congratulations received from Mesdames John Grant, J. N. Goddard, Albert Thornton and Edward Inman, who attended the convention.

Mrs. Maddox was one of seven directors nominated and elected at the West Point meeting and the honor bestowed upon her is a distinct compliment to the entire south's garden circles, as well as to those in Georgia, where Mrs. Maddox occupies an important position in social and horticultural affairs.

Mrs. Maddox's interest in gardens is evidenced by the beauty of the gardens surrounding her home, Woodhaven on Pace's Ferry road. The Maddox gardens are declared to be among the south's most beautiful, especially the rose plots, where practically every variety of this flower, which is Mrs. Maddox's favorite, is grown.

Sally recalls when the Garden Club of America convened here several years ago as guest of the Peachtree Garden Club that Mrs. Maddox was a leading figure in making the convention one of the most successful ever held by the organization. Among the brilliant social functions given for the 600 prominent women attending the convention was the tea at which she was hostess. The delegates, who represented every section of the country, declared the gardens of Woodhaven, in which they assembled, to be among the most beautiful they had ever visited, especially the terraced gardens, which have attracted the attention of widely known garden authorities.

SALLY found herself keyed to the very nth degree of interest as she tuned in on Major Bowes' amateur radio program on Sunday evening. She is interested always, but was more so this time, for a telephone call on Saturday from E. C. Crawford forewarned Sally that Annabelle Hunnicutt, the valued colored servant of the Crawfords, had gained a place on the famous program as a singer.

Annabelle lived up to the tradition and fame of her antebellum forebears, and won not only the audience assembled at Radio City, but those listening in throughout the land and sea, as evidenced by the fact that at the close of the program 4,500 votes had been credited to the singer, to say nothing of votes being cabled from a sea captain and crew on the high seas!

In the audience at Radio City, whose approval and enjoyment of Annabelle's singing almost deadened the major's famous "All right, all right," Mrs. E. C. Crawford had a front row seat to witness Annabelle's "first night." It was Mrs. Crawford who arranged for her cook to appear on the program, and also made her a promise of a "turkey with all the trimmings" if the latter was successful. It goes without saying that Annabelle won her turkey.

ELLEN FLEMING, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fleming, returned from Florida State Woman's College in Tallahassee just in time to be among the popular belles at the many social affairs being given in honor of Marjorie Gould and her fiance, Carroll Jones. Ellen and Marjorie have been friends for many years, so it is natural that Marjorie chose her as one of the attendants in her forthcoming marriage. The two Atlanta belles attended North Avenue Presbyterian school together, and were both members of the Sigma Delta social club. Ellen's return is the cause of much rejoicing by her friends.

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

KEEP ON DIETING.

So you didn't lose on the fruit regime! The fat drives a hard bargain. Don't be discouraged if your weight was the same when you stepped hungrily to the scales this morning. Stay with the fruit regime and you will lose by tomorrow. That's a promise!

IDA JEAN KAIN.

By this time you may think you have gone as far as you can go on a reducing program . . . and you are just beginning! The fruit regime is a match for the bulkiest scales, and tomorrow, or the third day at the latest, you will get your reward in lost pounds.

Anyone can lose the first eight or ten pounds of flabby fat . . . that's no credit to you! But it takes determination to keep on dieting after you reach the hard-to-lose fat. Zero hour in the reducer's life comes when you keep on dieting but don't keep on losing! At this crucial point, reducing is nine-tenths diet and exercise and one-tenth result.

As long as there was tangible evidence of progress, the going was easy; but with no encouraging signs, you are bound to lose enthusiasm. It takes will-power to persist in your program, but will-power is a quality that improves with exercise.

You can eat anything you like while on the fruit regime—as long as it is a fruit or a vegetable! Take nothing else for granted if you want to lose. Bread, butter, sugar, milk, eggs and mayonnaise are all trimmings and are taboo in this regime.

Plan your diet from the following list: Pineapple, apples, grapefruit, oranges, canned apricots, peaches, bananas, strawberries, fresh black cherries, grapes, pears, melon. Do not include figs, dates, raisins, prunes, avocado, or rhubarb. The low calorie vegetables are: Asparagus, string beans, cabbage, tomatoes, lettuce, cucumbers, celery, carrots, sauerkraut, beets, spinach, broccoli, and turnips. Vegetables to be avoided are potatoes, lima and navy beans, peas and corn.

If you lose two pounds on two days of the fruit regime, then go back to the thousand calorie balanced menu for the remainder of the week. But should you lose less than two pounds, follow the regime for the third day. Under no circumstances should you follow these menus for longer than three consecutive days. However, if you should fail to lose weight, plan to adopt the regime again next week.

One thing is certain—you can lose! Don't for a second doubt that you can reach the weight that is normal for you. It is worth the effort to win back those supple lines that made you feel so free and alive. Stick with your program! This period decides your future—whether you will continue to be overweight or achieve slimness.

Culbertson on Contract

By ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

When you show an expert a hand in which a squeeze is effected, the chances are he will ask: "What of it?" Of course, the squeeze is one of the most spectacular plays at the bridge table, but the expert has seen hundreds of them. They are just routine to him.

But mention the word "timing" to him and he is all attention. For he knows there is nothing routine about tackling each of the suits at the proper moment, about conserving the right entries and knocking out the opponent's stoppers, about planning the play to utilize every possible resource.

And it is for this reason that I take special pleasure in presenting a hand played by my friend, Dr. I. H. Shelly, of Norristown, Pa., for not only was his timing excellent, but also he managed to develop a squeeze toward the end of the play.

Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 spade	2 club
Pass	Pass	Double	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the four of clubs and East won with the king. East immediately returned a trump to prevent dummy from ruffing clubs. Dummy won with the king of hearts and the king of diamonds was led. East won with the ace and returned another trump. The ace of spades was laid down and a small spade returned, East winning with the queen. Since he had no more trumps, he returned a diamond. South won with the jack and ruffed the ten of clubs in dummy. A low spade was ruffed and declarer drew the last trump with the queen. At this point the situation was as follows:

Now Dr. Shelly led the last trump. He did not know whether or not the diamonds would break, but even if they did not he was greatly concerned, since each player could hold only two cards. West would have to hold a spade to prevent dummy's jack of spades from becoming established, and East would have to hold the ace of clubs to guard South's queen. If either opponent, therefore, had two diamonds, he would be squeezed.

As you will notice from the diagram, Dr. Shelly's careful handling of entries was well rewarded, for the diamonds failed to break and the squeeze actually was necessary to the success of the contract.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: What is the meaning of an ace lead against a no trump contract?

Answer: Unless the leader's partner has bid the suit, the ace calls for partner's highest card in the suit.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.
Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield:

Tell me what to do, please. My mother runs a business and needs me to help her. At her request my husband, my baby and I moved in with her a few months ago. Soon after we got settled she began to show a dislike for my husband and she nags him all the time. He works hard but makes a very small salary. Mother is good to me and the baby but she hates him so much she can't do him justice. Since I love them both devotedly it is mighty hard on me. I am needed here but I am afraid if I stay I will lose my husband. Things can't go on as they are. C. C. G.

Answer:

If your mother has gumption enough to run a business she should have gumption enough to see that she is puting you in an unbearable position by showing animosity to your husband. Then explain your predicament to her and tell her that either she must change her tactics or you will be forced to move out. Certainly your first duty is to your husband and it is unfair for you to force him to live in a home where he is treated discourteously. Were he there of his own free will and accord, he might be expected to absorb the punishment your mother puts on him, but since he moved in as a favor to her he has a right to expect courteous treatment at her hands; and to kick out of the traces if he doesn't receive it—which he will do in one way or another.

The wife who sets her husband down in the home with an antagonistic mother-in-law has essayed the roll of perpetual peacemaker. While the peacemaker may be blessed she is not popular with the warring parties who refuse to be reconciled. One or the other is angry with her all the time. She is in hot water day in and day out. There isn't a chance for her to give her husband a square deal. A man with pride won't submit to the indignity of having his wife divide her alegiance.

"Better a dinner of herbs where love is, than a stalled ox and hatred therewith." A sentence from the wise Solomon to the wise wife should be sufficient.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Dear Miss Chatfield:

A few days ago you gave some sound advice to girls who wrote you that they sat by the fire alone and didn't find it exciting. I would like to give them some more advice of the same sort. Boys do expect too much of girls and if girls don't meet said requirements they are tagged flat-tire or cold storage. The girls may have to sit at home and read but they aren't missing much fun. A little later the level-headed man will look for their sort for a life-partner. When the boys are tagging these girls with uncomplimentary names they have a respect for them and they don't forget them either. This is not to say that the gang couples never marry. They do, but they also divorce. I took an inventory recently of my friends who paired off without much thought beyond the "mad mood" and found only one in ten was happy. They were more dignified and sensible than the rest. I know how it is for I am one that has marked girls flat tires and cold storage, etc. Now these are the very ones that are my best companions. Don't think I am alone, either. The girls who sit by the fire for a few years generally come out and have a longer fling than the others. My advice to the girls is: "Keep your chins up (not your noses); put in your fireside hours reading something worth while; building hills of character. There's gold in them thar hills.' The sober boys know it and they will come around in time."

Queen Mary, Still in Mourning, To Observe 69th Birthday Today

LONDON, May 25.—(AP)—Queen Mary, still grieving over the death of King George but taking a more active interest in life about her, will celebrate her 69th birthday tomorrow.

It will, even more than in former years, be a quiet celebration, with members of the royal family gathering at Buckingham Palace to tender their congratulations.

Actually, the queen will not pass another year until midnight. She was born on the stroke of midnight at Kensington Palace, in London, now the home of Princess Beatrice, mother of the former Queen of Spain.

Queen Mary daily evidences a tendency to resume, to some extent at least, the busy life to which she has been accustomed.

Today she journeyed to Southampton to visit the new ocean liner which bears her name, and which she has not seen since she christened the ship at the Clyde. It was her first public visit of any kind since the death of King George.

She has, however, had several private outings, including lengthy automobile tours, and is devoting much of her time to the children of the Duke and Duchess of York, Princesses Elizabeth and Marget Rose.

The health of the queen is regarded as good, considering the strain of the past year, with the rush of jubilee year leading up to the illness and death of Britain's late ruler.

This autumn she is expected to move into Marlborough house, her home 26 years ago.

'ANNIE LAURIE' DIES AT CALIFORNIA HOME

Noted Newspaper Woman Spent Many Years in Chicago, N. Y., Denver.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—(AP) Mrs. Winifred Sweet Bonfils, 73, veteran newspaper woman, who wrote under the names of Annie Laurie and Winifred Black, died at her home here today.

After spending her earlier years in Chicago, New York, Washington, Massachusetts and Denver, she came to San Francisco about 34 years ago. She had been connected with the Hearst newspapers for 37 years.

REP. RANDOLPH PERKINS.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP)—Representative Randolph Perkins, 65, for 16 years a republican member of the house from New Jersey's seventh district, died today in Georgetown hospital after a brief illness.

The house met just long enough to adopt resolutions of sympathy to his family and then adjourned as a token of respect. Representatives Lehlbach, Norton, McLean and Powers, state colleagues, were named by the speaker as pallbearers.

Perkins was taken to the hospital about two weeks ago for observation and on May 15 was operated on for a kidney ailment. His physicians said his condition had been aggravated by the strain incident to aiding in prosecuting the recent impeachment proceedings against Federal Judge Halstead L. Ritter, of Florida.

MRS. WILLIAM LOEW.

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP)—Funeral services for Mrs. William Goadby Loew, for many years a leader in New York society, will be held at 11 a. m. Wednesday in St. Thomas Protestant Episcopal church.

Mrs. Loew, the former Florence Baker, daughter of the late George F. Baker, wealthy banker, died Saturday night after a two-month illness.

Mrs. Loew inherited $5,000,000 from her father. In addition to being one of the great hostesses of New York and Newport, she was active in charities and was an ardent sportswoman. For five years, she was the country's only woman joint master of the foxhounds.

REMINGTON RAND TO DEFY STRIKERS

To Close Syracuse Plant Permanently and 'At All Cost.'

NEW YORK, May 26.—(AP)—James H. Rand Jr., president of Remington Rand, Inc., announced early today that because of strikes called at six plants of the company it would close its Syracuse, N. Y., operations permanently and "at all costs" would keep other factories operating in defiance of the strikers.

Rand said he had ordered personnel of plants in London, England, and Hamilton, Ontario, doubled immediately to shift to foreign production all manufacture for foreign sales, constituting 25 per cent of Remington Rand's entire business in typewriters, cabinets, and adding machines.

The executive said the consolidation of the Syracuse plant, with a $2,500,000 annual pay roll, with a plant at Ilion, N. Y., had already begun.

Calling of a strike at Syracuse led him, he said, to withdraw an offer made earlier to Mayor Marvin, of Syracuse, to keep part of the plant, at least, in that city "if the city got rid of 16 radicals who were making all this trouble."

CLOTHING UNION CHIEF URGES F. D. R. SUPPORT

CLEVELAND, May 25.—(AP)—Sidney Hillman, president, asked for support of President Roosevelt's campaign for re-election and for unionization of all industries today at the eleventh biennial convention of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America.

Hillman addressed 3,500 delegates.

"If there is an organization opposed to liberty in this country it is the American Liberty League," he declared. "Their intent is to bring a dictator to this country. Whoever will be nominated at the republican national convention in the next few weeks will be the spokesman of the Liberty League."

You Can't Keep House Without Her!

Household Arts by Alice Brooks

PATTERN 5250

Mammy's "in stitches" 'cause you just can't keep house without her or the set of seven tea towels she adorns. An important person, Mammy, and an effective motif when embroidered in easy cross-stitch. Use every gay color of floss your work-box can produce, for Mammy will be twice as cheery 'round the kitchen if done in bright colors. If you can bear to part with her, a set like this is perfect for shower gift or bazaar.

In pattern 5250 you will find a transfer pattern of seven motifs averaging 5 1-2 by 7 1-2 inches; material requirements and color schemes.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to Household Arts Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

FLOOD EXPECTED AT HOUSTON TODAY

Rising Bayou To Back Into Business District; Many Marooned.

HOUSTON, Texas, May 25.—(AP)—Houston, Texas' largest city, braced tonight for a flood expected to send Buffalo bayou out of its banks and into the business district.

G. L. Fugate, flood expert and head of the Houston water department, announced rains of 12 and 13 inches in the watershed north and west of Houston would push into the bayou more water than it could carry. He expected the water to enter the business district tomorrow afternoon.

The weatherman reported the worst of the downpours was over, although possibility was seen for some showers.

At least a dozen persons were trapped on the Mexican coast about 60 miles below Brownsville when high tides sent water rushing over roads behind them. They were believed in no danger.

The high waters drowned Woodward Keith, of Harlingen, when a fishing boat capsized. Four other persons in the party escaped only after a bitter battle with the waves.

ICKES GRANTED RIGHT TO CONDEMN TRACT

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes, Public Works Administrator, today won court approval of his power to condemn land for the new $11,000,000 Interior Department building here.

Associate Justice Van Orsdel, who wrote the majority opinion of the District of Columbia court of appeals last week against the Resettlement Administration, also penned the unanimous decision favorable to Ickes.

The Potomac Electric Power Company had questioned the right of Ickes and other administration leaders to take its land on which was located a power substation and much electrical equipment supplying near-by government buildings.

SISTER MAY PRACTICE BEFORE HIGH COURT

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP)—Sister Ann Joachin, Dominican nun from Adrian, Mich., was admitted today to the practice of law before the supreme court.

So far as court observers could recall, she was the first nun to seek admission to practice before the high court. Sister Joachin, who teaches at the Dominican St. Joseph College in Adrian, has been a lawyer since 1924. She practiced law in Detroit four years before beginning her Dominican novitiate in 1928.

MURDER BY YOUTH BLAMED ON STATE

Hoffman Urged To Pardon Boy Who Took Life in $4 Holdup.

NEWARK, N. J., May 25.—(AP)—A charge that the state's neglect of 16-year-old Jacob Ciemiengo put him in the deathhouse at state prison was coupled with an appeal for clemency addressed to Governor Harold G. Hoffman today by a group of Newark clergymen and civic leaders.

The youth's lone hope of escaping the electric chair for shooting Herman Eilers, Burlington farmer, during a $4 holdup rests with the courts of pardons, of which the Governor is president judge.

The group of 33 men and women in an open letter called on the Governor to "help prevent this tragic mockery of human justice."

The state gave him "no chance to live during his brief 16 years," the letter said.

It declared young Ciemiengo was "born in poverty and 'raised' in ignorance."

"At no period in his life did the state of New Jersey reach out a helping hand to guide him past the natural pitfalls of youth which more fortunate lads so often skirt only through the influence of their families or friends."

BRITISH GIRL WEDS HAPSBURG PRINCE

VIENNA, May 25.—(AP)—One of Austria's most brilliant social events of years was the wedding today of Marie Therese Wood, 25-year-old daughter of a British captain, to Prince Ernst von Hohenberg, 31, of the House of Hapsburg.

The prince is the second son of the Austrian Archduke Franz Ferdinand, who was murdered at Sarajevo, and is a grandnephew of Emperor Franz Josef, whose declaration of war on Serbia in 1914 led to the World War.

Many members of European aristocracy attended the ceremony. Miss Wood is the only child of Captain and Mrs. Jervis Wood. Her father was the British military attache in Vienna before the World War, after which he took up permanent residence here. Mrs. Wood is the former Hungarian Countess Rosa von Lonyay.

WOMAN TORCH VICTIM IDENTIFIED BY TEETH

KEENE, N. H., May 25.—(UP)—The mysterious "Mrs. Grace Hurley, of Boston," victim of near-by Chesterfield's mountain torch murder, was identified by authorities late tonight as Mrs. Elizabeth Freel, 50-year-old mother of four children and wife of a Clinton (Mass.) gas and electric company executive.

In making the disclosure, County Solicitor Arthur Olson said identification was established through a dental plate and gold fillings in two of the victim's teeth.

Handwriting on a Brattleboro (Vt.) hotel register, which the woman had signed as "Mrs. Grace Hurley, of Boston," last Tuesday, also aided in establishing identification, Olson said.

COOKS TO DEATH IN FEVER INDUCER

Unlicensed Operator Held Pending Inquest Into Woman's Death.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., May 25.—(UP)—An inquest into the death of Mrs. William J. O'Leary, "cooked to death" yesterday in a heat-treatment device, was delayed today pending further investigation.

In the meantime, P. E. Dettra, operator and inventor of the machine which creates artificial fever in the body to cure arthritis and similar diseases, was held on charges of manslaughter.

Mrs. O'Leary, of Chevy Chase, Md., was taking her fourth treatment in the device for arthritis which she is said to have suffered 18 years.

Hugh M. Lester, justice of the peace, said Dettra admitted he was not licensed to practice with the apparatus in Florida. The machine is a coffin-shaped affair designed to produce fever in the body by high external temperatures.

A coroner's jury called by Lester said Dettra operated in "a manner evincing reckless disregard of human life." Dettra, however, denied the charge with the statement he had called for medical assistance when he became aware of Mrs. O'Leary's "condition."

According to Lester, there were several burns on her body a quarter of an inch in depth.

TWO PERSONS KILLED WHEN AUTO OVERTURNS

LAKE CHARLES, La., May 25.—(AP)—Skidding on a wet pavement, a roadster with two couples went off the old Spanish trail last night near the eastern limits of Sulphur, plunged off an embankment, overturned three times and carried both men to their deaths.

The dead: Tracy Melancon, 22, of Sulphur, employe of a Sulpher company, and Melvin Stelly, 19, of Sulphur, a dairyman.

Both young women escaped with minor injuries. They were Miss Beatrice Speg and Miss Vera Lee Sanders, both of De Quincy.

CROPS THREATENED BY DRY WEATHER

RICHMOND, Va., May 25.—(AP)—Weeks of dry weather threatened Virginia farmers today with greatly curtailed and heavily damaged crops, with some sections reporting the situation approaching a "critical" stage that can only be relieved by rain within the next few days.

Farm produce in the tidewater area has taken a 35 to 50 per cent loss, growers estimated.

Principal crops suffering from the drouth are cabbages, beets and potatoes.

The strawberry crop on the eastern shore and other truck produce likewise were reported hard hit.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., May 25.—(AP)—Muriel Kirkland, stage and screen actress, today was Mrs. Staats Jennings Cotsworth Jr.

The affair was a lovely complimentary gesture to a duo of the season's most popular brides-elect, Miss Beverley Rogers and Miss Anne Dargan.

Miss Rogers' marriage to Robert Lorton, of Tulsa, Okla., will be a brilliant marriage event of June 24, and Miss Dargan will become the bride of Dulaney Fitch, of Bowling Green, Ky., at a noon ceremony next Saturday.

My Day

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

MILTON, Pa., Sunday.—My husband left Friday night for Hyde Park and was busy trying to clear up as much mail as possible before he left, so Mrs. Scheider and I put in an evening of work also.

Our beautiful weather is still holding, and I could not help but notice how lovely the flowering shrubs and wild roses along the river were this morning. The whole path was made fragrant by them. The yellow and purple flags growing near the water's edge around a little wooden shack, which looks bleak in winter and yet seems to be the home of a fisherman, really made that little unpainted house looked attractive and dressed up.

At 12:15 I attended a luncheon given by the Political Study Club at the Mayflower hotel in Washington. The afternoon was pretty well filled with visitors on various subjects, ranging from an invitation to go to Georgia in early August, to a group of Girl Scouts from Baltimore.

I drove a friend to the train and then went to the Walter Reed hospital for the annual garden party given by the gray ladies of the American Red Cross. Again the wheel-chairs and the army boys hurt in one way or another in the line of duty.

General Pershing, whose presence always gives them a great deal of pleasure, was there as usual, and the little ceremony of cutting a large cake wtih a sword was gone through again. I got home in time to welcome George Foster Peabody and Mrs. Waite, and Mrs. Yvonne De Pury, whose brother asked me to receive her.

Mr. Peabody is here for a meeting next week of the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation, and I was so happy to have this chance of seeing him. When you are with him, you feel that the task of disposing of all your worldly possessions during your lifetime is one which lends richness and interest to life. I have rarely known a more generous person, nor one with more vital human interest.

Mrs. Morgenthau and I got off this morning at 9:30. We took luncheon with us and have just reached our destination for the night.

Chicks Score Eight Runs in Seventh To Beat Crackers, 12-7

BOLD VENTURE WILL NOT RACE AGAIN IN 1936

Preakness, Derby Winner, Suffers Bowed Tendon During Workout.

By Alan Gould.

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP)—Bold Venture, the horse of the year on the American turf, bowed a tendon in a workout today at Belmont Park and, on the statement of his trainer, Max Hirsch, will not race again during 1936.

Unbeaten this year and leading contender for the three-year-old championship, following spectacularly close victories in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, Bold Venture's sudden accident came as a terrific shock to horsemen in general and Morton L. Schwartz, the colt's owner, in particular.

Bold Venture turned up lame after finishing a six-furlong workout in 1:15. Examination revealed a bowed tendon in the right foreleg. The injury, even if it responds satisfactorily to treatment, means the colt will be out of training indefinitely, Hirsch said. It may cause permanent retirement for the horse which had captured the fancy of turf followers throughout the country.

RIVALRY AT END.

The injury deprives Bold Venture of a chance to win the classic Belmont stakes, to be run June 6, and renew rivalry with Brevity and Granville, the two colts which have fought it out with the Schwartz flyer this spring on separate occasions. Brevity was beaten a head by Bold Venture in the Derby. Granville lost a nose decision in the Preakness two weeks later. In each of these races, Bold Venture turned in the third fastest time on record.

Bold Venture, despite a tendency to unsoundness, had responded brilliantly to Hirsch's careful conditioning this year. Wintered at Columbia, S. C., the Schwartz colt was brought to a peak for the Derby and rewarded his backers by paying $43 for each $2 mutuel ticket to win. Brevity was a 4-5 choice in the Kentucky classic. Bold Venture came through as the favorite in the Preakness.

The two victories were worth $65,050 to Bold Venture's owner, Mr. Schwartz, who kept possession of the colt only because nobody topped his reserve bid of $7,500 when his racing establishment was put up for sale this spring.

This represented about all of Bold Venture's winnings. The colt started eight times as a two-year-old, winning three times and placing second twice for total earnings of $2,500 during 1935. He broke down in the Arlington futurity, at Chicago, and subsequently survived a fire in a railroad car in which two stablemates were destroyed.

Bold Venture increases a casualty list which has been heavy on the American turf in recent years. Equipoise went wrong as a three-year-old but came back to gain a lasting place in the Racing Hall of Fame. Two previous Derby winners, Twenty Grand and Cavalcade, also went wrong.

Winn Praises Rushaway's Record

COVINGTON, Ky., May 25.—(AP)—Colonel Matt Winn, who knows his horses, paid tribute today to Rushaway, the three-year-old black gelding of Al G. Tarn, that won its second stake race in two days at Latonia Saturday.

"Running two races in as many days did not hurt Rushaway," said Winn. "Quite often owners are inclined to pamper their horses, especially when they have a good one.

Rushaway's feat of winning the $12,000-added Illinois Derby at Aurora, Ill., on Friday and 24 hours later winning the $15,000-added Latonia Derby still was the talk of horsemen attending the second day of Latonia's 31-day meeting.

The horse awaited orders from its owner for shipment to Detroit for the Derby there June 13. It later will be sent to Hawthorne, Ill., for the Chicago Derby, June 20.

Rushaway's earnings so far this year in three derbies approximate $32,000. It won the Louisiana Derby as well as the two last week.

Tarn bought Rushaway last winter from J. E. Widener, owner of Brevity, which failed to live up to expectations in its races so far this spring. Tarn reputedly paid $10,000 for Rushaway and two-year-old Visibility.

ENTERPRISE BEATEN.

PANAMA CITY, Fla., May 25.—(AP)—Panama City, last place team in the Alabama-Florida league, turned on the league-leading Enterprise nine with a vengeance today and drove eight pitchers from the mound to bury the Alabamans under a 31-to-3 score. Fay, 3 and 2, in the singles.

Later On, of Course, Mr. Watkins Was Not So Sad!

But there was something wrong with the man. When he tried, to smile, the drooping corners of his mouth quivered slightly. But remained down.

The owner of the Memphis ball club had come to town to put the nude eye on his ball club. In something like 17 years he has never been out of the first division. At the present, his team is either in last place or teetering around the edges of last place.

I shook hands with the man. His hand was limp. He wagged his head feebly.

"Listen," he said, "do you see this ear? This one here on the left? Well, you see how swollen and red it is? Well, that's from telephoning. I've held a telephone receiver against that ear for something like 48 hours on a stretch. The telephone company is going to pay off a rich dividend. And you know what I ask all the guys I call? No? Well, it's this. I just ask:

"'Have you got a pitcher to sell?'

"And they all say 'No,' and then hang up. You don't own a pitcher do you? I'll buy any kind of a pitcher. Any kind."

NOT THE MANAGER'S FAULT.

"You know whose fault it is this club isn't winning? It's mine. I thought we had a ball club lined up. It isn't the manager's fault.

"Everyone else thought so, too. Why, when Larry Gilbert was in Memphis in the hospital, he told me he thought sure this club of ours would be one, two, three. But we aren't.

"Baseball is funny. You never can tell. It makes me a little sad to be down in the second division. I sure could use a pitcher.

"I thought I read in one of the afternoon papers where that Joe Engel was in town. He isn't? Well, I'm glad of that. I have enough troubles without having to look at that Engel's face.

"WHAT DO I THINK OF THE CRACKERS?"

"What do I think of the Crackers?

"Let me tell you. The club doesn't look like it is any better than the one of last year. On paper it doesn't look as good. Yet it is.

"The more I look at baseball the more I think there is some psychology. This club feels as if it is going to win the game every time it goes out there. It has a lot of confidence.

"Reminds me of that Spencer Abbott and our 1921 club. There was a terrible ball club. About 10 of them were drunks who had to be bailed out of jail every week. Yet that club won the pennant by a wide margin. They just believed they could win and they did. The next year we had a ball club that was ten times as good and it finished second.

"I think Atlanta has a good ball club and it is getting the breaks. When you get that combination you have a winner. It may not last. But right now they are making it very painful."

Mr. Watkins went into the Cracker office and borrowed a towel. He began to weep into it slowly and silently.

"Seventeen years in the first division," he said. "And now look. Do you know where I can buy a pitcher?"

FORREST (SPEC) TOWNS.

Forrest (Spec) Towns has skimmed over the 120 yards of cinders and high hurdles three times at a speed of 14.1 seconds.

The odds are he will travel the distance in less than 14 seconds before the summer is done. The high hurdles probably are the most difficult test offered by track and field sports.

The high hurdler must include two tremendous exertions in his run. He must fling himself forward at tremendous speed.

Hoffman Hurts Finger Engel Fails To Arrive

Manager Fred Hoffman will be lost to the Chicks as a player for several weeks as the result of an injury suffered in yesterday's game with the Crackers.

Hoffman caught a foul tip on the end of his little finger in the eighth inning. The finger was split in three places. It was the second game the Chicks' fiery manager had caught this season.

Tom Watkins, president of the Memphis club, came to town for the game and saw his Chicks win one. It pleased him greatly. Watkins said the Chicks will strengthen.

"We must strengthen," he said. "Something has to be done when a club that hasn't been out of the first division in 16 straight years is mired in seventh place."

Joe Engel, Chattanooga president and chief Washington scout, did not arrive, as scheduled, yesterday. He was supposed to come here to look over Cracker pitching talent, with the view of trying to buy one for the Senators. No Cracker pitchers are for sale for immediate delivery, however. Fall delivery only, is President Earl Mann's laudable edict.

Similarity of Names Confusing Selection For All-Star Game

BOSTON, May 25.—(AP)—Selection of players for the major league all-star baseball game in Boston July 7 is being confused by similarity of names in both big leagues, officials tabulating early vote returns reported tonight.

There were numerous examples, they said, of National league players being named on American league squads and vice versa, which invalidates votes for those players since each fan is allowed to name only 16 players from each league.

As examples of the confusion, they listed the Moore—J. Moore, who might be Joe, of the New York Giants; John, of the Phillies; E. Moore, of the Boston Bees, of T. Moore, of the St. Louis Cardinals.

And the Martins are causing grief. There are two of them on the Cardinals, John "Pepper" and Stuart. The former played last year as an infielder and outfielder, but only in the outfield this year. The latter is a second-baseman.

Boswell Odds Down After Betting Rush

LONDON, May 25.—(AP)—A rush of betting support today hammered down the odds on William Woodward's Boswell and left the American-owned colt a strong fourth choice for the Derby at Epsom Downs Wednesday.

The Aga Khan's Taj Akbar remained the first choice at 13 to 2, followed by Lord Astor's Pay Up, winner of the 2,000 guineas, 100 to 15, and Sir Alfred Butt's Noble King 15 to 2.

No American-owned thoroughbred has won the Derby since Boss Richard Croker brought over Orby in 1907 to win at 100-to-9 odds.

Smokies Get Bach, A Former Cracker

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., May 25.—(AP)—Stanley Bach, outfielder with Columbia, S. Bach will join the Knoxville club immediately. Bach had a trial with the Atlanta Crackers this spring.

Featherweight Champ Offered Bout in London

By Melvin Pazol.

Petey Sarron, who once fought Benny Reagan in Atlanta on a Fourth of July back in 1928, passed through Atlanta last night en route to Washington to resume training.

The last time Petey passed through here on the way to Washington, he was just plain little Petey Sarron. This time, however, he carries with him the world featherweight boxing title, a gold key to Birmingham, his home town, and numerous offers for title bouts.

Petey revealed that he is also a good hurling prospect for the major leagues. He pitched a perfect strike in the opening night game before a huge crowd in Birmingham last Friday night. He was called upon to deliver the first pitch, after having been banqueted and dined as befitteth a champion on return from winning the title.

A parade was staged in his honor last Tuesday in Birmingham. Then followed banquets, the Kiwanians, the Rotarians, and his own Syrian Club.

The offer for the bout in London will be rejected. The arrangements call for the bout to be staged next month, and Sarron says that is too soon. A bout in Honolulu later on may be accepted.

At any rate Petey is going back to Washington as the champion. He intends to buckle down to training immediately, and to keep in trim. He He fought too hard for the title to let it get away from him by lack of training.

Mrs. Gaut's 79 Tops Memphis Qualifiers

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Dave Gaut, veteran Memphis golfer, turned in a 79, a perfect figure, to lead the field in the 18-hole qualifying round of the Memphis Country Club's Marguerite Gaut trophy tournament, named in her honor.

Mrs. Gaut, president of the Women's Southern Golf Association and former southern titleholder, was in rare form. She led such outstanding qualifiers as Jane Cothran, of Columbia, S. C., and Catherine Hemphill, Greenville, S. C., who scored 80's; Mrs. Lion Wolf, New Orleans, 87, and Mrs. Deane Van Landringham, Charlotte, N. C., 87.

A's Option Upchurch To Albany Senators

PHILADELPHIA, May 25.—(AP)—The Athletics announced today the release on option of Woodrow (Woody) Upchurch, a left-handed pitcher, to the Albany club of the International league.

The signing of Stuart M. Flythe, a right-handed hurler from North Carolina State College, was also announced.

Martin Overrules Lookouts' Protest

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 25.—(AP)—A protest by Chattanooga as to a game won by Birmingham on May 22 was overruled here today by Judge John D. Martin, president of the Southern association.

Arthur Luce, Birmingham outfielder, was tagged and declared out by Umpire Buck Campbell, when he stepped off first base to question the umpire as to whether he was originally safe at first base. Campbell reversed the decision when he learned Umpire Eddie Ainsmith had instructed Luce to question him.

Judge Martin ruled that as Luce did not score, the protested decision did not affect the result of the game.

WILLIAMS LOSES STUFF; LINDSEY FAILS IN RELIEF

Alex Hooks Homers in First; Peck Hamel in Hitting Mood.

By Jack Troy.

The Atlanta Crackers were charitably inclined toward those Memphis Chicks yesterday and lost the second game, 12 to 7.

There was plenty of comedy relief in the old ball game. And maybe it was just as well. This business of winning ball games os consistently becomes boring to some people.

And with the Crackers losing one now and then isn't a life and death matter. Whereas, winning one now and then has become a very serious matter with the seventh-place Chicks.

The Crackers were going along beautifully behind the fine pitching of Almon Williams up to the sixth.

Alex Hooks hit a home run over the second tier of signs in right with Johnny Hill, who had beat out an infield hit, ahead of him, in the first inning.

TOUCHSTONE HITS.

The Crackers offered jam-up fielding behind Williams' pitching and Memphis did not get back into the game until the sixth when Clay Touchstone, veteran Chick hurler, led off with a double. Marquardt scored him with a single, Grace doubled and Marquardt scored on Duke's infield out.

And so the game was all tied up as the seventh inning rolled around.

It would be better for the home nine if one simply skipped the seventh. But it happened, all right, and here is what the fans saw those surprising Chicks accomplish in an eight-run, seventh-inning rally:

LINDSEY HURLING.

Farrell, Luther and Hoffman singled in order and Williams left the game. Big Jim Lindsey came in with nobody out and it wasn't his day. It was a very tough spot, anyway. No one would censure Big Jim for what happened. That is, no one with normal intelligence would.

Big Jim Walked Touchstone, forcing in Farrell. Marquardt then singled, scoring Luther and Hofmann. Richards attempted to catch Touchstone off second, threw high and Touchstone continued his steal of third and went on home. Marquardt took second after the throw which went into center.

WEST ON MOUND.

Lindsey went out and Ralph West came in. Cotelle walked and Grace singled. The bases were loaded again and Duke walked, forcing in Marquardt. Reese popped to Hooks for the first out. Then Farrell walked, forcing in Cotelle. And Luther singled, scoring Grace and Duke. If that doesn't account for eight runs, don't blame me. West fanned both Hofmann and Touchstone to retire the side.

The Crackers got a lot of bad baseball out of their system in that seventh inning, it is to be hoped.

The Chicks scored their eleventh run in the eighth. Cortelle walked, Grace singled him to third and Cotelle scored on Duke's roller to West. Ralph forgot about Cotelle and threw to first. It was just one of those slips that pass in the flight.

POWELL HOMERS.

The final Chick run was a home run half-way between third base and left field. Manager Fred Hofmann, catching, had gone out with a badly injured finger in the Cracker half of the eighth. He was taken to a hospital for an X-ray. The little finger on his throwing hand was split in three places by a foul tip.

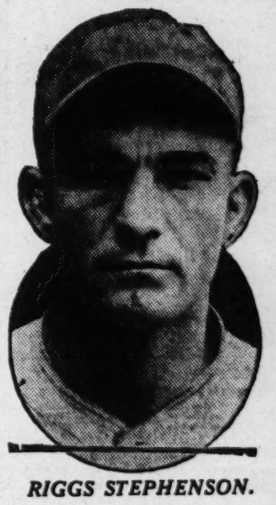

And so Powell went in to catch. And it was Powell who hit the shortest home run in history at Ponce de Leon park. He socked one down the third-base line. The ball darted in behind the rolled-up infield canvas near the bleachers. Harris' apparently it was foul, for he made no effort to go after the ball until Powell was almost to third. It was too late then.

The final pair of runs came in the eighth. Chatham led off with a single

RIGGS STEPHENSON.

Amazing Barons Win 10 of Last 12 To Upset League

By Thad Holt.

The Barons from Birmingham, the old home town, minus the fanfare and commotion that usually accompanies winning streaks in cities where more than two consecutive victories are a rarity, have sort of slipped up on the pack. Excepting the Crackers, of course, who positively refuse to be slipped up upon.

Don't know whether or not you noticed it, but Riggs Stephenson's gang has come from nowhere (that was last place) to a position just one game outside first division, within two weeks' time.

Birmingham sports writers and fans, sad and ashamed at the early season play of their ball club, haven't dared call the outside world's attention to this amazing streak of a team which two weeks ago demanded only pity throughout the league. Over in Birmingham, the scribes are black and blue from pinching themselves. They still can't believe it isn't all a dream.

The right-about-face of the Barons is hardly explainable. If someone had said the listless Birmingham team which Atlanta beat as she pleased in four straight games here in early May, could have stepped out and won 10 of its next 12 games, including a series from the Crackers themselves, he would have been rushed off to Milledgeville in the fastest vehicle.

While they hold their breath, hoping for the best, fearing the worst in Slagtown, and critics around the league will tell you this Baron streak is just one of those things that will fade as quickly as an eight-dollar suit, Riggs Stephenson and his lads, go along winning as if thew were made to win.

Lanning, Ex-Smoky, Blanks Brooklyn and Socks Home Run.

ST. LOUIS, May 25.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals won the rubber game in their series with the Chicago Cubs today, 2 to 1, and retained their National league lead of a half game. Jim Collins, pinch hitting for Charley Gelbert, knocked a single with the bases loaded in the ninth to score Pepper Martin with the winning run.

Sam Leslie's third home run of the series gave the New York Giants a 1-to-0 victory over the Phillies here today and broke up a pitching battle between Lefty Al Smith, of the Giants, who gave up five hits, and Joe Bowman, who gave four.

Johnny Lanning, rookie Boston pitcher up from Knoxville, shut the Brooklyn Dodgers out, 8 to 0, and hit a home run in the seventh when the Bees secured the ball game by getting four runs on six straight hits.

The Bees knocked Fred Frankhouse from the mound and continued to hit Tom Baker and Dutch Leonard about as they pleased.

Red Lucas held his former teammates to four hits and Pittsburgh defeated Cincinnati, 9 to 2. The Reds had taken the first two games of the three-game series.

Durham's Personality Chart

Save Cracker Autographs And Learn About Players

By Jack Troy.

Who would have suspected Bobby Durham, the little round man, is known as the "Emotional-Constructive" type by his handwriting? The Constitution's famous expert discovered it, among other things.

Handwriting Analysis

By Elaine.

Bobby Durham has been with the Crackers three years. He is a winning pitcher. His signature shows that he is what is known as the "Emotional-Constructive" type. This does not mean that he had to be a success in life. Instead he could have drifted, headed for no place in particular. His writing shows, however, that he did not drift. He wanted to do something and set out to do it.

His writing reveals that he is enthusiastic. Never indifferent. When he works he puts his whole heart and soul into it. He makes other people interested in what he is doing. Not by bossing them or driving them, but by being so interested in his job that he creates interest among those who are around him. If he were a salesman he would be a success, because he would sell eagerly and with his whole soul. He believes in anything he does.

Although his handwriting shows that he is sensitive, he has not developed a "grouch" feeling. That is, he is not looking for a quarrel just because someone has hurt his feelings. He forgets most of his hurts just by being busy.

His signature indicates that he not only thinks rapidly but he thinks positively. He is able to make decisions and stand by them. He makes use of every trait of character he has to help him rather than to hinder progress.

RED SOX BLANK SENATORS, GAIN IN CLOSE RACE

Gomez Routed by Macks, Who Come To Life Suddenly.

PHILADELPHIA, May 25.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics overcame a five-run handicap and defeated the New York Yankees, 10 to 7, here today.

With Lee Ross, a 19-year-old rookie from the North Carolina Textile league, pitching against them, the Yanks scored five in the first when they filled the bases and Bill Dickey cleared them with a triple. George Selkirk followed with a home run.

But Ross stayed in the ball game and gave up only two more runs in the next eight innings, while the A's scored three in their half of the first, knocked Lefty Gomez from the hill and went on to tie the score in the third on a pair of walks and singles by Johnson and Newsome.

The Yanks scored one in the seventh when Di Maggio tripled and Gehrig singled, and another in the eighth when Selkirk singled, went to second on an infield out, and scored on Crosetti's single.

Fritz Ostermueller shut out the Washington Senators today, allowing them only four hits while the Red Sox collected six runs, four of them in the first inning.

FERRELL INJURED.

The victory, the first in three starts for Boston against the Senators, was costly. Rick Ferrell, durable Sox catcher, sprained his ankle on second base after hitting a double.

Ferrell was the second Sox injured within three days, Bob (Lefty) Grove having suffered a split finger on Saturday against the Nats.

Moe Berg replaced Ferrell behind the plate. Ferrell probably will be out for a week or more. His ankle will be X-rayed tonight.

Immediately after the game, Eddie Collins, general manager of the Sox, announced that George Dickey, brother of the Yankees' catcher, Bill, had been recalled from Milwaukee where he has been on option.

DAVIS SELECTION STILL MUDDLED; BUDGE IS 'SURE'

Exhibition Matches Fail To Clarify Grant-Allison Cup Berth.

PHILADELPHIA, May 25.—(AP)—Exhibition matches designed to facilitate player selections for the American and Australian Davis cup teams left the field as muddled as ever today.

No word came from the American headquarters today about the players who will perform against the Anzacs on Saturday, Sunday and Monday in their elimination match, and the Australians were equally as secretive.

Donald Budge and Wilmer Allison, in one breath, and Budge and Bryan (Bitsy) Grant, in the next, were heard today as "the" American singles selection, but verification was lacking. Only on Budge, the carrot-topped Californian, was opinion agreed.

VOL WIN STREAK STOPPED BY PEBS

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 25.—(AP)—More than 8,000 baseball fans tonight saw Little Rock crush the Vols, 9 to 4, snapping Nashville's winning streak at five straight victories behind the effective hurling of Kola Sharpe.

The Peb pitcher limited the Vols to four hits and no runs for eight innings, easing up in the final frame when the losers threatened to come to life with their well-known powerhouse attack.

U. S. Poloists.

LONDON, May 25.—(AP)—America's international polo team, playing with a revamped lineup, steam-rolled to a smashing 28-to-6 victory over the Ranlagh Club four today. The margin of the Americans' victory was the biggest of the current outdoor season and exceeded the 20-to-4 defeat the United States cupsters hung on the Hurlingham Club quartet last Wednesday in their first London test match.

Pretty Good for an Old Man!

Tony Lazzeri, veteran Yankee infielder who has been termed through for the last four years, made his critics eat their words when he banged out three home runs Saturday and then came back Sunday to hit three more and a triple. Two of Tony's Sunday home runs were with the bases loaded and gave him the major league record for most circuit blows with the sacks loaded in one game. Lazzeri's three home runs and his triple accounted for 11 runs, breaking the former American league record of nine runs-batted-in held by Jimmy Foxx. Since Lazzeri hit a home run in Detroit last Thursday and was idle Friday, he has seven homers in four consecutive contests—another major league record.

BILL LEE FACES EDDIE NEWMAN AT BALL PARK

Former All-America Tackle Seeks 6th Victory on Mat.

Frank Speer offers two main bouts Wednesday night at the ball park in his weekly wrestling program. Bill Lee, heralded as the coming champion, and possessor of five straight victories since his recent debut into the professional wrestling game, will take on Eddie Newman, himself one of the better youngsters in the game today, in the feature match.

Dorr Roche, who was offered the bout with Lee but declined vigorously, is matched with Pat Fraley, former champion of the Pacific fleet, in the other 90-minute bout.

As aforesaid, these two matches are billed as a double main event, but the Lee-Newman scrap contains more local interest. Fans who remember Lee as a tackle at Alabama will be back to see him block out his opponent on the mat Wednesday night.

VENTURI BEATS ROTH.

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP)—Enrico Venturi, Italian holder of the European lightweight championship, tonight defeated Al Roth, hard-hitting Bronx lightweight, in a furious ten-round bout at the St. Nicholas Palace.

IT'S HOWARD STRAWN speaking, telling how he took up Prince Albert on that offer of "money back if not satisfied." Howard gets a big kick out of rolling P.A. "makin's" cigarettes. Towns should be able to win the event for the American Olympic team and should set an official world's record before the season is done.

All of which means the University of Georgia will have a special interest in the Olympic games.

A NICE BIT OF COACHING.

In connection with Spec Towns and his hurdling success, it should be said that his development is perhaps the finest example of athletic coaching which has been seen in the south.

Most athletic coaches have material which has had some high school experience. The football, basketball and baseball coach rarely begins with the raw product.

Spec Towns had never leaped a hurdle in all his life until Weems Baskin took him over. Baskin, a former champion hurdler for Auburn, taught Towns all he knows about hurdling. And he knows plenty.

The boy has developed the finest form in hurdling today. And Weems Baskin has done one of the finest jobs of coaching.

AVERAGE PRICE.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.

Atlanta spot cotton closed steady, middling unchanged at 12.25.

NEW ORLEANS, May 25.—(AP)—A squeeze in the May position that forced last-minute shorts to pay as much as 11.78 cents a pound to cover commitments featured dealing on the cotton exchange today.

The market as a whole made minor progress, gaining from 2 to 4 points on the day under the impetus of bullish weather developments and price-fixing in July and October.

The May option opened at 11.54, compared with its previous close of 11.54 bid, and fluctuated narrowly around this level during the early dealings. Then just before noon, when the position was to go off the board, shorts began to bid the position up until it went off at its high for the day of 11.78, $1.70 a bale above its previous bid price.

Approximately 1,600 bales were involved in the last-minute covering, according to trade reports.

July closed at 11.41, up 3 points, October finished at 10.42, December at 10.38 and January at 10.37. In the spot market middling gained 3 points to 11.71 on sales of 1,326 bale.

Aside from the flurry of activity in May the market was a quiet affair. Belief that Texas was getting too much rain and that the eastern section of the belt was receiving too little moisture, encouraged some speculative buying in the new crops.

A bullish consumption estimate by the New York Cotton Exchange Service, predicting a possible decline of 2,000,000 bales in the carryover by the end of this season also worked toward the constructive side of dealings.

Crop commentators expressed the opinion today that drenchign showers received in Texas over the week-end were detrimental to the crop at present. Some stations reported rainfall of more than four inches.

Port receipts 9,937; week 18,633; season 6,815,902; last season 4,318,343. Exports 16,148; week 19,238; season 5,409,129; last season 4,159,776. Port stocks 1,678,811. Stocks on shipboard at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston were 52,234; last year 79,015. Spot sales at southern market 8,073; last year 1,448.

COTTON PRICES GAIN ON N. Y. EXCHANGE

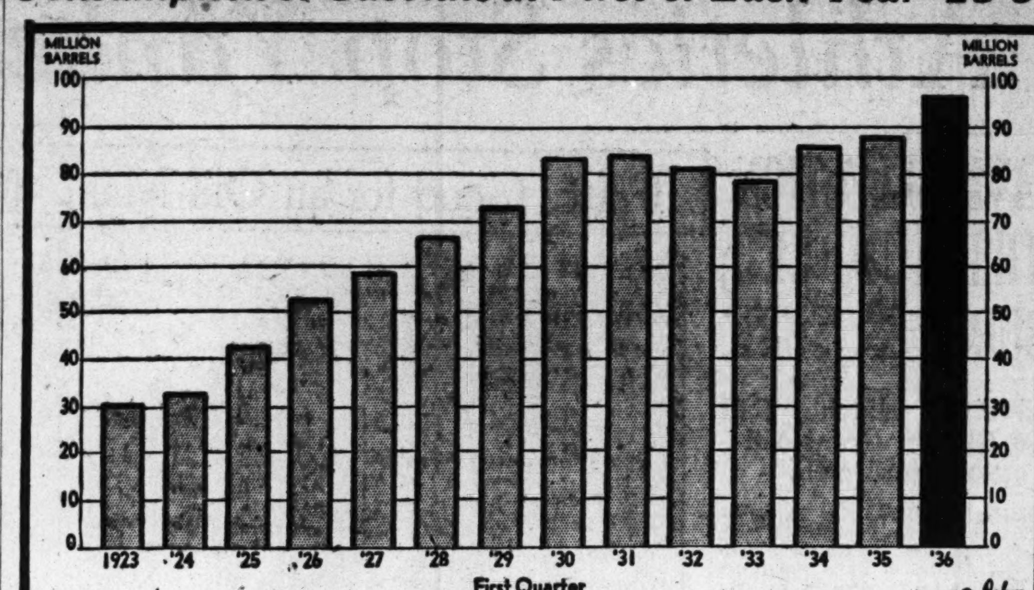

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP)—After showing net gains of about 5 to 8 points on unfavorable features in the weather news, cotton reacted partially under hedging and realizing today.

October sold up to 10.50 and closed at 10.46, with the general market steady at net advances of 1 to 4 points.

The early advance was based on steady Liverpool cables, reports of continued drouth in the eastern belt, and apprehensions that the southwest might be getting too much precipitation for this season of the year. Late realizing checked the upturn aided by some hedging.

Private cables attributed the relatively ruling at Liverpool to trade calling and local buying in the nearby months and speculative support of the new crops inspired by the continued dry weather in the eastern belt and fear of excessive rains in Texas. The detailed weather reports as published here showed very heavy rain in Texas over the week-end and there were apprehensions that if the wet weather continued, it might result in a shallow-rooted plant which would suffer seriously in the event of a dry, hot summer.

FORD MOTOR CO. PROFITS DECLINE

Earnings Equivalent to $1.03 Per Share on $5 Stock.

BOSTON, May 25.—(AP)—The privately owned Ford Motor Company made an indicated profit of $3,565,617 in 1935, a balance sheet filed with Massachusetts tax authorities showed today. The figure was $3,294,845 lower than the company's 1934 profit.

Massachusetts alone among the states compels the filing of such a statement, which affords the only public indication of the profits of the Detroit company. Statements of the Canadian Ford Company also are public record.

The profit figure was indicated in an increase of $2,701,259 in the profit and loss surplus account of $582,977,651, plus an increase of $864,358 in the reserve account, which stood at $10,961,346 as of December 31 last.

The figures did not indicate any dividends that may have been paid to the owners.

The company's profit was equivalent to $1.03 a share on the 3,452,000 shares, entirely held by Ford, his wife, and their son, Edsel B. Ford.

In 1934, the statement of the company indicated a profit of $6,860,562, equal to $1.98 a share on the same amount of stock. Losses of $3,480,331 were indicated in 1933.

BOLL WEEVIL DAMAGE SHOWS INCREASE IN '35

Climatic Influences Are More Destructive to Cotton Crops.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP)—Boll weevil damage to the cotton crop last year was slightly greater than in 1934 but the Department of Agriculture in its annual report said it was less than average.

Total reduction from a full yield per acre during the 1935 season from various causes was reported to have been 36.8 per cent of a normal or full yield. The reported reduction was 42.6 per cent in 1934, and 28.6 in 1933.

Boll weevil damage was 8.1 per cent, compared with 7.3 in 1934, and 9.1 in 1933. Loss due to other insects was 5.0 per cent, the highest percentage attributed to that cause in recent years.

Loss from deficient moisture or drouth was 9.2 per cent, compared with 20.7 in 1934 and 6.8 in 1933. Excessive moisture caused 3.7 per cent loss, compared with 1.9 in 1934 and 2.6 in 1933.

"Other climatic" influences, including floods, frost, heat and hot winds were somewhat more destructive than usual, contributing 6.5 per cent to the reduction in yield, compared with 7.3 in 1934 and 3.7 in 1933.

Plant diseases caused losses of about 2.2 per cent, approximately the same as in the previous three years.

Production of cottonseed was reported as 4,729,000 tons, compared with 4,282,000 in 1934.

Market Outlook

By MAX BUCKINGHAM. United Press Financial Writer.

NEW YORK, May 25.—(UP)—Traders continued apathetic toward the stock market today, despite tendencies toward price improvement.

The close was irregularly higher, prices easing slightly from their highs when opening demand was not carried through, with only 690,000 shares exchanged. This compared with 680,000 shares Friday.

The market is confronted with:

1. Uncertainty over the last-minute congress rush toward various must legislation, particularly the tax problem.

2. Some abatement in industrial operations.

3. Tendency of monied interests to remain out of the market in the present period of uncertainty.

The legislative problem is one of major influence. Some wealthy investors repeatedly are remaining out of the market through fear, curiously enough, that they may make money. The answer is entirely in the tax situation for they now have numerous tax problems in connection with their income and they do not know how much these may be magnified in the tax bill that congress must pass before it goes home.

Small operators are nervous. Margin changes have brought some increase in timidity. Floor operators are cautious in their plans.

In addition, the trend of industrial operations is anything but convoncing. At Buffalo today, for instance, steel operations reached a record high. At the same time the American Iron and Steel Institute reported a 1.5 point decline in steel works operations nationally to 67.9 per cent of capacity which carried the level to the lowest point since April 13.

Forecasts of automobile production continued good and there were bullish predictions on earnings for the motor car equipment makers, but some of the steel production decline—according to private sources—was based on the fact that automobile makers were not demanding as much steel.

Railroad issues offer no particular attractiveness. Carloadings have been improving and some western roads likely will profit from a larger spring wheat crop. Some roads also report good improvement in passenger traffic in the last fortnight. But the problem of increasing expenses along with increasing gross, the uncertainty over consolidation and labor plans, more than offsets the brighter side of the increased rail operations.

Monetary problems continue acute and will likely remain so until the foreign situation clears.

154 ESTONIANS GIVEN CONSPIRACY SENTENCES

TALLIN, Estonia, May 25.—(AP)—A military tribunal today sentenced 154 Estonian fascists to varying prison terms for an alleged conspiracy to overthrow the government.

Nine of the number were given 20 years each at hard labor. The other sentences scaled downward to two and one-half years.

The former minister of war, General Larka, and the former chief of staff, General Toervand, were sentenced to 15 years. Seven others, including former Foreign Minister Pusta, were acquitted.

Dr. Arthur Sirk, the Estonian fascist leader, blamed for hatching the plot, escaped into Finland.

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP)—The buying side in today's stock market contest had a little the best of it during the greater part of the session, but the finish was a bit indecisive.

The list put a rather fast foot forward at the opening, many of the leaders rose fractions to 2 or more points. The waiting profit takers then appeared and quoted values slipped back for losses in many instances.

The steels and industrial specialties more than held their own throughout. The former moved ahead in the face of the official steel mill operating estimate indicating the current rate is off 1 1-2 percentage points from last week.

The general run of news appeared to be satisfactory to the financial sector but, as during recent past sessions, traders bought timidly and the stock volume was again abnormally small.

Brokers stressed the lack of leadership, together with the failure of most leading issues to respond to the brightening economic picture, as the principal factors mitigating against the return of the public to the market.

The turnover for the day amounted to 699,730 shares. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 60.7. In fact, for the first time since September 28, last year, the composites of the industrials, rails and utilities were the same as their previous closing.

The lower steel output rate was not discouraging to the magazine Steel which said that demand was comparatively well sustained through orders from the heavy equipment centers as well as from farm machinery and allied manufacturers.

The consensus in the steel field was that steel operations may continue to slip until well into July, although the recession, barring untoward events, may be less than seasonal.

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP)—Narrow changes with the underlying tone fairly steady in most active groups ruled in the bond market today.

United States governments leaned to the offside, reflecting the absence of institutional and trading interest in anticipation of the June 15 financing plans, expected early next week; all divisions of the corporate market except rails were modestly higher, and the foreign department had steady sailing except for a sharp break in Polish government bonds.

By far, more attention was paid to the new $55,000,000 Brooklyn Edison Company issue, placed on sale today, than was given to existing obligations. The new bonds, priced at 101 1-2 and interest, were reported to have found ready buyers and to have attained a premium over the offering price in unlisted dealings. Proceeds from the issue will be used to retire present outstanding obligations bearing a higher interest coupon.

Corporate bonds ending fractions to around a point higher included Baltimore & Ohio 4 1-2s at 70, Columbia Gas 5s at 104 3-4, Laclede Gas 5 1-2s at 66 1-2, Chile Copper 5s at 103, and Penn Dixie 6s at 93 1-4.

Issues holding unchanged to a shade lower included Northwestern 4 3-4s, New York Central 5s, Southern Pacific 4 1-2s and Nickel Plate 5 1-2s.

Ts Associated Press averages ranged from an advance of .1 of a point in the industrials and utilties to a decline of .3 of a point in the foreign group.

Transfers of $9,137,000, par value, compared with $6,915,000 last Friday.

Industrial Specialties Lead Forenoon Rally; Transfers Equal.

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP)—Narrow gains and losses were about evenly divided in the curb marekt today.

The irregular finish followed mild forenoon improvement, particularly among industrial specialties. Trading was dull, transfers approximating 170,000 shares, the same as last Friday.

Lake Shore Mines proved a heavy spot among non-ferrous issues, dipping 2 1-4 points on light offerings. Fractional losers included Aluminum Company of America, American Gas & Electric, Gulf Oil and Sunshine Mining.

Issues maintaining a steady to slightly higher price range included Electric Bond & Share, Glen Alden Coal, Humble Oil, Pan-American Airways, Technicolor, Pioneer Gold and Commonwealth Edison.

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—The market still appears unable to absorb the stock offered in the 152-152 level (Dow-Jones Industrial) and a narrow trading market is in prospect.

FENNER & BEANE—We believe purchases of utility and department store stocks would prove well advised.

BEER & CO.—Monday marked the third successive session as the list has bettered its previous close. Although the actual gains have not been large nor the accompanying activity very heavy, technical considerations normally call for a period of irregular hesitancy following a three-day advance.

COTTON OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—Unanimous senate agricultural committee approval of the Smith Cotton Exchange regulation amendments lends uncertainty, wherefore we would withhold commitments for a recession.

FENNER & BEANE—Indications are that July will dominate the market for a time.

BEER & CO.—We favor purchase of new crop months on recessions.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO. TO DOBBS & CO.—We continue to expect increased buying on declines.

GRAIN OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—Tuesday being the last day for May pit trading, we would expect shorts to lend further technical strength.

FENNER & BEANE—We do not believe there will be any sustained demand for the new crop futures.

BEER & CO.—We prefer sales of wheat and corn at these levels.

DOBBS & CO.—Weather in all sections appear excellent for coming wheat crop which we feel will have a bearing upon new crop months after the May delivery has expired.

UNIFICATION IS VOTED AT METHODIST MEET

HIGH POINT, N. C., May 25.—(AP)—The Methodist Protestant church delegated to its board of administration today power to consummate a union with the Primitive Methodist church.

Both the Methodist Protestant and the Methodist Episcopal conferences have already approved a unification plan involving the "big three" of Methodism.

The Methodist Episcopal Church, South, will vote on the plan at its next quadrennial conference two years hence. The three churches have a total membership of about 8,000,000.

The Primitive Methodists have already approved the plan in principle and if the union of the three main branches of the Methodist church is effected, they would go in through absorption by the Methodist Protestant church.

The Primitive Methodist church has about 22,000 members.

TRIAL DATE IS SET FOR ACCUSED PAIR

PENSACOLA, Fla., May 25.—(AP)—Judge C. Moreno Jones today set June 4 as the date for the arraignment of Mrs. Mary Vann and Earl Travis in connection with an alleged railroad wreck death plot against the woman's engineer-husband, L. W. Vann.

The two are charged with conspiring to wreck the train in order to kill Vann, collect his insurance and be free to marry.

At the arraignment the trial dates will be fixed. Mrs. Vann and Travis will be tried separately.

DORRANCE EXECUTORS MUST PAY TWO STATES

WASHINGTON May 25.—(AP)—Executors of the estate of the late John T. Dorrance, multi-millionaire president of the Campbell Soup Company, lost today in the supreme court in their effort to keep from paying New Jersey $16,768,477 of transfer inheritance taxes in addition to more than $17,000,000 already paid Pennsylvania.

The tribunal refused to review a decision by the New Jersey court of errors and appeals upholding the levy. The executors contended it would be unconstitutional for both states to collect such a tax.

TENNESSEE VILLAGE REJECTS TVA POWER

TRENTON, Tenn., May 25.—(AP)—The Trenton city council today accepted a report of a council committee that the contract offered several months ago by the Tennessee Valley Authority, be declined.

Trenton was one of eight cities in west Tennessee TVA officials offered to hook up on a power loop. All have municipal distribution plants.

The council committee said acceptance of the contract would result in a possible tax increase of $1 or more per $100 assessed valuable on Trenton property.

TARZAN AND THE LEOPARD MEN No. 128
By Edgar Rice Burroughs

While Nkima sped through the forest on his mysterious mission, Nyalwa was finally humiliated by his comrades into risking an entrance into Tarzan's prison hut. Prodding ahead with his spear, he stepped aside. The five warriors crowded to the entrance behind him.

Suddenly the terrifying ape-cry burst from the captive's throat. Nyalwa bolted and collided with his comrades. They all rolled out on the ground in a screaming, grunting jumble. Then they scrambled to their feet and rushed back to the campfire for a consultation.

"He is still there," panted Nyalwa; "that is what I went to learn. I did what I said." "You should have killed him," sneered his rival, "but you failed. Now I will tell you a way. We will surround the hut and hurl our spears. The walls are thin. He will die!"

"Just what I was about to suggest," said Nyalwa. And now, after more argument, the little men crept back and encircled the flimsy hut where Tarzan lay helpless. While they awaited Nyalwa's signal, they took a firm stance and raised their poison-tipped spears!

HUMAN RIDDLES
That Have Vexed the World

By VINCENT TOWNE

KASPAR HAUSER—WHO WAS HE?

A mysterious personage was found leaning against a wall in the Bavarian city of Nuremberg in May, 1828. He was a youth of about 18, apparently an aristocrat. Blinded by the morning sun, he held his hands over his eyes. The police told him to move on, but he could not walk. They prodded him. He staggered and fell. Questioning him as to his identity, they found that he could not talk, so they carried him bodily to prison. It was evident that he was not an idiot. His face and demeanor bespoke inherent intelligence. Yet his inability to walk or talk was unfeigned. He was not deaf and his vocal organs were capable of reproducing any spoken word by repetition.

Terrified by Sounds.

The soles of his feet were convex, like those of an infant who has never walked. Every sound seemed to terrify him, as did the sight of the commonest objects. On hearing a bell ring he burst into paroxyms of weeping and the music of a street band caused him to swoon. Given a substantial meal, he turned from it with abhorrence and fell into convulsions. All that could tempt his appetite was hard bread and water. Some one sent him some toys to play with, but they caused him to cry with terror, until he caught sight of a wooden horse, which he snatched up with glee, clasping it in his arms and kissing it tenderly.

Letter Only Clue.

He was an enigma to the authorities. The only clue as to his identity was a letter found upon his person and purporting to have been written by a Bavarian laborer. It stated that the bearer had been found at the writer's door 16 years before, and inclosed was a note alleged to have been written by the youth's mother. According to this communication his name was Kaspar; he had been born April 30, 1812; his father was a captain in the 6th Chevau-leger regiment, at Nuremberg, and his mother was a poor girl unable to support him. There were grave suspicions that these letters had been written as a blind, inasmuch as the youth showed many evidences of aristocratic lineage.

Child Nobility.

He was evidently a child of noble blood whom some powerful personage had hidden away because his presence in his rightful station would have interfered with that person's reputation or ambition. He had evidently languished from infancy amid absolute darkness and silence, suffering imprisonment even more cruel than that of the celebrated Man of the Iron Mask. It was difficult to imagine any one so diabolically cruel as to deprive this child not only of light and sound, but of the power to walk.

One surprising discovery was made. At the sight of a pencil the speechless youth took it up and forthwith wrote "Kaspar Hauser" evidently a name given to him to disguise his real identity. He was unable to write anything else or to pronounce what he had written.

Educated.

In Nuremberg dwelt a kindly savant, Professor G. F. Daumer, who became interested in the mysterious youth, and took him to his home, hoping to develop his retarded mentality. With surprising rapidity Kaspar thereupon learned not only to walk and talk, but to read and write. Within a few months he was able to relate so much of his starnge history as he could remember. According to his story he had been confined all his life in a dark cell, penetrated only by a man whose shadow alone he could see and who came daily to wash him, dress him and bring him his sustenance, always bread and water. His only friend had been a wooden horse, and his jailer, although never speaking a word to him, had for some mysterious reason expended a year's effort in silently teaching him to write the name "Kaspar Hauser."

Released.

Finally, one night his keeper had entered his cell, blindfolded him, placed in his hand the letter later found upon his person, taken him to Nuremberg, and left him leaning against the city wall. That was all he knew of his strange history.

Professor Daumer's house soon became the mecca for thousands of persons who flocked there to see the mystery youth and hear his strange story. One day, within less than five months from the time when Kaspar was found leaning against the city wall, Professor Daumer was terrified to hear his interesting protege utter terrified cries fo help, and, rushing into the room he found Kaspar writhing upon the floor. Blood gushed from a wound in his forehead, and when revived the lad said that a man with a blackened face had stolen into the room, stabbed him and fled.

Hunt for Assailant.

The police scoured the country for the assailant, but without avail and it was now quite evident that the personage who had sought to hide Kaspar from the world had dreaded the notoriety which he was causing, and had sought to put hilm out of the way before his identity might be ferreted out. About this time the case attracted the attention of the very wealthy Lord Stanhope, of England, who adopted Kaspar and sent him secretly to Ansbach that he might be hidden safely from his enemies and be educated by the celebrated Professor Fuhrmann. After a few years, his education having been completed, Lord Stanhope arrived in Ansbach to take his ward back to England, where, it was planned, he should enjoy a life of ease, compensating him for the hideous persecutions of which he had been victim.

Received Mysterious Note.

On the day before that set for this happy departure for England, a stranger handed Kaspar a note requesting him to appear at a certain place and learn the secret of his origin. Without confiding the circumstances to Lord Stanhope, the young man proceeded to the place appointed. Soon afterward he terrified his guardian by staggering into his apartment with blood dripping from a knife wound in his side. Gasping the words, "Palace —Uzen Monument—purse!" he fell to the floor, dead. Acting upon this clue, Lord Stanhope hastened to the Uzen monument in the palace grounds and there found a purse of violet-colored silk, containing a slip of paper on which had been scrawled:

"Kaspar Hauser, born April 10, 1812. Murdered December 14, 1833. Know by this that I come from the Bavarian frontier on the river. These are the initials of my name. M. L. B."

Assassin Never Found.

A price of 5,000 florins was placed upon the head of Kaspar's assassin by Lord Stanhope, and for years the police strove to solve the mystery. But their efforts were futile.

Kaspar Hauser remains to this day, perhaps the most baffling enigma that ever vexed the mind of man.

Tomorrow—Virginia Dare.

PHYSICIANS DECLARE FIORENZA IS INSANE

Upholsterer's Helper Returned to Cell To Await Conclusion of Trial.

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP)—Termed "insane" by two psychiatrists John Fiorenza returned to his cell tonight to await conclusion of the trial in which the state contends the 24-year-old upholsterer's helped attacked and killed Nancy Evans Titterton in her Beekman place apartment last month.

Fiorenza heard Dr. James McCartney, a state psychiatrist, tell a general sessions jury e found Fiorenza to be "potentially psychotic" during an examination three years before the slaying of the attractive fiction writer.

As a result of four interviews between April 26 and May 15, Dr. Albert Crane, a neurologist, said he found the defendant suffering from "dementia praecox."

In a question which required 45 minutes to complete, Henry Klauber, defense attorney, asked Dr. Crane "whether Fiorenza, assuming he was in the Titterton apartment, was laboring under such a defective reasoning as not to know the nature of the act he was doing or whether it was wrong."

"Yes," answered Dr. Crane.

He added Fiorenza was "psychotic, synomymous with the medical term insane."

As the week-old trial neared an end, Klauber said he expected to call to the witness stand tomorrow Mrs. Josephine Vittorio, whom he described as a "very important figure in the case."

METHODISTS HEAR BIRMINGHAM MAN

Lay Leader Tells of Experiences; Ainsworth To Speak Today.

Harry Denman, business manager of the First Methodist church of Birmingham and lay leader of the North Alabama conference, was the featured speaker at the session last night of the Atlanta district conference of the Methodist church.

Denman delivered a talk in which Christian living both in professional contacts and in all activities of life were stressed. He recited his experiences as a lay leader in dealing with needy humanity and punctuated his remarks with brief human interest sketches.

Jere A. Wells, superintendent of Fulton county schools, presided. At the afternoon session 33 lay delegates to the annual north Georgia conference were elected. Additional delegates will be named today.

Bishop W. N. Ainsworth will address the conference at 11:30 o'clock this morning and the reports of committees and a business session will conclude the sessions.

DIXIE PAPER PLANT

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 25.—(AP)—The St. Joe Paper Company, a du Pont interest, filed incorporation papers today and announced a $7,500,000 paper mill will be constructed at Port St. Joe, Fla.

Edward Ball, of Jacksonville, president of Almours Securities, announced the purchase of 145,000 additional acres of land in Gulf, Calhoun, Franklin and Bay counties by Gulf Coast Properties, an Amours subsidiary. The concern now owns about 500,000 acres in northwest Florida.

Ball said the plant will employ about 1,000 persons and furnish work for 2,000 others in the timber lands. It will manufacture kraft liner board used in paper containers.

Construction of the plant will begin within 60 days, Ball added.

6 NEW JERSEY TOWNS THREATENED BY FIRE

BARNEGAT, N. J., May 25.—(UP)—A series of forest fires swept through Burlington and Ocean counties tonight, threatening to envelope six towns, including Barnegat.

The most precarious situation was at Warren Grove, near here, where 150 residents face loss of their homes unless a shift in the wind occurs.

Thirteen hundred volunteers were mobilized along many fronts to combat the surging flames, fanned by an offshore breeze moving about 20 miles an hour.

Fire wardens and civic authorities enforced strict precautions to save the towns. The endangered communities, beside Barnegat and Warren Grove, were Manahawkin, Parkerstown, Tuckerton and Sim Place.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 25.—(AP)—Governor Sholtz said he will appoint a United States senator tomorrow. He closely guarded today the identity of the man he has selected.

He never confirmed nor denied political speculation which put Scott M. Loftin, Jacksonville and Miami attorney, at the top of those considered.

The appointee will succeed the late Senator Park Trammell, and will serve until a senator is elected in November.

The Crackers touched Touchstone for 11 hits, three of which were secured by Hamel and two each by Hill, Hooks and Richards. And the Crackers turned in two sparkling double plays. But they also contributed some baseball of another color. It was one of those days. Every team has them—and sometimes on blue Monday.

Memphis collected the amazing total of 15 hits off three Cracker pitchers. Grace led the attack with four. Marquardt, Farrell and Luther got two apiece.

Luther (Bud) Thomas is the pitching selection for tonight. Uncle Bud will seek his seventh victory of the season in his third night start. The game is scheduled at 8:30 and it's ladies' night. The Crackers will be back in form. They never disappoint the ladies. Clem Dreiswerd likely will hurl for the Chicks.

THE SPORTLIGHT by GRANTLAND RICE

THE MAIN IDEA.

Spike was a wall-eyed geezer, long on the heavy eats,
No one took him for Caesar, Plato, Shelley or Keats;
His brow was low as the cavern, under the valley ground,
Low as the cellar tavern, where the dusty tongues are found.

But far away from the breadlines, star of a stirring game,
Spike had a grip on the headlines, known to a nation's fame;
At the show-down he was the last one to quiver or skid or flinch,
For Spike had a hop to his fast one, at "three and two" in a pinch.

Life is replete with tangles—fate is a barricade;
But as rewards slip past one, held in a routine clinch,
How is the hop to your fast one—at "three and two" in a pinch?

A NATURAL PUNCHER.

A number of somewhat skeptical readers can't figure out how Babe Didrikson, a girl weighing 132 pounds, can get such astonishing distance in golf. They argue that it doesn't make sense. Whether it makes sense or not, the Texas Babe is on even terms with all except the longest hitters. She can make 250 yards or better under normal conditions.

What's the answer? I can slip you several answers. She has a pair of strong hands and wrists. Her sense of timing is nearly perfect.

Some time ago I ran across Gene Sarazen. "Listen here," he said. "That friend of yours in Texas nearly killed me. I mean Babe Didrikson. I was talking to her one day and I pulled a wisecrack I thought was funny—but she didn't. So she hit me in the side with a left hook that traveled about six inches and I thought all my ribs were broken. And she was only kidding."

Gene didn't know that before her Olympic showing the same Babe had boxed with a well-known lightweight and inside of two rounds had his mouth and nose so badly split they had to stop the fight.

You have here part of the answer to her power in golf. Power is largely timed speed. The Babe can throw a baseball beyond 300 feet and this calls for suppleness as well as timing.

Before leaving for Australia after the open championship, Sarazen is planning a motion picture. The scene will be laid at his Connecticut farm. Two leading members of his cast will be Babe Didrikson and Helen Hicks. Part of the hazards used will be the lowing herd. Gene, Babe and Helen will pitch into milk pails in place of cups. Sarazen will prove in this picture the Babe can drive as far as any good amateur or most good pros. He will also have his cows insured against 250-yard drives.

The Babe would have made a star at any sport. She could easily have been one of the greatest women's tennis players or swimmers. But after trying out 12 or 14 varieti she finally decided to concentrate on golf. She recently turned in two 73's on a difficult test. Give her another year and there will be no other woman golfer even close.

One tough thing in picking the National league's all-star team is not picking most of the Cardinals. They can't very well push aside Dizzy Dean, Joe Medwick, Pepper Martin, Frank Frisch and Leo Durocher, to mention only part of the cast. The more you peer at this Cardinal lineup, the more you wonder just how they are going to be stopped.

BLACK CRACKERS IN NIGHT GAME

Atlanta's Black Crackers returned from Birmingham yesterday where Sunday they divided a double-header with the powerful Birmingham Black Barons, leaders in the Negro Southern league race. The teams were originally scheduled for a third game in Birmingham, but officials have switched the game to Ponce de Leon park for Thursday night.

This will be the first negro night game ever played in Atlanta and will bring together the first two teams in the league. The Black Crackers are considerably improved over their last appearance here, having added several new players, and, according to their manager, gave a crowd of 3,500 a pair of real performances Sunday, handing the Black Barons their initial defeat in the first game, 8-6. The second game score was 12-8.

Thursday night women will be admitted for 10 cents when accompanied by a paid escort. The game will start at 8:30.

bandaged. The pitchers are curving 'em outside and Poor Old Riggs can't do a great deal about it. He isn't hitting like he can hit. Like he'll hit in the weeks to come. (His lifetime average is .336.) But his presence in the lineup seems to have worked wonders with this outfit of mediocre looking apple knockers.

Maybe it's home town pride, or something, but here's hoping Riggs Stephenson, a gentleman and a squareshooter, can get the Barons up there—and keep them there.

Borotra, Bernard Beat British Pair

PARIS, May 25.—(AP)—England's Davis cup combination of George Patrick Hughes and Charles R. D. Tuckey were beaten today by Jeon Borotra and Marcel Bernard, of France, in the final round of men's doubles of the French hard-court tennis championships, 6-2, 3-6, 1-7, 6-1.

The 39-year-old Borotra led the French team to its surprising triumph. Borotra gave an exhibition of virtually perfect tennis and was given strong support by his 19-year-old partner. Tuckey's inability to win even half his service games counted heavily against the British combination.

Other singles results: Marion Miley, of Lexington, Ky., defeated Mme. Robert Thion de la Chaume, 1 up; Mrs. Maureen Orcutt Crews, of Coral Gables, Fla., defeated Mme. James Barton, 1 up; Mrs. Leon Cheney, of Santa Monica, Cal., defeated Mme. Gaston Decugis, 1 up, and Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite, Fort Worth, Texas, defeated Yvette Kapferrer, 3 and 2.

Except for Baxter Jordan of the Boston Bees, the major leaguers' leading hitters found the pressure too great yesterday, and three of the four who saw action lost ground in the race.

The two pace setters—Bill Terry, of the Giants in the National league, and Billy Sullivan, Cleveland catcher, in the American—were out of action, but the standings were unchanged.

DR. MELLER CLAIMS 'KIDNAPING' HERE

Atlanta Dentist Held on Montgomery Arson Charge Denies Statement.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 25.—(UP)—Dr. Leo H. Meller, 33, Atlanta dentist, charged tonight he had been "kidnaped by officers" in Atlanta and brought here forcibly "and without due process of law" to face an arson charge.

Meller was charged with arson and his bond was set at $1,000. He was held when he was unable to make the bond. The dentist was accused of attempting to burn a residence here.

"He came here willingly after confessing to officers," the solicitor said. "I don't know whether official requisition papers were filed, but there absolutely was no question of his being kidnaped."

BARBERS ON STRIKE IN NEW YORK CITY

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP)—Leaders of the International Barbers' Union predicted tonight that whiskers would grow in Wall Street tomorrow.

Anthony Merlino, union vice president, said that 6,000 barbers in 2,500 shops of the financial district and other lower Manhattan centers would fail to report for work as a means of enforcing a demand for $25 minimum weekly wages and a commission.

He estimated 23,000 barbers in the Bronx, Brooklyn, and the Times Square and West Side portions of Manhattan were absent from their chairs today.

The union also seeks additional holidays and a five-day week.

Humidity and temperature are so important in tea factories, it is believed air conditioning may improve quality of tea produced in less favorable climates.

Ex-Tech Halfback Returns to Plains

Norman Perry, one of the greatest halfbacks ever to play for Tech High school, will return to Auburn in the early fall, it was learned yesterday. Perry played on the Auburn freshman squad two years ago, but failed to go back last year.

Say Statements Tend To Discredit Work of Cell Openers.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 25.—(AP)—The National Probation Association called upon President Roosevelt and Attorney General Cummings today to stop J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, from issuing statements "destructive to the advancement of probation and parole."

The association, meeting with the National Conference of Social Work, adopted a resolution which said Hoover "has in a number of recent addresses indicated lack of knowledge of the purposes, methods and accomplishments of the probation and parole" and had used "unfair and misleading statements which have tended to retard the development of these important agencies for crime control."

Hoover has criticized the freeing of some criminals under parole or on probation and has said every agent of his department killed on duty was shot by a paroled criminal.

Finding public welfare services "still shamelessly political" in many states, Dean Edith Abbott, of the University of Chicago, called upon 9,000 organized private social service workers tonight to demand a civil service plank in every political party platform.
